Charge Of Sample Ballot Foulup

The Secretary of state was asked today by a candidate for Marin County supervisor to investigate complaints that many voters did not get sample ballots for today's primary election.

The county elections office, however, said it already had planned to investigate the complaints, and said much of the problem apparently was the fault of the U.S. Postal Service.

The sectional center postmaster, in turn, refused to accept any blame.

The bouncing ball of blame got started last night when Patricia T. Maginnis of San Rafael, a candidate in the Fourth Supervisorial District, filed a complaint in a night letter to Secretary of State Edmond G. Brown Jr. complaining that it was unfair to voters to weigh candidates and issues without sample ballot information, she asked that "corrective measures be taken."

Miss Maginnis, a medical technologist, told the Independent-Journal today that six of seven coworkers on her shift last night at Marin General Hospital had not received their sample ballots. She said that by "corrective measures" she meant an investigation.

"I am not trying to accuse anybody," she said, adding that she only got her own sample ballot in the past few days by telephoning the county elections office. "They were very nice," she said, and promptly mailed her a sample ballot.

County Elections Officer Peter C, Meyer said his office had "quite a few" similar complaints yesterday, and that in every case it was found that the voter had been sent a sample ballot. In many cases, he said. voters had not gotten their sample ballots because they had moved without reregistering.

In the case of Novato alone, he said, more than 1,000 undelivered sample ballots were returned to the elections office. Yet a spot check of these found in every case that the address was valid, he said.

A detailed investigation by his office will be made after the election, Meyer said.

He reported that almost 108,000 sample ballots were mailed by his office, "or one for every single voter in the county."

Hugh Cassidy, sectional center postmaster for Marin and Southern Sonoma, said Meyer's suggestion that the Postal Service was to blame was "something I just can't accept." He said he would investigate, however, when Meyer produces evidence of nondelivery of sample ballots.

The secretary of state's office, gearing up for a long night, was unable to comment on the night letter from Miss Maginnis.

A COOLING FOG ENDS SCORCHING WEATHER

A one-day heat wave in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties came to an end early today when cooling summer fog came in off the ocean, sending temperatures down dramatically.

Yesterday's scorcher saw the thermometer go as high as 101 in Terra Linda. At noon today the temperature in San Rafael was 71.

Other highs reported were San Rafael, 97; Woodacre, 100; San Anselmo, 96; Ross, 94; Novato, 99; Sausalito, 83, and Petaluma, 98.

Smog level readings also crept up with a "significant" amount of the nasty irritants being reported in San Jose and light smog in San Francisco.

In San Rafael smog crept up to the top of scale still considered clean air.

Marin Voter Turnout In Good Start; 70% Seen

Ballotihg in today's primary election generally got off to a good start throughout Marin.

Commuters lined up at many polls when they opened at 7 a.m. Polls will remain open until 8 p.m.

Significant returns should be reported by 11 p.m. and complete unofficial results for Marin may be known by 1:30 a.m., County Elections Officer Peter C. Meyer said.

A 70 per cent turnout of Marin's 106,244 voters was predicted yesterday by Meyer.

Election returns will be carried live from the Civic Center starting at 8 p.m. on radio station KTIM, 100.9 FM.

Voting apparently went smoothly at most precincts. In at least one case, however, poll workers violated county instructions and refused to allow a voter to ballot despite the fact his name was not on their rolls. The voter, Lee K. Morrison of 19 Elizabeth Way, San Rafael, presented his registration stub as required, but the precinct workers nevertheless refused to allow him to vote.

By the time the issue could have been straightened out, Morrison already had left home on business.

The turnout of voters in Southern Marin was nearly 25 per cent in some precincts in the first four hours. At Mill Valley Boy Scout Hall, 177 East Blithedale Avenue, 123 of 661 registered voters had voted. At Tamalpais Fire Station, 309 Poplar Street, 130 of 620 had voted.

At St. Hilary's Church, 765 Hilary Drive, Tiburon, 97 of 389 had voted, and at the Belvedere residence of Kimball S. Palm, 100 of 384 had voted.

Turnout also was heavy in Sausalito and Stinson Beach, but light in Marin City, where only 146 of 1,336 registered voters had cast ballots at two polling places in St. Andrew's United Presbyterian Church.

At Sausalito School District offices, 75 of 405 registered had voted, as had 89 of 407 registered to vote in Stinson Beach at the community center.

Precinct workers at the Fairfax Women's Club, 46 Park Road, reported 96 of 594 voters had balloted.

In San Anselmo, 70 of 455 registered had voted at the James J. Krahl residence, 60 Sequoia Drive.

San Rafael Boy Scout Hall workers reported that 119 voters had balloted out of 609 registered.

A slow turnout was reported in Novato, with 43 of 330 registered voting at the community house in the downtown area. At the Seventh-Day Adventist Church in San Marin, 35 of 225 had voted.

AWOL SAIGON GI

A Defector Turns Into Battle's Hero

PHU MY, South Vietnam (UPI) — An unnamed South Vietnamese soldier jailed for being AWOL by his own government, impressed as an ammunition carrier by the North Vietnamese and now back in a South Vietnamese jail is the real hero of the government victory here, a U.S. adviser said Tuesday.

The man is being held incommunicado somewhere near Phu My, a district (county) capital attacked last Friday by the Communists.

Government troops recaptured the town Monday, thanks mainly to information passed on by the soldier.

He defected 12 hours before the attack began and gave government and U.S. officers the full details of the impending North Vietnamese assault.

The officers have credited the soldier with saving Phu My and nearby Crystal Camp, headquarters of a South Vietnamese regiment.

"Only because of the intelligence we got from this soldier who defected from the North Vietnamese were we able to hit the NVA before they hit us and preempt their attacks," said Col. Phillip Kaplan, senior U.S. adviser to the government's 22nd Infantry division.

The defector's story began early in the Communist offensive, when he was wounded in early April while fighting on the South Vietnamese side near Hue. When he was released from the hospital he was given leave, and went to visit his family at Bong Son, north of Phu My.

The soldier overstayed his leave and was picked up and jailed by South Vietnamese military police as one of their last acts before they were run out of Bong Son by the North Vietnamese, leaving the soldier locked up.

The Communists assumed the man was a captured Viet Cong and treated him accordingly. He didn't argue with them.

After a brief stint as a laborer, hauling ammunition and food, he was taken to an indoctrination camp, where he received several days of propaganda pep talks.

Then he and 143 others were assigned to the 21st North Vietnamese Regiment, a section of the 3rd Infantry Division operating in heavily Communist - controlled Binh Dinh province, 250 miles north of Saigon.

Assigned to a specific battalion, the man and his Communist companions were briefed on the attack on Phu My, scheduled for midnight June 1. By a stroke of luck, he saw the detailed plans, including the timetable and order of battle.

He went to get a drink at a creek early last Friday morning, and just kept walking to Phu My.

The attack on Phu My and Crystal Base developed exactly as the soldier said it would, except that it started six hours late. The delay only aided the defenders.

South Vietnamese authorities haven't decided if the man is a hero or a criminal, so, in the meantime, he's back in jail.

Pitch Made For Airpark At Smith Ranch Facility

By NELS JOHNSON

Former Aviation Commissioner Benjamin R. Ostlind and 85 boosters of the Smith Ranch Airport urged the San Rafael City Council last night to convert the 100-acre private air facility north of Santa Venetia into a city operated smallcraft airpark. (Another San Rafael City Council story, page 12.)

Ostlind's plea came on the heels of a revelation that a Los Angeles based development firm is considering a mammoth residential complex for the airport site and adjacent lands.

According to City Mgr. James H. McCown, the Larwin Development Corp. of Los Angeles has approached city staff with a proposal to build 1,400 apartment, condominium and townhouse units on a 148-acre tract that runs behind the Marin Civic Center Veterans Memorial Building and along a portion of the Santa Venetia Channel.

The parel, which includes the Smith Ranch Airport, is now in the hands of a Midwestern bank as a result of a foreclosure proceeding, but the Larwin firm has an option on the property, according to McCown. "We understnad the status of this proposal is that it may well be coming to the planning commission through the formal application process in the near future," McCown said.

Ostlind, expressing outrage at the residential development proposal, told the council to give "urgent consideration" to acquiring the land "on which this only airport in San Rafael is built." He urged that it be turned into a recreational airpark composed of an airfield for small and corporate craft, plus a marina or small golf course.

Councilman John A. Miskimen said that the airpark plan was a "good proposal" and called for a study of necessary funding. Staff was instructed to look into funding methods and to determine the approximate cost of the land.

Ostlind said that state and federal funding programs could be tapped for much of the airpark development costs, and suggested the issuance of nonprofit corporation bonds to cover the original purchase of the land. But he offered no estimate on the total cost of his proposal.

Ostlind, who presented council with a petition signed by 85 boosters of the Smith Ranch facility, said that his group alone could and would "obtain complete subscription to required bonds for acquisition of the land." Many of the airport supporters filled the council chambers.

The Smith Ranch advocate said that aircraft sales tax and aviation fuel taxes would serve to fatten city coffers.

"As far as any detrimental effect to the neighboring areas is concerned, I am sure that those persons dedicated to stopping growth of housing and preserving open space can easily recognize the value of such an airport. . ." he said, adding that only one complaint had been filed because of airport operations in the last 30 months. But he admitted that some protest had been "stirred up by agitators before that."

Ostlind, long a spokesman for the facility, abandoned an attempt to gain commuter flights between the private field and San Francisco International Airport in 1969, after strong opposition from Santa Venetia and Gallinas Village residents. At that time, commercialization of the airfield was rejected by both the Marin County Planning Commission and the Marin County Aviation Commission.

Last night, Ostlind said that his proposal "should not be considered as a commercial airport," but encouraged the inclusion of a repair and fuel service, a motel and restaurant, plus provisions for aircraft sales, in the airpark.

Smith Ranch airport, primarily used by aircraft hobbyists, now houses about 35 planes. "It's a country airport," Ostlind said.

McGovern In Driver's Seat As Democrats Cast Primary Ballots

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — George S. McGovern, dismissed as a fringe candidate only three months ago, today was heavily favored to win the crucial California primary. A solid victory could trigger a steamroller leading to McGovern's nomination as the Democratic presidential candidate.

McGovern was expected to defeat Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey in a head-to-head collision between the two leading candidates for the nomination and possibly put to an end, for all time, the former vice president's hopes of becoming president.

McGovern also was favored to turn back Humphrey in the New Jersey and New Mexico presidential primaries and was unopposed in his home state of South Dakota.

At stake in the four primaries was a rich harvest of 415 delegates to the national convention, opening July 10 in Miami Beach, and McGovern was certain of adding to his leading total of 516.5 votes. It takes 1,509 to win the nomination.

The winner takes all 271 delegate votes out of California; New Jersey's 109 delegate votes are apportioned among the winners in congressional districts; in New Mexico, the top two finishers split the state's 18 delegate votes; and McGovern has South Dakota's 17 locked up.

Although the California primary was considered mostly a McGovern-Humphrey showdown, George C. Wallace has mounted a major write-in campaign.

Wallace, paralyzed from the waist down by the bullets of a would-be assassin, launched a massive media blitz and sent to California his wife, Cornelia, and his son, George Jr., to campaign on his behalf.

Two other candidates on the ballot, former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, gave up their personal campaigns. Yorty endorsed Humphrey Monday and McCarthy threw his support to McGovern. (See story, page 2.)

Also on the ballot are Rep. Shirley Chisholm, who has campaigned in California only sporadically; Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, once the favorite who pulled out of all primaries after disastrous defeats in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania; and New York Mayor John Lindsay, who bowed out after the Wisconsin primary.

President Nixon was assured of clinching the Republican presidential nomination by sweeping the California primary. He already has 633 delegate votes of the 674 needed for nomination and California will provide him with 96 more.

Supremely confident of winning, McGovern campaigned only half a day in California in the 24 hours before the polls opened, visiting defense workers south of Los Angeles and holding a rally in San Diego.

Then he boarded his chart-

Marin Supervisors Ask Halt Of AF Demolition

The Marin County Board of Supervisors agreed today to request the base commander at Hamilton Air Force Base to halt demolition of an aging building pending evaluation of repair costs. (For a base officer's description of the building, see story page 12.)

The board's action, which came on a 3-1 vote with supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste dissenting and John F. McInnis absent, was urged by Ben J. Ostlind of San Rafael who maintains the building would be ideal for a civilian air terminal.

Besides asking for the delay, the board directed the county building department to estimate repair costs along with engineers from Hughes Air West and Air California if they are interested.

The two airlines have expressed interest in the past in providing civilian air service from the base provided the federal government agrees to joint military-civilian use.

Baptiste, in opposing the action, said it amounted to the county taking action "without full public exposure."

Ostlind countered that Baptiste was trying a "delaying tactic."

As reported yesterday by the Independent-Journal, destruction of the building began several days ago and was brought to public attention by Ostlind, a long-time proponent of joint use.

The Marin County Aviation Commission, which will meet today at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center, is expected to discuss the demolition of the building.

Plan China Visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The two House leaders, Republican Gerald R. Ford and Democrat Hale Boggs, will leave June 23 for a two-week trip to China, they announced today.

Rezoning Of Area Surrounding Nicasio Delayed Till Mid-July

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County Planning Commission yesterday approved low density agricultural zoning for two large areas of southwest Marin, but failed to reach agreement on lands around Nicasio.

Lands approved for the new A-60 designation — limiting one new dwelling to every 60 acres — lie generally north of Bolinas in the Olema Valley and south of Muir Beach.

The commission's action, which must be ratified by the county board of supervisors, reclassifies the fourth of five sections of the county's sprawling agricultural preserve.

Rezoning of the fifth area, some 40,000 acres around the tiny farming community of Nicasio, was continued to July 17 after lengthy discussion in which the commission referred it back to staff for further study.

As with the other sections, yesterday's rezoning was recommended by the county planning staff to fulfill state law governing land use within the preserve.

The law — the Williamson Act — states that lands within the preserve must be zoned in a manner "compatible" with the agricultural industry.

The Nixons Cast Absentee Ballots

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President and Mrs. Nixon both cast absentee ballots in today's Republican primary in California, the White House announced.

Nixon expects a one-sided victory in his home state against conservative challenger Rep. John Ashbrook of Ohio.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren declined to say how the Nixons voted although it is certain the first family cast their ballots for the President.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Troops, Youths Battle

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — British troops battled rioting Protestant and Roman Catholic youths today in Belfast and Portadown, 25 miles southwest of the Northern Ireland capital.

The army said at least six persons, including a 14-year-old boy, were wounded by gunfire from unidentified sources during the disorders in the two cities.

A 'No-Fault' Windfall

BOSTON (UPI) — Massachusetts car owners will receive an estimated $30 million to $40 million in refunds from auto insurance companies under a court decision that was a victory for the "no fault" concept.

The Massachusetts Supreme Court, basing its decision on an excess profits statute, ruled yesterday insurance companies would have to reduce their 1972 compulsory auto insurance rates by 27.6 per cent and refund the difference to the insured.

Doubts Assassin Plot

NEW YORK (UPI) — A reported assassination attempt against two sons of ailing reputed underworld boss Joseph A. Colombo Sr. may not actually have occurred, a high police official suggested yesterday.

Deputy Chief of Detectives Seymour Silver said that the gunshot attack on a car carrying Anthony and Joseph Jr., may have been "imaginary."

"It appears now that all the shooting may have been done from inside the vehicle," said Silver. At least 18 shots were fired from the car in what was purported to be the latest shooting incident in the tangled Mafia affairs of the Gallo, Colombo and Gambino families.

Pollution Fund Call

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The secretary general of the U.N. Environment Conference called today for $200 million to set up an international agency for solving the world's pollution woes.

The sum is double the $100 million President Nixon asked for an environment fund to finance the proposed institution.

. Maurice F. Strong of Canada, secretary general of the 11-day conference — the first of its kind that began here Monday — called for the money in a working paper distributed to the 1,500 delegates from 112 countries.

He said the $40 million a year over an initial five-year period was needed to set up and operate the new but small agency to coordinate worldwide environmental assistance, protection and monitoring.

Hits Wiretap Decision

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III spoke out yesterday against a federal judge's recent decision that the wiretapping provision of the 1968 Omnibus Safe Streets and Crime Control Act is unconstitutional.

Gray, who made a quick tour of FBI offices in Philadelphia, Newark, N.J. and Providence, R.I., told newsmen in Philadelphia and Newark that U.S. District Judge Joseph S. Lord's decision last Thursday "may have reached an erroneous result."

Second Pollution Alert

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Dr. George E. Hardy Jr., Jefferson County health officer, declared an air pollution alert yesterday for the second time in four days.

Hardy had declared an alert Friday, invoking for the first time the state's new air pollution control law.

Hardy halted the first alert Sunday when the level of air pollution dropped below 375 micrograms of particulate matter per cubic meter of air.

Lon Nol Is Winner

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — The Cambodian government announced today that incumbent President Lon Nol easily won the country's first presidential election with more than 60 per cent of the vote.

The president's two opponents, former National Assembly Chairman In Tam and former law school dean Keo An, polled 21.89 per cent and 17.24 per cent respectively in the Sunday balloting, according to the unofficial countrywide count announced over national radio.

Heavy Pollution Fines

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) —Alabama's 1971 water pollution control law provides for fines ranging from $100 to $10,000 per day for violation of water pollution regulations. The state passed its first water pollution control act in 1949.

Sex Bias Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate yesterday passed, 23-6, legislation declaring it against public policy for a public school to refuse employment on the basis of sex or to ask questions relating to the applicant's sex.

Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, jokingly asked for a "no" vote because "we ought to keep sex out of the schools."

The measure by Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, now goes to the Assembly.

MASSACRE DEATH MOURNED

Members of the family of one of 16 Puerto Rican pilgrims killed May 30 at Israel's Lod Airport wept yesterday over his casket shortly after the arrival of the bodies at San Juan aboard a U.S. Air Force jet. Hundreds of relatives and friends gathered in memory of those killed in the airport massacre.

Yorty Pulls Out In Support Of Humphrey

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Mayor Sam Yorty pulled out of today's California Democratic primary, urging his supporters to vote for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey as the only presidential candidate with a realistic chance to stop "the McGovern juggernaut."

Yorty appealed to supporters of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace to join the "stop McGovern" front. The Wallace campaign refused.

"Our Democratic party is threatened with suicidal radicalization by Sen. George McGovern's lavishly financed campaign of deception and demagoguery," Yorty said in announcing his endorsement Monday.

"Sen. Humphrey appears to be the only candidate in a position to prevent the radically sparked, money-powered McGovern juggernaut from taking California by storm before the voters wake up to what is happening to them."

"It would help if the supporters of Gov. Wallace would give up their futile write-in campaign and help us prevent the radicalization of the Democratic party in California," Yorty said.

Humphrey said the mayor's endorsement came as a surprise. "I hadn't any indication," he said. "I'm pleased. It was very helpful."

The manager of the Wallace campaign in Southern California, John Grainer, retorted that he was surprised Yorty endorsed Humphrey instead of throwing his support to Wallace.

Sierra Club Becoming Front To Big Business, Nader Says

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ralph Nader contends the Sierra Club, one of the nation's most venerable and largest conservation groups, is "rapidly turning into a front group for business."

Nader's charge brought a sharp retort from the California-based club. Its Sacramento lobbyist, John Zierold, said Nader's linking the organization to business interests was the "ultimate refinement of folly." He said Nader's charges were "outrageously inaccurate."

Nader at a Washington news conference Monday faulted the club for failing to take a public stand on Proposition 9, a proposal on California's primary election ballot today.

The proposal would impose strict environmental safeguards in the state—placing a five-year moratorium on construction of atomic power plants, banning the use of DDT, prohibiting oil drilling in tidelands and imposing harsh penalties for any kind of air pollution.

The consumer advocate said the Sierra Club should have taken a public stand because the proposition dealt with a "key issue" in its area of interest.

Nader said he had asked the Public Relations Society of America to investigate the public relations firm of Whitaker Baxter of San Francisco, which has attacked Proposition 9 on behalf of industrial clients. He said the firm had shown a "callous disregard" of professional ethics.

South Vietnam Troops Take Kontum

SAIGON (UPI)—A 2,000-man force of South Vietnamese troops today recaptured the embattled provincial capital of Kontum, which the North Vietnamese penetrated early in their offensive that began March 30.

Military spokesmen said government troops stormed two Communist strongholds in the city and drove the North Vietnamese out of the city. The spokesmen said the South Vietnamese, backed by U.S. helicopter gunships, cleared the entire Central Highlands city of North Vietnamese commandos holed up in three pockets since May 26. Government forces over the past weeks have slowly retaken ground in the battered city and spokesmen said today it was back in government hands.

The Saigon command claimed 166 North Vietnamese were killed this morning in the attacks against the two remaining Communist pockets inside the city. By mid-afternoon, the command said, all Communist resistance in Kontum had been wiped out.

It was the second major government victory in two days. Monday, South Vietnamese troops, acting on intelligence supplied by a Viet Cong deserter, routed Communist forces from the district capital of Phu My.

Spokesmen said today U.S. fighter-bombers Monday hit railroads and bridges in North Vietnam in 220 bombing raids. The bulk of the targets were roads and railroads between Vinh, the country's second largest port, and the Ho Chi Minh trail through Laos to the southern battlefields.

U.S. Navy fighter-bombers also hit a railroad switching yard midway between Haiphong and Hanoi, triggering a "large secondary explosion," U.S. spokesmen said.,

North of Vinh, warplanes from the aircraft carrier USS Saratoga scored two direct hits on the Phu Dien bridge on Highway 1, spokesmen said. In the same area 130 miles south of Hanoi, Saratoga pilots "dropped two spans of the Qui Vinh railroad bridge" on North Vietnam's main north-south rail line that goes into China along Highway 1.

Another railroad bridge on the line from Vinh south to the Ho Chi Minh Trail was destroyed when pilots from the Saratoga dropped the middle span, the U.S. command said.

Closer to Saigon, Communist forces shelled the district capital of Duc Hue, 36 miles northwest of the South Vietnamese capital, killing one civilian and wounding three others, the Saigon command said.

Just outside the Hau Nghia provincial capital of Bao Trai, 25 miles northwest of Saigon, a series of skirmishes left 24 North Vietnamese dead and 12 South Vietnamese troops wounded, sources said.

In today's battle for Kontum, spokesmen said only one South Vietnamese soldier was killed and another wounded.

The attack was backed by artillery strikes and heavy raids by U.S. helicopter gunships, spokesmen said.

Watchdogs Of Congress Hint Widespread Interest Conflict

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A citizens' group says about one third of the House's 433 members are involved in businesses and law firms that could be potential conflicts of interest with their legislative duties.

The group called the National Committee for an Effective Congress (NCEC) said because of poor information about the House members and virtually useless information about senators there were indications that the percentage is even higher.

NCEC said the congressmen with outside interests should end them, noting that two-thirds of the "members apparently have found no inconvenience or hardship in refraining from such outside activities."

NCEC said thet last year 16 congressmen withdrew from the practice of law.

NCEC offered the following as examples of potential conflict of interest positions:

—52 participate in the practice of law, either maintaining an office or holding a partnership, "or some looser association."

—41 receive income as directors, chairman or officers or otherwise serving banks and savings and loan associations subject to government regulation.

—23 have relationships with insurance companies, mutual funds and real estate firms.

—65 have "close affiliations" in oil development, advertising and broadcasting media, farming "and a variety of industrial enterprises."

Several members were involved in more than one category.

NCEC said that its findings were based on financial disclosures for 1971 filed by congressmen with the House Ethics Committee. It said that better information could have been compiled if the House required full disclosure of financial interests by members.

Although the House information was restricted, NCEC said the Senate rules on disclosure "are so limited as to preclude any meaningful analysis."

Saving In Ohio

CINCINNATI(UPI) — Hamilton County, Ohio, has the largest number of savings and loan institutions of any county in the United States. The county, which includes Greater Cincinnati, has 160 savings and loan offices.

Angela Relaxes; Plans To Ballot

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)— Angela Davis Monday enjoyed her first full day free from her 13-week murder, kidnap and conspiracy trial by basking in the sun, swimming and relaxing.

The 28-year-old black militant escaped to the privacy of a friend's home following two Sunday night parties, one public and one private, to celebrate her acquittal on all charges in connection with the Marin County shootings of 1970.

She planned to vote in California's primary election today in Santa Clara County where she has been a resident since her trial was moved last December on a defense change of venue request from San Rafael. Miss Davis sipped champagne with members of the all-white jury Sunday night before attending a loud public celebration at a nightclub-bowling alley.

After Sunday's verdict, the avowed communist said she would devote her time from now on to helping free political prisoners and oppressed people.

Miss Davis said she has no immediate plans except to take a vacation. She has been on bail since her trial began Feb. 28, but had been unable to leave the area without special written permission.

The jurors were ordered to make no public comment on their 13 hours of deliberation because of the pending case of Ruchell Magee, a former codefendant of Miss Davis whose trial was separated.

Magee is charged with pulling the trigger of the shotgun tied to the head of Judge Harold Haley Aug. 7, 1970.

Funds Lacking For Novato Parks

By FRANK FARRARA

The Novato City Council and the city parks and recreation commission spent a frustrating evening last night trying to reconcile long-range plans for parks and a lack of cash.

Commissioners seeking an override tax of 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation to finance capital improvements faced a council that told them funds were limited.

The commission had recommended a capital improvements program of $216,000 and City Mgr. Charles A. Brown has recommended $100,000 partially supported by a 6-cent override rate, the same as this year.

Brown explained that part of the program would be financed with revenue from the city's recently established bedroom tax, estimated to bring in about $40,000 in the 1972-73 fiscal year.

Commission Chairman Walter W.Vater midway through one joint meeting said he believes the commission has been "an errand boy and rubber stamp" rather than a long-range planning group. Its job, he said, should be to give the council a long-range plan "reflecting the needs of the comtion site in the Ignacio area, but "understood the budget difficulty." She said she would like to see an "acquisition such as O'Hair."

Recreation Director Edward W. Adams said he would apply to both the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the state Land and Water Conservation Fund for funds toward purchase of the O'Hair property.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said the city is now revising its general plan and the planning commission is working on the basis of a population of 70,000 to 80,000 in the Novato area by 1990, well below the 174,000 projected population in the current plan.

He suggested that long-range planning for parks and recreation should consider this new population goal.

munity," even if the community doesn't realize these needs. He apologized for his "emotionalism," but said he regarded recreation as being as significant as sewers or roads.

Mayor Wayne Sartain replied that parks and recreation was allocated 28 cents out of the city's total 1971-72 tax rate of 95 cents per $100 assessed valuation. . ."no small amount."

"I think a 24-cent increase is unrealistic," said Councilman Fred F. Ruegg. "I think we have to operate on the present rate, and develop parks we have now rather than acquiring additional land."

Much of the discussion was about the commission's recommendation to allocate $100,000 toward purchase of the 67-acre O'Hair property at the southwest corner of Novato Boulevard and Sutro Avenue for a major community park.

Ruegg said the fact is that money is limited "and people are just up to their ears in taxes." He suggested that the O'Hair property purchase, estimated to total $500,000, be put on the ballot "and see if the people will buy it."

Commissioner John Kassenbrock said the city would "have to do something in a short time" about acquiring a major park site "or abandon the concept." Land of suitable size for such a park won't be available much longer, he said. In substantial agreement were Councilman David Price Jones and Commissioner Geoffrey J. Bywater, runnerup in the recent council election.

Councilman Dorothy P. Young said she favored establishing city tennis courts, another swimming pool and a recrea-

Prior to meeting with the parks and recreation commission, the council discussed general plan revisions with the planning commission.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said the commission was working on the theory that the population of the North Marin area, now 43,000, should be from 70,000 to 90,000 by 1990.

Quesada questioned whether this projection was realistic because it would be based on growth of 1,500 persons a year until 1990, and he believed that growth "would be closer to 2,000 to 2,500 a year," in the next several years.

Sartain asked how many housing units have been approved in the area, but not constructed, and Mattson said 11,885, representing a population of 36,000.

Mattson was asked with 43,000 persons in the area and 36,000 potential, how the city could plan for 70,000.

Some of the previously approved housing plans will have to be reevaluated, Mattson said. "It's absolutely mandatory these be revised.

The council scheduled a hearing at 8 p.m. June 22 at the Novato Community House on the proposed housing element to the Novato Area General Plan.

The council also scheduled a series of hearings on the operating budget starting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the community house.

The schedule is: June 12, 14 and 15 at 7:30 p.m.; June 16, 9 a.m. to noon, 1:30 p.m.; to 5 and 8 to 11 p.m.; June 17, tour of projects, 9 a.m. to noon; June 19, 7:30 p.m.; June 21, 8 p.m., public hearing; June 26, public hearing, and June 27, adoption.

Reprieve For Lagoon Birds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A reprieve has been granted to the ducks and black swans of the lagoon at the Palace of Fine Arts.

About 100 waterfowl had been ordered executed following the discovery of a rare Asian disease that had killed about 40 birds. Local medical experts made a last minute appeal Monday for more time to see if the remaining birds could be saved.

"Medical experts in San Francisco claim there is no need to destroy the animals at all since there has not been a death in the lagoon for over 30 days and the incubation period for the disease is only three to five days," said State Sen. George R. Moscone of San Francisco.

Man Arrested For Extortion Try At Casino

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—A suspect who demanded $50,000 on the threat of blowing up a plush casino was arrested when he arrived to pickup the payoff under a big rock east of here, police reported Monday.

The suspect was identified as Atone Souza, 50, Halfway, Ore.

Chief security officer at the casino, Chuck Kruse, followed telephone directions on delivering the money. He left a bag under the rock as demanded.

The alleged extortionist, however, got two surprises. Not only was he arrested after he removed the bag, but inside was only a grilled cheese sandwich and three candy bars.

Police said a man had earlier telephoned Harrah's Club Sunday and warned that a bomb had been planted and would be set off by remote control unless the ransom was paid.

Town Meeting On Assessments Sought For Belvedere, County

The Belvedere City Council decided last night to see if a town meeting can be arranged for the county assessor to explain assessment processes to residents. Assessed valuation in the city has increased 250 per cent in the last nine years.

Willard G. Pittman said Belvedere's assessment increase this year had averaged 11.6 per cent, compared to 14 per cent in Tiburon, 6 per cent in Ross and 1 per cent in Corte Madera.

"Our great problem is the high turnover of property," he said, "if someone is crazy enough to pay $100,000 for a $15,000 house then all the other assessments go up."

Setting the first budget hearing for June 21, Mayor Thomas S. Price said Belvedere's assessed valuation has increased in the past nine years from $8.4 million to $20.8 million.

"To balance the impact of increased assessment we have decreased the tax rate from $2.32 to $1.70 per $100 assessed valuation. However, the per capita tax bite has increased over 40 per cent," Price said.

City Mgr. William L. Cavalli was instructed to invite county assessor Bert W. Broemmel to address a town meeting. And Price suggested that local residents with financial expertise help study the feasibility of long-range financing of large capital projects — including updating and enlarging water mains, reconstruction of certain roads and acquisition of open space.

A group of Acacia Avenue homeowners complained that density restrictions for apartments suggested in the Livingston and Blayney planning report were too lenient and should be reconsidered and to ask that parking restrictions be written into town ordinances for Acacia Avenue.

The council voted to discuss both requests at the planning commission meeting Monday. In an effort to stop speeding within the city, the council decided to install an experimental "rumble" strip of five raised stripes on San Rafael Avenue near Edgewater Road. The stripes, costing $28 each, would leave a corridor between the curb for bike riders.

Councilman David E. Bordon suggested stripes also on Lagoon Road, but the council decided to experiment first on San Rafael Avenue.

The Belvedere City Council Also:

DOWNTOWN MARSH — Endorsed the Marin Audubon Society's efforts to conserve the marsh in Tiburon.

CABLE TV — Heard a progress report by Cable T.V. of Marin Inc., that underground installation of cables should be completed within 10 days.

APPRECIATION — Expressed the council's appreciation of George V. Banning's service as a planning commissioner for 12 years, nine of them as chairman.

TREE SPRAYING — Accepted a recommendation by Pieter Myers of the environmental committee that insecticidal spraying of city trees be avoided; instead pines on Lagoon Road should have scale infection treated by controlling ants and minor pruning, and elms on San Rafael Avenue should be left unsprayed since they show no signs of elm beetle.

WOODLAND LANE — Voted to accept a low bid of $5,900 for Woodland Lane Improvement, Mayor Price dissenting.

SPEEDING — Heard Police Chief John W. Jaeger report that the new stop sign on Marin and San Rafael avenues was not proving as successful as had been hoped in cutting speeding. A patrolman had issued six warnings to speeders on San Rafael within a few hours.

LIBRARY — Voted to support a proposal to expand the county library service for Belvedere-Tiburon in premises adjacent to the post office vacated by H. C. Electronics.

VOTER REGISTRATION — Authorized voter registration at the city office for the convenience of residents.

SWIMMING POOLS: — Deferred a decision on allowing bypassing obtaining a use permit for construction of swimming pools without superstructures or retaining walls until the planning commission meeting Monday.

Two Hurt In Cycle Accident

Two Vallejo residents were injured at 10:30 p.m. Saturday in a motorcycle accident on Petaluma-Point Reyes Road, less than one mile south of Nicasio Road, the California Highway Patrol reported yesterday.

William L. Wright, 35, was treated at Kaiser Hospital in San Rafael for injuries to his left wrist and left hand.

A passenger on his motorcycle, Carolyn Sue Twigg, 24, was reported in poor condition in the intensive care unit of Marin General Hospital with a head injury, broken collar bone and broken vertebrae in her neck.

The accident occurred, said the patrol, when Wright's attention was diverted to his cycle's rear wheel. The cycle drifted to the right and struck the curb.

Equipment Stolen From Sailboat

Four winches and a depth finder valued at a total of $699 were stolen between 6 p.m. May 24 and 8:35 a.m. May 25, Sausalito police reported.

The items were taken from a sailboat owned by Ronald Anderson while the vessel was berthed at Anderson's boatyard in Clipper Yacht Harbor.

Congress Planning Check Of Tire Claims

By ROBERT P. HEY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

WASHINGTON — Are your car tires growing bald?

If so, you're probably scanning tire ads that promise:

"Exact mileage."

"Unexcelled traction."

"Double the mileage of most regular tires."

"Improved high-speed performance and extended tire mileage."

Are claims like these on the level? Or are they — like what's in a tire — plain old hot air? That's what Americans probably wonder as they sift through the welter of claim after unsupported claim.

The U.S. government wonders, too. That's why it is asking 18 makers and distributors of auto tires to provide it with documentation to support the advertising claims of 75 brands of car tires. It has given the firms 60 days to produce. There are so many contradictory claims on the market that many here suspect that, although the government scrupulously has avoided saying so, some of the claims — like the tire — are inflated indeed.

But no one's sure that the government, and the public, will know much more after the tiremakers have provided their information than they know now. The reason is that this advertising documentation program of the government's has been a big disappointment.

Even the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), which runs the program, says some 60 per cent of the information manufacturers thus far have provided has been so technical, vague, or irrelevant that it wasn't any good to anybody.

The commission began the program late last summer and to date has asked for documentation of specific ads for half a dozen kinds of products. When the commission made available to the public the responses it had received from makers of airconditioners, commission staff members in charge of going over it admitted privately that most of the material was so technical they couldn't understand it.

The commission says the aim of the program is educational — to make this documentation available to the public. Then the public theoretically, is able to determine whether or not the advertising claims are supported by fact.

The commission does not analyze or interpret the information it receives. It says it hasn't the money or the staff to do that, and adds that it hope consumer groups or newspapers will do it instead.

Consumer groups say disgustedly that's buck-passing. The material undigested is useless, they charge. They think the FTC should ask Congress for money to do the job right. Neither consumer groups nor newspapers have anywhere near the necessary money, staff, or time, they point out. Besides, consumer advocates charge, the FTC shouldn't half-do a job — it should carry it all the way.

Two moves are afoot to change the program, although neither will come soon enough to help consumers.

The first — and the spur that causes the second — is the likelihood of congressional action next year. Already this year the Senate consumer subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, has held several hearings on the issue. It was at one hearing the FTC admitted 60 per cent of the documentation manufacturers send isn't useful.

But the commission then turned around and asked Moss for more time — some nine months — to study the program further. He agreed. All he was trying to do this year anyway was raise the issue, and build a record that showed the inadequacy of the present program — a necessary foundation for the congressional action he will seek next year.

Actually Moss might be able to ram through the Senate this year his "truth-in-lending" bill, designed to improve the situation. But there would be no time for House action, and the Senate is too busy now to waste time on bills with no chance of becoming law. Thus Senator Moss has granted the FTC nine months to reconsider its program.

His truth-in-lending bill would require that manufacturers supply to anyone, on request, specific and relevant information about the advertising claims made for their products — in language readily understandable. This is the direction in which the Congress will move next year.

Meanwhile the commission, under this congressional prod, says it is considering ways to change its present program. It says no specific changes have yet been decided. And they won't say what ones are under consideration.

While the FTC reassesses, the program — whatever its value — goes on. Previously a few of the manufacturers have made an effort to provide documentation that was pertinent and understandable. The commission, not to mention consumers, hopes others will take the hint. If manufacturers have the facts to back up their claims, consumer groups think, that should even be good business.

Anyway, Congress, the FTC, and auto owners will be interested in the kinds of documentation the tiremakers roll in, 60 days hence.

'Busing' Holds Up Code Word Book

By RODERICK NORDELL
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

The election year headlines on "busing" have forced the nation's senior specialist on "code words," Dr. Wayne Cipher, to hold up publication of his latest book, "Code Words of the Future."

"All of us in the code word game had written off 'busing' years ago," he explains to an interviewer in the Code Collector's Newsletter. "We'd heard that a few small-fry local politicans had cashed in on it as a code word to signal voters as to where they stood on desegregation and the courts. But we never thought 'busing' had the charisma to be named as a code word on the national level."

What has changed your mind, Dr. Cipher?"

"Things like the Boston Globe editorial on the President's big anti-busing message, for pity's sake: '"Busing" has become a code word, and the President surely had to know this and take advantage of it.'"

"Do you agree?"

"As a code-word specialist, I don't know the facts. But if 'busing' is getting this kind of editorial attention, must we also face a return of 'law and order,' 'crime in the streets,' and other expressions alleged to have been code words? It could undermine my book's extrapolations toward a new generation of possible code words for the future."

"Any examples?"

"Yes, well, I think we're going to see 'recycling' become a good, strong code word in the next couple of years. As the resistance to court-ordered conservation grows, a politician can make hay with a line like, 'No recycling for recycling's sake.'"

"Incredible."

"Another code word to watch for is 'day care center.' By attacking forced day care centers — even if no one has suggested forced day care centers — a candidate identifies himself to anyone worried about keeping women's lib in its place."

"Fantastic."

"And then there's 'oil depletion allowance.' You won't need to be a demagogue to get some code word mileage out of that one with the make-the-rich-pay-their-share crowd."

"So 'liberals' can use code words, too?"

"Anybody can. Have you been reading 'Quotations from Chairman Mao Tse-tung' lately?"

"Not since I saw 'The Red Detachment of Women' on NBC."

"I'm serious. Read where Mao says, 'We are advocates of the abolition of war, we do not want war; but war can only be abolished through war . . .' Obviously 'peace' is going to be used by somebody as a code word to appeal to the pro-war vote."

"Suppose all your code word predictions come to pass. How do you explain the public's willingness to accept them?"

"It's conditioning from infancy. Every family has its code words for topics that are unmentionable or used to be unmentionable. And certain wives know that when certain husbands say, 'May I help with the dishes?' it is code for 'Is it OK if I finish the paper in peace?'"

"And this has spread from the home to the hustings?"

"Yes. To use a code word correctly is to identify oneself as a member of the 'family,' whether domestic or segregationist, integrationist, feminist, male chauvinist, or whatever. Thus a candidate may try to speak the code of voters he hopes will ally themselves with him."

"Too bad all this information had to be withdrawn from publication, Dr. Cipher. Have you actually been court-ordered not to print your book?"

"No, but a code word to the wise is sufficient."

Indictment On Murder Charges

The Marin County Grand Jury last night indicted Edward Davies Pardington in connection with the murder of a Bolinas bartender-painter last month.

The 36-year-old drifter is to appear in Marin Superior Court Monday on the murder indictment.

He was arrested in Berkeley May 15, two days after Joseph Anthony Costello, 33, was found on a Bolinas beach with his throat slashed.

Sheriff's deputies said the two men had been quarreling because Costello gave Pardington, formerly of North Carolina, a place to stay, but then evicted him.

Price Of Gold In England At $60

LONDON (UPI)—The price of gold hit a new peak and edged closer to $60 an ounce on the free market today.

When the five firms which operate the market met to set the price guideline for the morning session they fixed the price at $59.75 an ounce, a record for an official fixing and 20 cents an ounce above the closing price Monday.

Dealers said the higher price mirrored opinions about a higher price for the metal rather than reflecting the actual volume of business. The market stayed very quiet, they said. Sellers were still declining to part with the metal and this kept prices at record levels.

Innocent Plea To Fund Scheme

Albert Vierra Alves, 44, of Novato has pleaded innocent to a deposit and withdrawal scheme he allegedly used to get money from a Novato bank in 1970.

A preliminary hearing on felony counts of having a fraudulent check and grand theft has been set for next Tuesday.

According to the information filed against Alves, he deposited a check for $8,545 then withdrew $4,000 in cashier's and travellers checks and $300 cash on the fraudulent deposit in May 1970. He was arrested last month on a warrant.

$8,000 Worth Of Clothes Taken

Approximately $8,000 worth of women's clothing, including dresses, slacks, jackets and blouses, was stolen Sunday from Chelsea Gear, 595 Bridgeway in Sausalito, police said today.

Officers said the burglary was discovered about 4 a.m. yesterday by an officer on foot patrol in the downtown. Entrance had been gained by prying locks on the firm's front door, police reported.

Pleads Guilty To Joyriding

An 18-year-old Forest Knolls resident, who had been charged with felony car theft, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced charge of joyriding and was sentenced to five days already served while the case was pending.

Judge David R. Baty imposed the sentence on Shannon Rory Doyle, who was arrested May 22 riding a motorcycle on Montezuma Avenue. The vehicle was stolen from a military policeman at the Presidio of San Francisco, according to sheriff's deputies.

468 Trapped By Mine Explosion

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI)—An underground explosion at the Wankie coal mine near Victoria Falls trapped 468 miners today and the death toll was feared to be high.

Hospital sources reported that some of the miners had managed to escape from one of the several entrances to the No. 2 colliery where the blast occurred at 10 a.m. (4 a.m. EDT).

A spokesman for the mine owners, Anglo-American Corp., said that there was "no further news" on the fate of the miners —435 black Africans and 33 whites—working a full shift in the mine when the blast occurred.

Opera Singer Stokes Is Dead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Melvin Stokes, onetime opera singer and Broadway musical comedy star, died Monday after a brief illness. He was 85.

Stokes, a native of Tacoma, Wash., was a tenor with the original San Francisco Opera Company and later starred on Broadway in the light opera "Matime."

He sang in more than 100 other shows and was a friend of Enrico Caruso, Ezzio Pinza and other famous singers.

Labor Walkout Over Tea Table

LIVERPOOL, England (UPI)—Twenty men came off the production line for their tea break and found the table they normally use missing. Managers said they had no idea where it had gone. The men walked out.

The Vauxhall car factory laid off 2,500 production workers Monday over the tea-table walkout. About 120 cars were lost in the afternoon stoppage, the men lost a half-day's pay and the company said it lost about $261,000.

The table was found in another part of the factory during the afternoon. It was put back in its usual place. Production resumed today.

$433,035 From KQED Auction

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Educational television station KQED said today it realized $433,035 from its annual televised auction during the past 10 days.

The annual affair, the station's major fund-raising activity, featured a high bid of $11,000 for the first 100 shares of stock traded on the New York Exchange last Friday.

Other high bids included $3,800 for a complete set of Fillmore dance pavilion posters and $4,300 for one of the many art works donated to the auction.

Hill School To Graduate 299

Hill Junior High School in Novato will graduate 299 students in ceremonies at the school athletic field at 6:30 p.m. June 14.

Trustee Marett B. Boissevain will present diplomas and Asst. Supt. Paul C. Mobley will present awards for scholastic achievement.

Tony Mendonsa, fall student body president, will give the welcome, and Dana Clarke spring student body president, will give the farewell. Principal Harry J. Moore will present the class for graduation.

ZONE

Werner von Gundell has maintained the lowest possible density is the most compatible since it discourages urban growth which could spell doom for Marin's agricultural operations, which are mostly dairying and livestock grazing.

Rezoning of lands around Bolinas came near the end of an 11-hour session and found only four of the seven commissioners still remaining. Commissioners George P. Leonard, Rebecca Watkin and Kenneth G. Stevens had departed earlier.

The 4-0 vote rezoning the Bolinas-Olema Valley area was endorsed by a contingent of about 25 Bolinas residents and was in marked contrast with rezoning of the Muir Beach area.

While the Muir Beach area was disposed of in several minutes, the Bolinas-Olema Valley area required several hours as residents unsuccessfully urged the preserve boundaries be expanded to include more of their tiny community.

While most in the audience supported the rezoning, some major property owners —like ones at earlier hearings — voiced opposition claiming the rezoning was a confiscation of their land for open space.

Among those opposing the rezoning was Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, who owns 1,400 acres in the Olema Valley. Sieroty, who spent most of the day waiting to speak, told the commission his land ought to be acquired for open space.

However, he continued, if the land isn't acquired it ought to be zoned for five-acre minimum lots which would provide a return on his investment.

Sieroty also suggested that smaller holdings near Point Reyes National Seashore remain unchanged since he is negotiating their sale with the federal government. Rezoning to A-60 could adversely affect the sale price, he said.

The assemblyman's land, however, like others recommended for A-60 designation, was rezoned at the urging of commissioners Margaret B. Azevedo and Jack G. Nixon.

Only one major holding recommended for rezoning was excluded. Nixon, supported by Mrs. Azevedo, said he couldn't accept the A-60 zoning for the Anton Holter property, adjacent to the Bolinas Mesa.

Since the Mesa is subdivided into small, 7,500-square-foot lots, Nixon said, it would be unfair to rezone the Holter property to minimum lots of 60 acres.

At his urging, the land was left in two-acre minimum lots and will be studied along with other areas in Bolinas for more appropriate zoning.

The commission's refusal to act on the Holter property brought groans from the audience which expressed fear that 45 homes would be built on a 90-acre section in the interim.

"Another Martinelli Farms," commented attorney Paul D. Kayfetz, who organized community support, including a petition signed by more than 200 residents, for low density zoning.

(Martinelli Farms was a 51unit subdivision proposed for the Elmer Martinelli ranch at Point Reyes Station but rejected by supervisors last week after threatened by suit from conservationists.)

Discussion of expanding the agricultural preserve to include much of Bolinas brought assurances from some residents that the tiny seaside community could become the vegetable garden of Marin.

Forces in support of rezoning said lands around the community are ideal for organic gardening —a point disputed by several Bolinas old-timers.

Highlight of the discussion was a statement by Wrightson Switz of Bolinas, youthful heir to the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. fortune, that he was prepared to finance organic farming near Bolinas on a large scale. "I'm prepared to make the investment. . .because I'm sure it will turn a profit," he told the commission.

He later was reported dickering over land prices with Sieroty.

In related action, the commission rejected requests that three large parcels near Olema be excluded from the agricultural rezoning.

The parcels —the Kelham and Rogers properties north of Olema and the Nicasio Land Co. property south of the village — were intentionally omitted from rezoning in April for further study.

Von Gundell told the commission yesterday the lands should remain in the preserve and be rezoned to A-60 as a holding action pending submittal of development plans.

On a motion by commissioner William B. Lynch, the panel voted 5-2 to rezone the bulk of the properties to A-60. Stevens and Leonard opposed the action.

Also the commission approved the removal of a long list of properties from the preserve including several parcels owned by Leonard, who abstained from voting.

His land, located east of Highway 1 at Stinson Beach, was excluded to allow for the future expansion of that community.

OBITUARIES

Frank Short, Retired Accountant, Succumbs

Frank G. Short, retired certified public accountant, died unexpectedly yesterday at his Inverness home. He was 77.

Born in Bowmanville, Ontario, Canada, Short came to this country in 1925. He lived in New York and San Francisco before moving to Marin County in 1954.

For many years he had his own public accounting office in San Francisco.

He was a past president and life member of the California State Society of Certified Public Accountants and was a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

He is survived by his wife, Louise B. Short of the family home; a son, Frank E. Short of Kentfield, and two granddaughters.

Private funeral will be tomorrow in San Rafael.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society or St. Columba's Episocpal Church in Inverness.

ered jet for two brief appearances in New Mexico— the only presidential candidate to personally campaign there— and flew on to Houston to meet with Democratic governors assembled there.

McGovern said it appeared that a "stop McGovern" movement at the meeting, initiated by Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, "has fizzled" but added he was making the journey to talk to the governors, of North and South.

In sharp contrast, Humphrey campaigned up and down the California coast, still full of enthusiasm and hoping that lightning would strike despite polls which showed him trailing McGovern by 20 percentage points.

But McGovern, with a smooth organization which included 50,000 volunteers ringing doorbells and seemingly no end of money, was a solid favorite. He outspent Humphrey by a better than two-to-one margin, including almost his full quota of $463,000 for broadcast time.

Short of money and organization, Humphrey, in the last 10 days, launched an all-out attack on McGovern's proposals for cuts in the military budget, welfare and taxes. He also charged that McGovern's record on civil rights and aid to Israel was blemished.

Initially reluctant to attack McGovern because of fears it would help the Republicans in the fall, Humphrey made the decision because it was, admittedly, his only chance to keep McGovern from winning.

Humphrey challenged McGovern to a series of television "debates" and they held three. Humphrey asked McGovern for a fourth face-to-face confrontation on election eve but McGovern flew to New Mexico and Texas instead, saying the voters "have had enough of these debates."

Although Humphrey had called California the key primary, he insisted that if he lost he would not abandon his fight for the nomination, banking on winning the support of uncommitted delegates.

RUTH TADDEUCCI

Private funeral for Ruth E. Taddeucci, who died Saturday at the Tamalpais Retirement Center, was Sunday at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial was yesterday at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park, Colma.

Mrs. Taddeucci, 77, had lived in Marin County for eight years, the last two at the Tamalpais Retirement Center in Greenbrae. She was a native of San Francisco.

A widow, Mrs. Taddeucci is survived by her son, Richard T. Lamberton of San Rafael; a brother, Herbert Talbott of San Francisco; a granddaughter and a great-grandson.

Memorial contributions to the Heart Fund are preferred by the family.

FRANCES BURK

Private family funeral for Frances Edna Burk, a longtime resident of San Anselmo, will be held tomorrow.

Mrs. Burk, widow of Ernest Burk, died Saturday at a local hospital after a long illness. She was a native of Santa Rosa and had lived in San Anselmo about 35 years. She lived at 57 Ross Avenue.

Surviving is a sister, Hazel A. Sage of San Anselmo.

Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

R. A. POWELL

Private funeral for Russell A. Powell, former San Francisco printer and father of Wade Powell of San Rafael, has been held in Santa Rosa.

Powell, who had lived in Santa Rosa for the past three years, died at his home Sunday. He was 69.

During the many years he lived in San Francisco, Powell was a member and at one time president of the Central Council of Civic Clubs, the Golden Gate Council of the United Commercial Travelers and the Parkside District Improvement Club. He served on the San Francisco Library Commission in 1949 and 1950.

He was a member of the San Francisco Typographical Union 21 for many years.

In addition to his son Wade, he is survived by his wife, Mabel; two other sons, Wayne of Santa Rosa and Dalton of San Francisco; a brother, Milton of San Francisco; two sisters, Claire Wyman of Campbell and Audrey Plate of Santa Rosa, and nine grandchildren.

The family prefers memorial contributions to United Commercial Travelers Cancer Foundation, 86 Sunview Drive, San Francisco.

CLARENCE ROSA

Clarence L. Rosa, 70, a native of Sausalito, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital. Services will be held today at Keaton's Chapel, followed by rosary services at 8 p.m.

A Mass of Resurrection will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at the Star of the Sea Church, Sausalito, followed by burial at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Rosa, who lived at 325 Franklin Street, San Francisco, was a member of the Sea Point Parlor NSGW of Sausalito and IDESST of Sausalito.

He is survived by his wife, Alma, and three sisters, Carrie Turrentine of Sausalito, Dolores Rosa of Belmont and Marie R. Souza of Sausalito.

LOUIS J. TOMASELLO

Requiem High Mass for Louis J. Tomasello of San Jose, brother of Frances Piazza and M. Jennie Abott of Novato, will be tomorrow at Holy Cross Church, San Jose, at 10:30 a.m. Rosary will be recited tonight at 8 o'clock at Randacore and Alameda's Mission Chapel, San Jose.

Tomasello, 61, died yesterday in a San Jose hospital. A native of San Francisco, he was a member of the Italian Catholic Federation Branch No. 4, Holy Cross Church, and the Trabia Club of San Jose.

He is survived by five other sisters, Virginia Rubino and Dorothy Mesi, both of San Jose; Mary Sunseri and Florence Archini, both of San Francisco, Rose Phillips of Fremont, and by a brother, John Tomasello of Gilroy.

San Jose Junior High Schedules Commencement

San Jose Junior High School in Novato will graduate 300 students in outdoor ceremonies at the school at 7 p.m. June 15.

A student, not announced in advance, will be given the principal's award as the most outstanding all-around student during the past three years.

Trustee Elizabeth Mertel and Asst. Supt. Paul C. Mobley will present the diplomas. The school band will perform.

Wig Denied For Young Guardsman

BOSTON (UPI)—A federal judge, citing a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that the army is a specialized community "governed by a separate discipline," has rejected a Harvard Law School student's petition to wear a shorthaired wig over his long hair at National Guard drills.

Bruce Friedman, a second year law student who conceded the army had a right to regulate appearances, said he felt the wig would meet the army's neatness regulations. Army officials said it permitted shorthaired wigs only to cover baldness or physical disfiguration.

Meadowsweet Zone Request Is Rejected

By DICK SMULLEN

Before a packed house, the Corte Madera Town Council last night rejected a planning commission request to rezone nearly 24 acres on Meadowsweet Drive to less dense development.

Instead, it voted 4-1, over councilman Robert J. Flahive, to give the owner of the ground, American Savings and Loan Association, a 30-day extension to draw plans and have them reviewed by the town staff.

The owner will pay the town for examination of the plans by Sedway-Cooke, a San Francisco planning consultant, for conformance with the Corte Madera General Plan. (The large quarry property is zoned R-4 in the general plan.)

The plans will then be reviewed by the town planning commission July 6 and forwarded to the town council for its July 17 meeting.

Flahive objected to the council not rezoning the ground last night, asking, "Who's going to rezone the land, the council or the developer? We're doing it backwards."

The town planning commission voted March 13 to rezone the 23.69 acres in the 700 xlock of Meadowsweet Drive from R-4, the most dense development allowed in the town, to R-1 or single-family residential.

Last night C. William Thomas, planning commission chairman, said the commission, realizing R-1 zoning would freeze development on the site, did so because Corte Madera lacks a study zone, which would have delayed development pending development of a general plan.

San Anselmo attorney Julius H. Selinger represented American Savings, and argued that an extension would give time to make a definite proposal and have it examined.

Town Atty. Albert Bianchi said a public hearing would be required if the council were going to zone the property anything but R-1 or leave it R-4.

A "movie" handbill circulated the town drew about 100 residents to hear the question, but the crowd learned the plot was misrepresented.

Based on the premise that the council was going to rezone the quarry from R-1 to R-4, the handbill invited residents to "hear the plans to zone the quarry to high density."

Policy On New Firemen Cleared Up

The Corte Madera Town Council last night temporarily shunted aside the proposal that it hire local volunteers in preference to any out-of-town residents for its six new full-time firemen.

The council unanimously voted to hire the six best qualified of 10 applicants, regardless of their home towns, and establish a policy on favoritism for local volunteers later.

The Corte Madera Volunteer Fire Department wrote to the council, saying its members were worried that "most of the new firemen" would not be hired from the 14-man volunteer company.

Last March the council voted to hire six new full-time firemen, in addition to the five already employed. The action ended a fire protection controversy that had begun in September when two houses were destroyed and a third damaged in an East Corte Madera blaze.

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels said last night the applicants all took written, oral and agility tests, and that it seemed "grossly unfair" to change the selection rules in the middle of the process.

Councilmen Edward W. Colthurst and Robert J. Flahive favored giving extra weight to Corte Madera residents. Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff, a former volunteer town fireman, urged maintaining present standards, to get the best possible men.

Mayor Holmes S. Norville also so favored upholding the rules, but suggested Bartels and the volunteers meet and decide how the part-time firemen could better meet standards.

He Hasn't Missed A Vote In 21 Years

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., claims the record for serving the longest period in Congress without missing a roll call vote.

Bennett completed his 21st year without missing a vote Monday. He said he had participated in 3,428 consecutive roll call votes. Bennett has served in Congress since 1948. The last time he missed a vote was in 1951 when he went to Michigan to make a speech.

Leney Sworn In; New Appointments Are Made

Recount victor Herber C. Leney was sworn in and seated on the Corte Madera Town Council last night, ending a three-month battle for the position.

Marin County Superior Court Judge Warren E. McGuire declared Leney the winner May 30 over Robert P. Simmons. Leney lost in the original count, 829-822 but won after two recounts, 839 to 836. Several previously rejected ballots were validated during the final recount.

Appointments were announced to fill Simmons's former committee seats. Leney will sit on the finance committee, Edward W. Colthurst on the public works committee and Robert J. Flahive on the Marin County Economics Opportunities Council.

Simmons was first appointed to the council in January 1968, and elected to the council three months later. He served as chairman of the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen in 1970, and was a member of the Christmas Tree Hill Dwellers' Association and chairman of the Marin County Economic Opportunities Council.

Leney, an attorney, has served as chairman of the Corte Madera Sanitary Commission and vice chairman of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission. Last year he was named Corte Madera Citizen of the Year.

Leney retired from the Corte Madera Sanitary Commission last night.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

SIGNS — Introduced an ordinance eliminating any exceptions on sign sizes in C-3 commercial zones.

TRIOSKS — Continued until June 19 an appeal on a planning commission decision to deny 14 freestanding signs in the Corte Madera Center.

MONEY — Referred to budget hearings a request from the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce for a $2,000 donation for next year.

HIGHWAYS — Voted to reserve $4,888 in federal and state highway funds for a large project.

PARKS — Funded a four-week summer recreation program with Larkspur for $7,000.

TUNNEL — Heard from Town Engineer Arthur N. Morrison that the Corte Madera-Mill Valley railroad tunnel, while in no danger of collapse, is not safe for bicycle or hiking use. It is now blocked off.

REPAIR — Approved a small appliance repair business in the home of Phil Sidari at 320 Willow Avenue.

TREE — Voted 4-1, over Mayor Holmes S. Norville, to replace sidewalks broken by trees at 41 Ash Avenue. Norville said the action was contrary to council policy, which would have required removing the trees.

BARTELS — Named Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels employee officer for negotiations with employees (although none are now in progress).

PLEDGE — Voted to include the pledge to the flag in future town council meetings.

PARKING — Referred to staff for recommendation for the parking problems caused on Tamal Vista Boulevard by the Cinema Theater.

DONATION — Received a donation of $41.19 from Flahive (excess campaign funds) to be spent for a picnic table in the town park.

FLOOD — Referred to Colthurst a proposed ordinance to change building requirements in areas of possible flooding. Colthurst will report back June 19.

POSITION — Endorsed 4-1, Flahive objecting, a position taken by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, opposing actionu by special districts that infringe on the planning process. Flahive contended the position paper infringed on the freedom of action of special districts.

REFUND — Acting as Sanitary District No. 2 board, refunded $43,340 in connection fees to Johnny Ribeiro, builder for the now-abandoned Casa Madera project on Tamal Vista Boulevard.

MEADOWSWEET — Filed a series of communications objecting to the controversial Meadowsweet Station project grading permit, among them an accusation by Flahive that former councilman Simmons was in conflict of interest in the matter, denied by Town Atty. Albert Bianchi, and another conflict of interest charge by J. D. Bell that Bianchi himself was in conflict because he had once represented the developers, also denied by Bianchi.

Make That Martini With Two Vitamins

CHICAGO (UPI) — Cocktail customers may now take Vitamin E capsules at the end of a toothpick, like an olive, or floating like a cherry or lemon peel in their drinks at Sage's East restaurant.

The restaurant said it would make the vitamins available in drinks starting tonight.

Canyon Float Trip Scheduled

A float trip through the Grand Canyon will be offered Aug. 15-27 by the geology department at California State College, Sonoma.

The class will travel by raft on the Colorado River from Lee's Ferry, Ariz. through the canyon for 315 miles to Pierce's Ferry. Cost for the two-week trip totals $337 including food, round trip bus transportation from Rohnert Park, equipment and tuition. The class offers three units of credit.

The expedition will be led by Dr. G.D. Woodard, who has conducted tours there since 1967. Brochures on the trip are available at the office of instructional services and continuing education at the college.

Public Meeting Set On Solid Wastes

As part of their current study of the solid waste problem in the county, the League of Women Voters of Central Marin are sponsoring a public meeting Thursday in the planning commission chambers at the Civic Center from 10 a.m. to noon.

The speaker will be Leonard Stefanelli, president of Sunset Scavangers, San Francisco and public information officer of the Northern California Refuse Removal Council.

Wildlife Protection Clause To Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—By a 310 to 5 vote, the House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill giving the interior secretary power to enforce laws prohibiting the shooting from aircraft of eagles, wolves and other forms of wildlife.

The measure amends a 1971 law that did not designate an enforcement agency. This automatically put enforcement in the hands of the FBI. The amendment would allow the interior secretary to make any regulations necessary to enforce the law, which prohibits the killing or capture of any bird, fish or animal from a plane.

Houseboats Are Hearing Topic

An amendment to Sausalito's zoning ordinance which would make houseboats and ferry terminals conditionally permitted uses in the city's waterfront zone will be the subject of a public hearing before the Sausalito City council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

According to City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr, neither houseboats nor terminals are currently permitted in the zone under existing regulations.

Consequently, he said, the city's many houseboats are currently "illegal and outside the zoning ordinance."

The new rules would mean existing houseboats within the city limits would have to obtain conditional use permits from the city, he said.

In other business, the council will consider a ferryboat policy for Sausalito and a zoning ordinance amendment which would make all restaurants serving alcoholic beverages conditional, rather than normally permitted uses in Sausalito.

Sinaloa Junior High Will Give 345 Diplomas

Sinaloa Junior High School in Novato will graduate 345 students in ceremonies at 8 p.m. June 14 at the San Marin High School gymnasium.

Ronald D. Schenck, president of the Novato Unified School District board, will present diplomas; Dist. Supt. James G. Bunker will present scholarship awards, and principal W. L. Metteer will present departmental honors.

Mark Kassenbrock, student body president, will give the "farewell" talk and Henry Moroski, principal of San Marin High School will speak briefly.

The Sinaloa Junior High School Band will perform.

Students Give Nixon Slight Victory Edge

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) --A poll of California high school students shows that 30 per cent of those questioned would like to see President Nixon re-elected while 22 per cent favor Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern.

However, David M. Cole, 18, Richmond, of the California Junior Statesmen of America, said 23 per cent said they were undecided about a presidential candidate.

Cole said the survey was conducted among 13,000 students in 45 selected high schools.

In announcing the poll results Monday, Cole said 41 per cent of the students favored legalization of marijuana and 66 per cent said they would like to see the drinking age lowered to 18.

The California Junior Statesmen of America is a state-wide organization of 2,000 high school students.

Burglar To County Jail For Year

A 20-year-old Forest Knolls man was given a suspended state prison sentence and ordered to serve a year in county jail yesterday for burglary despite a plea bargain calling for a lesser sentence.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court imposed the sentence after learning that Michael Earl Frank had two juvenile arrests for burglary and a previous adult conviction.

He then followed the recommendation of the district attorney and rejected the bargained sentence of nine months in jail.

Frank, who could have withdrawn his guilty plea, nevertheless agreed to the harsher sentence.

He was arrested March 9 by sheriff's deputies who said he found him inside San Geronimo Valley National Golf Club. More than $250 had been taken from vending machines and was found in Frank's pockets, according to deputies.

Frank, who said he was drunk at the time, was armed with a kitchen knife and cleaver when arrested, deputies said.

Burglars Hit 2 Novato Schools

Two Novato schools were burglarized in the past two days and small amounts of cash taken, Novato police reported.

Rancho School was entered at 11:26 p.m. Sunday amd $1.60 taken from a soft drink machine, officers said. Three youths were in the area and a 14-year-old boy was apprehended and cited for burglary.

Offices in the administration building at San Jose Junior High School were ransacked between noon Sunday and 6:25 a.m. yesterday and $2.50 in cash taken, police said.

Two Girls Are Asphyxiated

COLFAX (UPI) —Two girls died of asphyxiation when returning from a weekend camping trip in the Lake Tahoe area apparently because exhaust fumes from the family pickup leaked into the camper compartment.

When Daniel J. Gonsalves of Sacramento checked on Ellen Marie, 9, and Stephanie Ann, 11, he found them unconscious Sunday in the rear camper and called for help. His daughters were pronounced dead on arrival at a nearby Colfax hospital.

Gonsalves, his wife and two other children were riding in the front seat of the pickup at the time while returning to their home via Interstate 80.

Boat Motor Stolen

A 90-horsepower engine valued at $650 was stolen from a boat owned by Theater Candy Distributing Co. between noon Friday and 8 a.m. Monday, San Rafael police reported today. The craft was drydocked at Seaway Marine Inc., 145 Third Street, San Rafael.

Larkspur Park Budget Cuts Urged

Although no action was taken, Larkspur residents suggested three ways of cutting the proposed parks budget during a public hearing last night.

City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst said about 15 persons attended the two-hour preliminary budget session in the city hall.

The park and recreation commission has asked an increase in the town's parks budget from $26,079 to $123,3 2 and in recreation asked a cut, from $19,900 to $13,500.

Largest item in the parks budget is a $99,650 capital outlay program for buying a footbridge anchorage on South Eliseo Drive ($45,000), tennis courts for Piper Park ($27,500), the Mary Fraser redwood grove ($15,000) and improvements at Dolliver Park ($7,500).

Residents last night suggested delaying on the footbridge program, postponing work on the tennis courts and cutting the amount of money to be spent on Dolliver Park improvements, according to Dr. Arnold M. Mayer of the park and recreation commission.

No cut was suggested in either the proposed recreation budget or the library budget (up from $49,486 last year to $55,614).

The next budget hearing will be June 12 when the fire department budget is reviewed, following a joint council meeting with the town's planning commission.

Hughes Can Stay In Canada For Year

OTTAWA (XUPI) — Howard Hughes has permission to stay in Canada for at least another year.

Ray Perrault, parliamentary secretary to Immigration Minister Bryce Mackasey, Monday confirmed in the House of Commons a Vancouver report that Hughes had been given a one-year extension of the visitor's permit granted him three months ago. The customary personal appearance was waived because of "indisposition," Perrault said.

Reputed Crime Kingpin Indic ted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Meyer Lansky, reputedly one of America's most powerful organized crime leaders, was indicted by a federal grand jury in Miami Tuesday on charges of conspiring to evade federal income taxes on money received from gamblers on junkets to a London gambling club.

Lansky and Dino Cellini, a long-time associate and a stockholder and employe of George Raft's Colony Sporting Club in London, also were charged with conspiring to obstruct the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) in assessing their income taxes. And Cellini was charged with filing two false income tax returns.

The indictments were announced in Washington by Acting Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst.

Lansky, 69, has been living in Israel since the summer of 1970. He is fighting an Israeli government attempt to deport him. Lansky has been indicted twice in the United States on gambling charges.

Cellini, 57, a native of Steubenville, Ohio, was employed by the Raft club, which operated in London from Feb. 1, 1966, to Jan. 31, 1969. The British government refused to let Cellini back in to England in 1967.

After the exclusion, the grand jury said Cellini established Travel and Resort Enterprises Inc. (T&R) in Miami to organize and operate gambling junkets to the London club and other foreign casinos.

The indictment said the casino extended credit to various gambling junketeers.

If a gambler did not pay his debt before leaving the foreign casino, his gambling IOSs were turned over to unindicted coconspirators for collection in the United States, it was alleged.

Instead of paying the money to the London club, the grand jury said, the co-conspirators — all New England organized crime figures —delivered it to Lansky and Ceilini in cash.

According to the indictment, Lansky and Cellini received about $198,000 from the coconspirators from November 1967 through mid-May 1968.

Nixon Cuts Short Florida Vacation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon cut short a Florida vacation because of bad weather Monday night and flew back to Washington.

Nixon went to Florida Friday, hoping to spend five or six days at his island Key Biscayne home resting up from his 16,600-mile trip to the Moscow summit. Aides said three days of steady rain caused him to cut short the vacation.

Signatures Ready For Initiative

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —More than 1 million signatures for placing an initiative to restore the death penalty in California on the November ballot will be filed with county clerks Thursday, the coordinator of the drive said today.

Ken Brown of the California Correctional Officers Association said the petition effort has surpassed its goal of collecting 800,000 signatures. Only 520,806 valid voter signatures were needed to qualify the measure, but the 800,000 goal was set to allow for invalid signatures.

Brown said the number of signatures collected during the period time the death penalty initiative campaign has been in progress "has never been equaled in California history."

"This record-breaking, volunteer effort, which has been conducted by thousands of concerned Californians, is a remarkable and undisputed indication of the position held by Californians with regard to the Supreme Court's Feb. 18 ruling which struck down capital punishment," he said.

The state court ruled that the death penalty violated the state constitution. The association has spearheaded the drive to place the initiative on the ballot.

Pacific Sun Seeking Quick Interview Rule

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Marin County Pacific Sun and a reporter are asking California's Supreme Court to speed up a trial in order to prevent a proposed interview from becoming history rather than news.

The action, filed Monday, concerns Mrs. Alice Yarish's suit in the District Court of Appeal in which she asks that the warden of San Quentin Prison be ordered to let her interview a convict charged with murder.

She is seeking an interview with Ruchell Magee who is charged with murder, kidnaping and conspiracy in the 1970 Marin County Courthouse shootings and with murder in an escape attempt that killed six persons last year at San Quentin.

She contends Warden Louis G. Nelson violated press freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution's First Amendment by making "arbitrary rule changes" that prevented her interview.

Eight Burned As Meeting Bombed

ROME (UPI)—Eight persons suffered burns Monday night when unidentified assailants fire- bombed a meeting of neoFascists.

Police said two men were seriously injured.

The attack came at the headquarters of the "New Europe" youth movement, part of the neo-Fascist Italian social movement.

Acquittal Of Angela Proves System Works

The acquittal of Angela Davis on charges of murder-conspiracy proves again that the jury system functions much better than its detractors pretend.

Despite the months of clamor over Miss Davis's "political imprisonment," despite all the charges that a black Communist cannot receive a fair trial in the United States, the jury in San Jose considered the case on the evidence. It reached a decision that there was not proof beyond reasonable doubt that Miss Davis helped plan the Marin County Hall of Justice kidnap attempt in which Judge Harold J. Haley was slain.

THE CASE AGAINST Miss Davis was a circumstantial one. As always in such cases, the jurors were left with the problem of deciding whether the evidence pointed the way the prosecution claimed it did or whether it could be explained in more innocent terms. They chose to believe defense witnesses who contended Miss Davis was not at the places the prosecution witnesses placed her, and that the guns used in the Hall of Justice shoot-out were "borrowed" from a closet outside Miss Davis's apartment rather than delivered by her to Jonathan Jackson.

Why did she have the guns? This was easily explained: there had been threats on her life as result of her Communist teaching at University of California at Los Angeles. (Not explained was how an arsenal in a hall closet would protect her against an attempt on her life.)

THE APPARATUS that set up the cry about Miss Davis's "persecution" had everything going for it to create a martyr: the "system" against the "revolution," the white race against the black race — and even an all-white jury.

The all-white jury's verdict of innocence should prove beyond doubt the falsity of all this propaganda. The case presented by the state was certainly a strong enough one to be taken to court. The jury decided it was not strong enough to convict: it was not proved beyond all reasonable doubt.

That is what the jury system is all about. And that is what free democratic government provides. It is far different from the trial processes in the Communist countries, where imprisonment and even death for political beliefs are commonplace and the trial often is behind closed doors.

THE APPARATUS that failed to get its martyr through Miss Davis's conviction will not be stilled, however. Its revised line was voiced by Fania Jordan, Miss Davis's sister, within hours of the acquittal:

"Angela's acquittal was at the same time a conviction of the State of California on our charges of conspiracy. . .There can be no discussion of whether or not a fair trial took place. No trial should have taken place, instead of this outrageous frameup which has consumed two years in the life of Angela Davis."

Mrs. Jordan conveniently overlooked, for the purpose of propaganda, the fact that Miss Davis would have gone to trial some 18 months sooner were it not for delays engineered by the defense.

The San Jose jury proved our system works. But those who sought to make political capital of the trial will not admit that.

Bridge Directors' Little Trip Will Cost You 3,300 Tolls

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Take note, Mr. Average Commuter, the next 3,300 tolls you pay on the Golden Gate Bridge will reimburse the bridge district for revenues it burned up last month in three private Sacramento dinners with state legislators.

The tab would have been higher if district directors on the junkets also claimed their regular $50 per diem, but they graciously declined their usual fee in lieu of some $1,650 shelled out for the affairs at Sacramento's more elegant watering holes.

As for the wives who went along for the junkets, you will be happy to know the husbands will reimbutse the district for their dinners. It's public money, after all.

All this largesse, of course, is on top of the $20,000 a year the district showers on its Sacramento lobbyist. Just what he is being paid for is unclear, since no legislation involving the district was introduced this year. Guess that's politics.

And if you are uneasy about what "our" bridge district officials discussed with "our" legislators, take comfort in the explanation from one that the private sessions "facilitated a far freer exchange of views than would have been possible in public."

Why is it that politicians prefer to discuss public business in private?

BUS BENCHES would have been one fit subject for these leaders to have discussed. How ridiculous it is for waiting bus riders to have to sprawl in the dirt or sit on the curb for lack of any proper seating accommodations —then to board a $50,000 air-conditioned luxury coach!

Benches would be especially appropriate at the main San Rafael stop under the freeway, where riders often have uncomfortably long waits for buses. The benches would have to be virtually indestructible to survive, but this is no excuse for ignoring basic comforts for users of the otherwise excellent system.

DESPITE SPECULATION by another columnist in this newspaper, Anne L. Ellinwood was missing from today's ballot in the Third Supervisorial District. According to the speculation, she was supposed to mount a last-minute write-in campaign to challenge incumbent Michael Wornum.

"Not that I wouldn't like to," she told us recently, "but it's too late." She had announced earlier her candidacy for the seat, then withdrew to run unsuccessfully for re-election to the Tiburon city council. Terming herself the "recumbent" councilman, she said "there are no 'if's' in history."

IT TOOK a 76-page document to detail plans to clean up air pollution in American Samoa, and that has got to be the most depressing item of the week. Is no place safe from air pollution?

By contrast, it took several thousand pages to blueprint California's plan to clean up the air. With this many bureaucrats at work on the problem, is there hope?

'Ms' Declared Part Of 'Living Language'

Re: To "Ms or not to "Ms": You can't be serious about not using "Ms" to denote a female, circa 1972, because you can't find it in Webster's Third International Dictionary!

The fact that you are using Webster's Third should give you some clue about the changing nature of living languages.

You have a right to establish whatever editorial policy you choose with regard to the use or non-use of "Ms". But these things often boil down to a matter of the editor's personal taste and judgment. Why don't you simply say you don't happen to like the term "Ms" instead of hiding behind Webster?

Superintendent Explains Reasons For Quitting

I would like to take this opportunity to express in my own words my feelings and reasons for my resignation as superintendent-principal of the Bolinas-Stinson Union School District. The recent article in the Independent-Journal did not reflect my attitudes and feelings regarding this decision.

I have enjoyed what I consider two successful years in the district. The support of the school board and community has been gratifying, and we have made progress in bringing some stability and calm to the district. At this point, the potential for developing creative programs reflecting the philosophies of the Bolinas-Stinson Beach communities is receiving impetus from active community interest and involvement. In my opinion, it is time for leadership that is more compatible with this development. I do not necessarily identify with the emerging life-style of the community and the direction it envisions for the school. My action is intended to provide the board with the option of selecting this more compatible leadership.

The expressions of the board, staff, and others in support of my continuing are greatly appreciated. I know that I could provide continued stable leadership for the district, but I feel that this changing community needs the opportunity for choice in its school leadership. It is my hope that the total community will make its desires known and help the board in making wise decisions for the future.

(This is not the expression of an "obstructionist.")

Transit Line Employees Honest And Helpful

Here is an incident that occurred last Friday afternoon that restores one's faith in humanity.

When I arrived home from San Francisco on the Golden Gate Transit bus, my wallet was missing. This could have been a major disaster for me but we phoned the transit company in hopes I may have dropped it on the bus. The girl who answered was very concerned and helpful. She advised that if found, the driver would turn the wallet in after his last run. She would then phone me the good news.

The driver did later turn in the wallet and everything intact and that's the story.

Unfortunately I didn't get either of their names but the girl answered as Operator 11. The bus driver's badge number was 137. Neither would accept a reward.

These two employees are honest and helpful. Hope they get a raise or a promotion soon.

Make Property Tax Credit On Income Tax

There has been considerable talk lately about how much the federal and state governments would like to help the poor proerty taxpayer, especially to help him pay for the public schools.

There is a very simple, efficient, economical way to do this. Let each property taxpayer take the amount he pays each year in property taxes as a credit against his federal and state income taxes.

At present we take property taxes as a deduction against income taxes. As a concrete example. this system saved me about $430 in federal and $80 in state income taxes in 1971. If I could have taken a tax credit instead, I would have saved $1,335 in federal and $260 in state income taxes.

This tax credit procedure is much more efficient than the unprincipled, inefficient and uneconomical proposals for federal revenue sharing to help local taxpayers. If the federal government has revenue to share (it has had only deficits for years), it would be quicker and simpler, would save the high cost of bureaucratic handling, if the taxpayer could just retain the money instead of sending it to Washington to have part of it, after handling expense, returned.

TODAY'S WORLD

Today is Tuesday, June 6, the 158th day of 1972 with 208 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Mercury.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Gemini.

American patriot Nathan Hale was born June 6, 1755.

On this day in history:

U.S.-Russian Pact On Missiles Reveals Its Own Great Urgency

MOSCOW — Out of the astonishing Moscow trip have come two solid benefits unlikely to be diminished regardless of how well or how badly the series of agreements signed with such pomp and splendor work out. One is a quite incidental increment that should be an eye-opener.

The nuclear arms limitation agreement is in itself a step forward with a potential for the future good of mankind that is inestimable. But apart from the agreement itself is the revelation of how deeply involved the two superpowers are in amassing the instruments of annihilation. The cards are on the table and anyone can now see how far down the slippery slope we have come in assembling the stuff of doomsday.

The compromise necessary to achieve this first small step gives a dramatic picture of the competition in the whole range of nuclear weapons on land, sea and air. Stopping construction of new missile-armored submarines —the Russians had a program of building eight or nine a year — is a big advance. Yet, under the complex formula contained in the treaty, old G-class subs can be replaced with modern types at the sacrifice of a certain ratio of land-based missiles.

THE URGENT NEED in the next state-of-arms negoation is to put a brake on the development of ever newer and more destructive weapons. The framework of the SALT talks has worked well and the intention is to move as rapidly as possible to supersede the interim agreement on offensive missiles with a permanent arrangement providing a limit like that now put on defensive missiles.

Headed by Gerard C. Smith, the American delegation has been a first-rate team and the hope is that it can be kept intact. The back-stop in the White House has been Henry Kissinger, working in close collaboration with the Soviet ambassador in Washington, Anatoly Dobrynin. And at critical moments when a deadlock developed, President Nixon in a frank exchange with Leonid Brezhnev pointed a way out of the stalemate.

The second important gain was the proof that the Russians really wanted these agreements and a knitting together of major elements in the future of the two great nations. Given the rigidities of the bureaucratic structure, they handled the invasion of several hundred American and foreign newspaper men and women with ease and efficiency. The White House staff performed with first-rate skill at every juncture. The conflicts that certainly occurred, even as the climax of the talks neared with the deadline at hand, were resolved without public brouhaha.

In his masterful briefing on the night the arms limitation was signed, Kissinger, with a pride of authorship, called it a landmark decision. The familiar cliches —epoch-making, history-making —fall short of characterizing this moment of pause in our time of troubles.

THE HAZARDS AHEAD are plain enough in the forces that would frustrate what has been done here. Those at home harboring all the suspicions and hatreds out of the cold war will not suspend their judgment to credit a Republican president with his Moscow achievement. But this is minor in the spectrum of public opinion.

Critics of the Nixon mission to Peking were a scattered few. Most of them clinging to the shopworn illusion of a China that never was. Because great substance has come out of this meeting and because repressions inherent in the Soviet system stir passionate feeling, the protest this time will be louder.

Nevertheless, it is minor set alongside the tangle of animosities pitting China against the Soviet Union, with Indochina a tragic victim trapped in the big power vise. While Nixon and Brezhnev were sitting around the conference table, the bombs were dropping with renewed violence on vital installations in Hanoi and the shelling of the cities in the south went on.

Peking and Hanoi were denouncing the meeting here, with North Vietnam excoriating the Nixon duplicity, stopping short of Peking's vilification of Moscow. China's quarrel with the Russians is accentuated by the problem of deliveries of war materiel through Chinese ports to be transshipped by rail to North Vietnam.

In Peking's vernacular, the running dogs of imperialism met in the capital of communism that has betrayed Marx and Lenin to carve up the world. This last is a suspicion that is undoubtedly shared by nations outside the Communist orbit. The answer willcome in how wisely and justly the two giants administer their bilateral agreements.

Federal Agents' Impersonation Of Newsmen Perils Freedom

There are many conflicts of rights these days, in a free society.

One of the most apparent, and still unsettled, is the oight of the public to be informed by a free press, and the right of the government to withhold certain information. When the Supreme Court heard the Pentagon papers case last year, it settled nothing that had not been previously considered settled: the strong presumption against the constitutionality of prior restrains on the press.

Beyond that point, the matter is still awaiting judicial determination. Perhaps the news media can be punished afterward for what they have printed. It is up to the courts to say. If civil disobedience has been committed, there might well be a penalty to pay.

THERE ARE ALSO conflicts over the ill-defined right of privacy, both of an individual and of the government business at certain stages, at least. There is the conflict between informing the public about a crime and the right of a person to a fair trial in court.

And there is the desire of news people to protect and preserve their sources of information. More reporters have been under subpoena before grand juries in recent years than ever before, with the government seeking to trace suspected criminals through the news source. Eighteen states have passed shield laws, protecting news sources, and a federal statute is pending.

But in all this welter of conflicting rights, one phenomenon has come to light which has been little noticed: the apparently increasing practice of government agents to impersonate legitimate news personnel.

A TWENTIETH CENTURY Fund task force report on "Press Freedoms Under Pressure" documents many of these impersonations. In January, 1970, four agents of the U.S. government pretended to be members of the press corps, with authentic press passes, in an effort to find out where news people were getting information to which the military objected.

After the masquerade was exposed, the Army apologized. But there were many other cases.

The Army security agency invented an entirely fictitious news agency at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1968. Later, a former military intelligence agent testified before the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee that this phony agency obtained the only television interview with Abbie Hoffman, the Yippie leader. Two agents who did so well at Chicago went around the country, impersonating press personnel wherever it suited their purposes.

Here and there all over the country, news people have been detecting phonies in their midst, and exposing them. Credentials seem to be issued quite readily by police or other officials to known impersonators. The Army sometimes used legitimate newspapers, without their knowledge or consent, as cover for agents. An Army agent was issued bogus press credentials in the name of Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch — which knew nothing about it —so he could attend a press conference of the Southern Leadership Conference.

The Defense Department does not deny such practices in the past, but wrote in 1970 that instructions had been issued to Army agents prohibiting the use of press credentials or otherwise representing themselves as newsmen.

NATURALLY ENOUGH, the militant left suspects the press, and sometimes attacks news people physically, because they are believed to be stool pigeons. Thus the press is unable to perform its task of informing the public, and a right not of the press but of the people suffers.

The integrity of news personnel will be gravely damaged if these practices continue. There is no evidence that law enforcement will suffer if they end. Infiltration of suspected organizations, long a police practice, can continue without impersonations of the press.

Sonoma State Students Hope Carpools Will Protect Coeds

Lack of transportation and dangers of hitchiking are major problems at Sonoma State College, but a computerized system for carpools may go into effect next fall.

Students this year became alarmed at the number of coeds who were raped either by persons who had offered them rides or while walking to and from the campus. While only a few incidents were reported to the police and very few arrests made, campus rumors have it that rapes have become commonplace, with as many as two or three occurring in one week.

Although the campus isn't prone to paranoia, a group of students believed something should be done to cut down on hitchiking. With no local transportation available, students without cars thought a carpool system might work.

THE CARPOOL Coordination Switchboard opened late in the semester and never really got off the ground as much as its leaders would have liked. They hope to be better organized next year so volunteer drivers will be available when a student calls for help.

Students also hope the new campus computer can be used to set up a more reliable system of matching students for carpools. When students register in the fall, the computer will analyze class schedules and addresses of students to determine which ones might be logical to form a carpool.

Students, especially women, who are stranded on campus without transportation will still have an emergency number to call in September where other students will see they get a ride.

POSTERS AROUND campus seeking information about the murder of Kim Wendy Allen are constant reminders of the dangers of hitchiking. A new batch of posters seek Jeannette Kamahele of Cotati, who's been missing since April.

The campus seems resigned to its new name of California State College at Sonoma. Although the change from Sonoma State College wasn't that great, students and faculty seemed to react against the idea of uniformity in college names.

At Sonoma State the tradition is to have no tradition and individuality is very important. Another part of the problem was caused when no one on campus was informed or consulted about the name change. The college is known for its wide participation in decision-making and everyone hates to be left out even on minor changes.

SALT Agreement Great Boost For Military-Industrial Complex

WASHINGTON — The day after President Nixon gave his report to Congress on his trip to the Soviet Union, I went over to see my friend Hannibal Stone, president of the Association for a Permanent Military-Industrial Complex.

Because the President had announced agreement on the freeze of nuclear weapons with the Russians, I expected Hannibal to be depressed. Instead, I found him euphoric.

"HANNIBAL," I SAID, "how can you be smiling when President Nixon and the Russians are talking about disarmament? Surely this is a blow to the Military-Industrial Complex and all it stands for."

"Wrong," Hannibal said, handing me a cigar. "This is the best thing that could happen to us."

"I don't understand," I said, as he lit my cigar with a Minuteman missile cigarette lighter.

"Russia and the United States have agreed to limit anti-ballistic missiles. They have also agreed to freeze land-based and submarine-based intercontinental missiles at the level now in operation. If it works, they may come to new agreements to limit arms production on other weapons now being made. This means we will have to work twice as hard to develop new weapons that aren't covered by the arms agreements."

"YOU MEAN we're not going to save any money by the signing of the arms treaty?"

"Au contraire," Hannibal said. "We will have to spend more money now for defense than ever before."

"Dammit, Hannibal," I said. "I was hoping for a peace dividend."

"Forget the peace dividend," Hannibal said. "In order for the Joint Chiefs of Staff to assure us that we have adequate protection in spite of the arms accord, we're going to have to spend at least another $20 billion on new weaponry — stuff that hasn't even been dreamed of yet."

"I KNEW the President's speech was too good to be true."

"You must remember," Hannibal said, "the Military-Industrial Complex makes very little money once it is in full production on a weapon. By then everyone knows exactly what the weapon is going to cost, and we can't monkey around with the figures.

"But when we're asked to develop a new weapon, no one can put a price tag on it, and the longer it doesn't work the more money we can ask for to develop it.

"Give me a contract for a weapon no one understands, and I'll give you twice the profits that I would on a weapon that has proved itself in the field."

"GOSH DARN, HANNIBAL," I said. "I thought one of the reasons the President went to Moscow was to cut down on the spiraling inflation and wasteful money both countries were spending on weapons."

"Maybe he did," Hannibal said. "But the fact is that at this very moment members of the Soviet military-industrial complex are at their drafting boards working on new weapons which are not part of the accords. We can't let the Russians get ahead of us on these weapons or we will lose the military edge to the other superpower."

"But you don't even know what those weapons are,"I protested.

"All the more reason to spend money developing our weapons. I would say that the President's nuclear arms accord is actually a breakthrough for us.

"Now we can come up with any wild idea and Congress will have to buy it. We can say that if we don't have this weapon, the Russians may have one that is much more devastating. The Soviet military-industrial complex is probably going to use the same ploy with their people."

I SAID, "President Eisenhower warned me about people like you."

Hannibal chuckled and slapped me on the shoulder. "Don't let it get you down. It's only money. Here, take the Minuteman missile cigarette lighter with you. Consider it a peace dividend from me."

High Court Is Petitioned For Appeal Hearing

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — Attorneys for Novato resident Karen Duncan have petitioned the U.S. Supreme Court to hear her appeal of a contempt citation for refusing to testify in a grand jury probe of Weatherman revolutionary activities.

In the meantime, Miss Duncan is free on a stay granted earlier by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Karen Koonan, a research assistant in Miss Dunchan's case, said that her lawyers do not know whether the high court will rule on the request for a hearing before it adjourns in the next two or three weeks or wait until it reconvenes in October.

Miss Duncan was ordered held in contempt by a federal court in Tucson, Ariz., in October 1970. She already has spent some time in jail for her refusal to testify.

Proposed Tennis Club Gets Help

The San Rafael City Council last night prezoned at 2.5-acre parcel at 2436 Fifth Avenue, opening the door for the establishment of a tennis club development. (Another San Rafael City Council story, page 6)

The prezoning was conditioned on annexation to the city.

The action came on a 4-1 vote over the opposition of 35 neighbors who had petitioned the council citing increased traffic, parking problems and noise. Mayor C. Paul Bettini opposed the prezoning.

"If we permit an inroad for this club, we change the nature of that area," the mayor argued. "It's a first class residential area," he said.

Plans for the club, which received a favorable nod from the planning commission, call for tennis courts, swimming and wading pool facilities and five dwelling units. The proposed club is located on the north side of Fifth Avenue near Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

The club would provide 40 on-site parking spaces for a maximum 200-family membership, according to Grace Wagner, a spokesman for owner Caesar B. Cardani. An annexation action has not yet been filed, she said.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

DESIGN REVIEW — Adopted an environmental and design review zoning ordinance amendment that calls for a "proper balance between man-made features and the natural environment" and design review for all new buildings except single-family dwellings and duplexes sited on individual lots with frontage on a public street.

CAR LOT — Denied 3-2 Harold Holzinger's appeal of a planning commission denial for a use permit for a used car lot at 525 Second Street.

BUMP — Authorized the placement of an asphalt bump on Antonette Avenue as a traffic control device.

OPEN SPACE — Instructed staff to study the possibility of increasing city tax by 10 cents to fund open space land acquisition and to look into the possibility of raising funds through a bond issue. Bettini suggested that the city might join Marinwood and Terra Linda in a joint open space effort.

SAN QUENTIN — Supported State Sen. Peter H. Behr's, R-San Rafael, SB 229, which urges a study of possible public uses of state lands at San Quentin.

INSPECTOR — Approved the employment of Robert K. Young as a temporary construction inspector in the public works department.

WASTES — Adopted an industrial waste ordinance which establishes source control over toxic components of industrial and commercial wastes.

PIPE — Approved an agreement between the city and the Marin Municipal Water District to enlarge 820 feet of pipe along Mira Flores Avenue northerly to Miramar Avenue. The $16,420 project cost will be shared.

CLAIMS — Denied claims against the city by Casa Marin Furniture 1654 Second Street, and Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to special budget meetings next week, the dates of which have not been set.

Old HAFB Building Held Totally Unsafe

T-93, the Hamilton Air Force Base building being demolished despite Marin County Aviation Commission's vain efforts to obtain a cease and desist order, was totally unsafe according to Air Force personnel who worked there.

It had been proposed the building might serve the county as a civilian terminal.

Colonel Joseph A. Gagliano, who was acting group executive officer of the 904th Tactical Airlift Group housed in T-93, said today: "We were very happy to move out of the building. It was totally unsafe, and I doubt if anybody could hope to work effectively there."

Gagliano said one section of the roof sagged so much it had to be shored up eight inches last summer. Roof leaks this winter flooded the building so badly that records were lost and equipment damaged and personnel had to be moved out.

"The overhead plumbing was continually breaking — we were always patching and repairing — and many of the fixtures were already cracked."

But the biggest hazard in T-93, said Gagliano, was fire risk from the ancient wiring system.

"At least twice a month the condition of the wiring caused enough fira and smoke to call the fire department," he said. "The base fire inspection team was continually checking it."

And it is in fire that T-93 will meet its end. This week, military personnel will join with several Marin fire departments in a joint fire search and rescue exercise in the wrecked structure.

They will put in smoke pots, work with dummy bodies, and set fire to selected sections in part of a continuing series of joint training exercises in fire-fighting.

Current plans call for T-93 to be totally cleared away and the immense concrete slab of its base to be used as a foundation for new buildings.

Picturephone Used In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Edward Heveran and Charles L. Brown were 20 miles apart Monday, but as they chatted on the telephone they could see each other via 5-by-5 1-2 inch screens.

Heveran, president of the Oak Brook Bank, and Brown president of Illinois Bell Teelphone Co., made what Bell officials said was the nation's first subscriber intercity picturephone call.

Illinois Bell said picturephone service also is available in Bell booths in New York, Pittsburgh, Washington and Chicago, but Oak Brook and Chicago are the only two cities where private picturephone subscribers may call each other.

Train To Travel In BART Tunnel

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— For the first time, a train will travel through the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's tunnel under San Francisco Bay on Saturday, but not under its own power.

The line has not been electrified and the train will be pushed by a propane-burning truck to the new San Francisco station at Powell and Market streets.

The new $28.7 million station and the train will be opened for inspection that day from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

San Anselmo Girl Is 'Miss Cable Car'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Francesca Cresci, a model from San Anselmo, is the new "Miss Cable Car 1972."

Miss Cresci was crowned Monday at Fisherman's Wharf and will reign at the annual bell-ringing contest for gripmen and conductors in Union Square on Thursday.

STRIKE UP THE BAND

THE BOOM of the kettle drum attracts the attention of two children sitting on the bandstand as members of the Marin Youth Orchestra demonstrate their instruments individually, in groups and then in unison. Members of the orchestra, who dress in subdued black and white outfits for the other concerts in the children's series, were outfitted in jeans and other casual attire for the outdoor concert Saturday.

SIX GROUPS of from 20 to 30 children sit in with the orchestra as members demonstrate their instruments and play for half an hour. Following this the children filed into another area of the Art and Garden Center Saturday where other members of the orchestra told them more about the instruments. Ray Poteet showed (from left) Rebecca and Stephanie Prugh and an unidentified child how to play the viola. Each child had an opportunity to see, touch and play each of the instruments and talk to the orchestra members — all junior high and high school students.

Face Up To It, Your Sister Must Someday Pay The Piper

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

My sister got married about two years ago. They got in debt over their heads. Her husband talked her into robbing the place where she worked of about $5,000. Naturally, she got caught.

Mom got the charges drooped as long as the money was repaid. We borrowed and paid it back. Then my sister's husband asked for a divorce, the grounds being he didn't want to be married to a thief.

Well, they got back together again before he left for the army, and she ended up pregnant. Meanwhile, Mom and Dad were divorced, so my sister ended up living with me and our mother. We paid for the baby, and still take care of her.

Now this guy is back again, and is living off my sister's income, but she doesn't make much, so she's been writing bad checks. Mom took care of them for a while, but she doesn't have the money, and the checks are still bouncing all over the place. Mom is a great person and she and I love my sister, as much as she loves us, but we know there's something wrong with her.

We can't let her go to jail and we can't afford to bail her out. What can we do? — DESPERATE THREE IN THE SAME BOAT

DEAR DES:

Bailing out a defective boat only postpones the inevitable, and breaks the bailer's back (or bank account).

Your mother must tell her daughter she's on her own — and if this means the Women's Detention Home, well, perhaps she'll get the therapy she needs while serving her time. — HELEN

DEAR DES:

. . . And don't let your mother weaken, or she'll be a patsy all her life. There's a time in our lives when we have to stop depending on our parents — and that time is long past for your sister! Love? Uh-uh!! This is all taking — and being took. — SUE

DEAR SUE:

This guy and I really love each other and wish we could get married, but I'm 17 and he's going in the service —and I'm afraid to tell my Dad because I know he doesn't like him.

We met last weekend and we've known each other five days and four hours, plus a few minutes, but we know it's really true love 'coz even when we almost break up (three times so far) we talk it over and know we couldn't.

Should we "just date," as my Dad wants, or be together all the time until he leaves? I mean insist on getting married. — LORI AND GLENN

DEAR L AND G:

You met last weekend and you know each other well enough to get married? Come on now — you're too much "in love" to even see each other clearly.

Think of yourselves as you do about something expensive at a store. If you're smart you don't buy it on the spur of the moment. You wait, keep your cool, find out the details, determine whether you can afford it right now, and if it will "hold up" under everyday pressures.

So date for a while. Study each other's faults as well as your good points, compare your goals. Can you work well together? (With three bust-ups in five days, I wouldn't bet a bundle on it.) Be truthful and be careful!

You may very well be in love (it happens that way sometimes), but infatuation also hits you like a brick — and bounces off just as fast.

Remember, love is something that starts small and grows forever, if it grows at all. — SUE

DEAR HELEN:

There's Women's Lib for freedom from men. Why not a Girl's Lib for freedom from parents? Please tell our folks that overprotection is worse than no protection at all. We can't even talk to boys and we're 14! — CALLED TRAMPS

DEAR C.T.:

I'll tell your parents they're overprotective if you'll assure me you only want to talk to boys, not go out on heavy dates. — HELEN

Suits Look Like Dresses

What look like dresses are being called suits by fashion designer Ossie Clark, who will show his fall collection this month in London.

The designer told Women's Wear Daily he likes either long dresses or separates and has done "a lot more evening things which are low-cut and are either very fitted or full."

He likes trousers again and is experimenting with different lengths and widths and very short jackets, he said.

A BEDROOM may be the only place you can really escape to reality. Plan for serenity, but remember that quiet hours can also mean having necessities at your fingertip. This one, designed by Emily Malino for U.S. Plywood, used a Shenandoah paneling in rich chocolate brown finish.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

Hunting Solitude? Turn The Bedroom Into A Sitting Room

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
General Features Corp.

Do you ever feel that the only place you can escape is the master bedroom? Or your very own bedroom? It may be the last sanctum left in the contemporary home.

Solitude or the desire for it can be misunderstood by members of the family. The crying need to quietly settle down with a book or the newspaper or typewriter isn't too well received by active youngsters or a temporarily bored mate.

While that bedroom door provides some protection, all too often the bedroom itself hasn't really been planned for these private pursuits. The token easy chair may be there, but what about a good reading lamp and a place to put your feet?

WANT TO read my list of necessities for a good bedroom? First, every bedroom should have a small sink, a counter and electrical outlets near the counter. These goodies are for early morning refreshments, such as coffee and juice — or for late-night refreshments such as hot tea, a hot toddy or you name it.

Appended to this first item, I'd add a small refrigerator. You know, that appliance that provides ice cubes, cold milk and the ingredients for a mid-evening snack.

Next necessity is a small settee or a chaise lounge. As a substitute I'd settle for a pair of supercomfortable armchairs and a great big ottoman — big enough for two pairs of feet — a stack of magazines, eyeglasses, books, needlework.

Bedside bookcases come next. Down with the typical bedside tables! Up with taller storage units that also have shelf space for such things as radio, clock, water carafe, eyeglasses, books, tissues, pills, tea or coffee cup, pencils and paper. Quite a list, eh? But haven't all of us wanted just such things only to have to get up out of bed to reach them?

BED LIGHT is a final need. No hotel room I have ever used has had adequate lighting, but at least it provides something. Few houses have adequate lighting in bedrooms and what lighting is provided usually is too weak to sustain any lengthy period of reading or writing.

Ears need to be pampered, too. And the acoustical value of wall paneling, such as U.S. Plywood's "Shenandoah," is best noticed in the bedroom.

U.S. Population Growth Reported Slackening Some

The country is growing sideways, according to a recent report on population growth and life expectancy made by a major insurance company.

The population growth was down for 1971 and life expectancy was up in the United States. The population rise last year was 0.99 per cent, slightly below the 1.10 for 1970 and 1.05 for 1969. The slackened growth resulted mainly from the decrease in births after the first quarter of last year.

Babies born had a better chance of survival — infant mortality dropped to an all-time low in the U.S. of 19.1 per 1,000 live births.

Also, the report showed that death rates were down slightly.

Mrs. O'Leal Selected As Group's President

Mrs. Antonio O'Leal has been installed president of the Marin County Reserve Officers Ladies Association.

Winnie O'Leal has also served the association as first vice president and historian.

She and her husband, Colonel O'Leal (USAF-ret), live in Marinwood, where the couple moved 13 years ago after his retirement from Hamilton Air Force Base and duty in Turkey.

They are parents of five children, Leland O'Leal and Mrs. Joanne Lucky of Fairfax, Linda O'Leal, who is traveling in Europe; and Mark, 17 and Gail 13, who live at the family home.

Mrs. O'Leal is also active in the Sunny Hills guild and teaches nursery school at the Creative Nursery School in Terra Linda. She also enjoys flower arranging, sewing and baking.

The reserve officers ladies association supports the Reseve Officers Association activities and last year the group sent clothes to disaster areas in the U.S. and overseas, sent soap and supplies to hospitals in Vietnam and gave money to Operation Sleigh Bell.

Other new officers are Mmes. Walter Van Emmon, first vice president; Carl Webber, second vice president; Robert Paine, treasurer; Robert Carter, secretary; William Damerow, parliamentarian, and Andrew Bahr, historian.

ASYLUM TO HIJACKER, FRIEND

Algeria, traditional haven for political dissenters, has granted asylum to William Holder, 22, (left) a Black Panther hijacker, and Katherine Mary Kerbow, 21. The San Diego couple skyjacked a Western Airlines plane to Algeria over the weekend. The $500,000 ransom, which they obtained while on the ground at San Francisco, will be returned, Algerian officials said yesterday. (UPI Telephotos)

Appeals Court Overturns Richmond School Order

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals today overturned a sweeping district court order that would have merged Richmond's predominantly black schools with those of two suburban counties with mostly white school populations.

The 4th circuit, in reversing a controversial decision by U. S. District Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr., said it believed the last vestiges of state-imposed segregation had been wiped out in the public schools of the city of Richmond and the counties of Henrico and Chesterfield and unitary schools systems achieved.

"Because it is not established that the racial composition of the schools in the city of Richmond and the counties is the result of invidious state action, we conclude there is no constitutional violation and that, therefore, the district judge exceeded his power of intervention," the court said.

Merhige had directed the three school systems Jan. 10 to set up a metropolitan school district which would have 104,000 students. About 78,000 students would have been bused under the plan, about 10,000 more than the three localities now transport.

His decision touched off a storm of disapproval among the white suburban county residents, resulting in angry rallies and a massive motorcade to Washington to protest busing.

The 4th circuit later granted a stay in Merhige's order until it could rule on an appeal by the counties and the state.

Merhige's order had been significant in that it was the first in the country to direct that political boundaries be ignored for desegregation purposes.

The merger had been sought by a group of Richmond blacks and the Richmond school board, burdened with trying to meet federal court requirements in an increasingly black school system.

Merhige had ruled that polilical subdivision lines were a creation of the state and that school district lines "are matters of political convenience."

He said the claim that the defendant counties "have a right to keep their separate systems to be utilized solely by residents of the respective counties has little merit in the face of past discriminatory practices on the part of all of the defendants.

The 4th circuit, in a 5-1 ruling, disagreed with that contention.

"May a United States district judge comply one of the states of the union to restructure its internal government for the purpose of the public racial balance in the assignment of pupils to the public schools?" The majority opinion written by Judge J. Braxton Craven opened.

"We think not, absent invidious discrimination in the establishment or maintenance of local governmental units, and accordingly reverse," the opinion said.

The 4th circuit, said in devising remedies in school cases, it is difficult to "know how far a court can go, but it must be recognized that there are limits."

It noted that, in a New Jersey case, black plaintiffs sought to compel the state of New Jersey for the purpose of achieving racial balance and preventing defacto segregation to join separate school districts.

"The three-judge court held de facto segregation, defined as racial imbalance that exists through no discriminatory action of state authorities to be beyond the ambition of the 14th Amendment," the court said.

Hearing Set In Drug Case

A preliminary hearing for Steven Pope Coleman, 19, of Mill Valley on felony charges of possessing marijuana and dangerous drugs, has been set for next Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court.

Coleman who has pleaded innocent to the charges was arrested May 28 with two other persons at Alder and Evergreen roads after a caller told sheriff's deputies she had seen a suspicious person with a pile of clothing in a field near their vehicles.

Deputies said they found a stolen credit card and suspected drugs in a pair of pants in one of the vehicles.

Asst Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas said no charge will be filed against either of the other two arrested because of insufficient evidence. They are James William Ferguson, 27, and Rhonda Renee Staggs, 18.

Lab Supplies Taken

The Las Gallinas Sanitary District sewage sanitation plant at 300 Smith Ranch Road, San Rafael, was burglarized of $160 in laboratory supplies sometime between 4:30 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Saturday, police reported today.

Denial To Any Extortion Plans

A 21-year-old Tiburon man has denied in Marin Municipal Court that he tried to capitalize on a missing daughter to extort $1,000 from a Corte Madera man.

A preliminary hearing on the charge was set for June 15 for Charles Michael Dodson.

Corte Madera police arrested him May 29 after he told Jack W. Forster, partner in a landscape maintenance firm, that he would tell Forster where to find his missing daughter for $1,000.

The daughter subsequently returned home and said she had never heard of Dodson, according to Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas.

Dodson is already awaiting sentencing on two counts of obtaining money under false pretences. In those cases, he allegedly bilked two families out of cash by posing as a representative of the Marin County Housing Authority.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidant, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, clean air.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other Areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, significant air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches, and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Hearing Set In Theft Case

A preliminary hearing for James Mike Booth, 29, of Woodacre, charged with burglarizing Forest Knolls home, has been set for June 20 in Marin Municipal Court.

Booth was arrested by sheriff's deputies May 24 after William F. Wright of Linares Road in Forest Knolls reported he had seen a rug stolen from his home in the rear of a pickup truck and followed the vehicle to Booth's residence.

Booth has pleaded innocent.

Petaluma Backs A North Alliance

The Petaluma City Council reaffirmed its stand last night that Sonoma County should belong to a new alliance of North Coast counties and cities, despite objections from city businessmen.

Burdette A. Shannon, manager of the Petaluma Chamber of Commerce, said in a letter to the council that creation of a North Coast Regional Planning and Development Commission would mean excessive taxation, higher cost than present membership in the Association of Bay Area Governments and loss of voting privileges according to population.

The stand was taken recently by the chamber's board of directors.

City Clerk Lillian Nomsen said the council, overriding the objections, authorized a letter to the State Council on Intergovernmental Relations reaffirming support of the county board of supervisors intention to join the new alliance. It also voted, with Mayor Helen Putnam and Councilman Richard E. Clecak dissenting, to send a representative to the next state council session to state the council's position once again.

Sonoma County voters last year voted to pull out of ABAG in favor of the new regional alliance, although Mrs. Putnam has said she believes citizens were misled on the issue.

Last night, City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer recommended to the council a preliminary 1972-73 municipal budget of $2,419,571, up $235,258 over the current fiscal year.

The spending program, received without discussion, will be reviewed in detail for the first time at a special council study session at 1 p.m. Monday in city hall.

The council also ratified a new wage agreement reached by Meyer with the Petaluma Police Officers Association. It calls, in addition to education and health benefits, for a salary range beginning at $577 per month for a dispatcher clerk to a top of $1,183 per month for lieutenants.

The package will cost the city about $84,000 more for regular police pay in 1972-73.

Plea Entered To Burglary

Walter Vincent Burke, 32, of Fairfax, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing an Almonte home more than a year ago.

In return for the plea, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner agreed to commit him to the California Rehabilitation Center if he is found to be a heroin addict.

Burke was arrested March 15, 1971, when sheriff's deputies found a sleeping bag containing allegedly stolen property in his car. The items were taken from the home of John P. Kelly of California Avenue.

Burke is to be sentenced July 17.

Salary Plan To Be Given

The Certificated Employees Council, representing Novato teachers, is expected to make a salary proposal to the Novato Unified School District board meeting at 8 p.m. today in the Novato High School lecture hall.

Salaries have been frozen in the district's preliminary budget of $10,695,236 for 1971-72 with intent to reconsider salaries if additional state revenue is available.

Teachers have been considering recommending cuts on other sections of the budget, such as transportation or athletic programs, to free funds for salary increases.

Ranch Land Annexation On Agenda

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission, meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at Civic Center, will consider a petition from the city of Novato for annexation of the historic Pacheco Ranch.

The 519-acre ranch, located near Ignacio, has been proposed for a project of almost 700 apartment and town house dwellings by the Perl-Mack Co.

It was first considered by the county planning commission but was referred to Novato when both the city and developer agreed to investigate annexation.

The apartment and townhouse dwellings would be constructed on about 137 acres of the site with the remaining 382 acres left in open space.

The property is one of the last parcels of a 6,659-acre land grant given pioneer rancher Ygnacio Pacheco in 1840 by the Spanish crown.

The commission, which will meet in the board of supervisors chambers in the administration building, also will consider a letter from the Fireman's Fund Insurance Co. threatening to scrap plans for a computer center unless its land is released by the Terra Linda Community services district.

Jackie Visits Lincoln Center For First Time

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis tightly squeezed Leonard Bernstein's hand as the orchestra, chorus and soloists performed his "Mass"—a memorial to her assassinated husband.

When the two-hour performance ended Monday night at the John F. Kennedy Center for Performing Arts, Mrs. Onassis joined with everyone else in the red-walled Opera House in a 10-minute standing ovation for Bernstein.

He kissed her hand.

It was the former first lady's first visit to the white marble center on the banks of the Potomac which opened nine months ago and the first time she had seen a performance of the Mass, which she had asked Bernstein to compose.

'Save Valley' Event Rounds Up $2,700

A "Save the Valley" fair run by the Mont Marin Homeowners Association Saturday raised $2,700 - ample funds to pay attorney and appraisal fees in connection with the forming of an assessment district to buy about 200 acres of open space in the valley.

Mrs. Judy Kaye, association publicity chairman, said the event was attended by around 800 people, and profits exceeded expectation.

There is a moratorium on zone changing in the area until June 20, and association members are currently collecting homeowners' signatures with the intent of forming as assessment district.

Mrs. Kaye said 60 per cent of the 270 homeowners' signatures are needed, and members are confident these can be gathered within the next two weeks.

Owners of the ridgeland 200-acre property in Lucas Valley have proposed selling it for a townhouse project. The Association intends the assessment district would buy the land and keep it as an undeveloped open space. Presently there are several horses grazing the land, and an old barn used for stabling.

PERMANENT RECORD OF HER VISIT

San Rafael High School's exchange student from Australia, Dawn Bennett, leans over the stone wall bearing bronze plaques recording exchange students — hers is at the bottom right. Dawn's name is the latest on the wall by the redwood grove erected on the campus in 1955 by the San Rafael Rotary Club as a memorial to foreign exchange students. Club members gathered in the grove yesterday to commemorate the 1955 dedication.

Utah Road Crash Kills Petaluman

I-J Special Report

GREEN RIVER, Utah — Estyle McClain, 48, of 717 North McDowell Boulevard, Petaluma, died early today in a predawn car-truck accident near here.

Her husband, John R. McClain, was injured but was reported in satisfactory condition at Allen Memorial Hospital in Moab, Utah.

The couple had been en route to Colorado for Mrs. McClain's brother's funeral.

Mrs. McClain and Norma Finkenbinder, 47, of Fairfield (Solano County), both backseat passengers in a car driven by Ezra Finkenbinder, 47, were killed when it ran into the rear of a "belly dumper" truck.

Accident reports said the truck had slowed to make a left turn on Interstate 70, and the car skidded sideways into the truck. The truck driver was uninjured.

McClain, Finkenbinder and another passenger, Cleo J. Bowden, 47, of Tracy (San Joaquin County), were all reported in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

Specialized Faculty Given Pay Increases

The Marin County Board of Education last night approved cost-of-living salary increases for both administrative personnel and teachers in the specialized schools operated by the county schools office.

The administrators were granted 3 per cent raises with additional fringe benefits amounting to .5 per cent, according to Asst. Supt. Robert E. Spain. He said these increases will cost an additional $15,000 for the next year.

The board also granted 3 per cent salary increases and 0.8 per cent fringe benefit additions to the teaching staff, Spain said. No estimate was made of the total cost of these raises, he said.

The raises were granted after negotiation between the staff and the board and the 3.8 per cent figure was the cost of living increase reported in the Consumer Price Index for the year ending in April, Spain said.

At the board's meeting last night, a letter from Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino advising the board to release the names of four unsuccessful applicants for a recent board vacancy was received officially.

Spain said no action was taken on the matter, however, because board member Patrick W. Pollack who had requested the legal opinion was not present last night. The matter will be discussed at the board's June 19 meeting, Spain said.

The board voted behind closed doors last month to appoint William L. Sisk of Novato to a vacancy for which four other Novato residents had also applied. County Schools Supt. Virgil S. Hollis then refused to divulge the names of the other applicants, saying it was against board policy. Hollis has said he intends to ignore the counsel's advice.

Last night Sisk was sworn in as a new board member. The oath was administered by his father, Homer Sisk, former superintendent of schools in Fairfax.

Sisk will serve until November when he must seek reelection.

The Marin County Board of Education also:

EMPLOYEES — Hired Mildred Guthrie as a bus driver at $2.94 an hour and Gerald D. Ricketts as a maintenance man at $735 a month.

AGREEMENT — Entered into an agreement with Sonoma County for a full-time instructor for blind pupils who will be paid with state funds.

POSITIONS — Approved additions to the staff including a resource teacher in the hearing handicapped program at a salary range of $12,865 to $13,974; a physical education teacher for mentally and physically handicapped children at a range of $10,244 to $13,580 and a school psychometrist for handicapped programs at a range of $12,525 to $13,615.

Guilty Plea To Armed Robbery

A Tuolumne County man charged with armed robbery of a Corte Madera store pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court as part of a plea bargain.

Philip Ray Talley, 32, of Columbia pleaded guilty on the condition he receive no more than six months in jail, but Judge Samuel W. Gardiner continued the case to July 17 to obtain a probation report.

Talley and Leroy H. Dorigo, 24, were arrested in San Rafael after allegedly holding up a clerk in the Corte Madera 7-11 store. Armed with a knife and razor, he took about $280, police said.

Dorigo is awaiting trial for armed robbery.

A Denial Made To Hit-And-Run

A 25-year-old Sausalito woman denied in Marin Municipal Court yesterday that she fled the scene after her auto struck a construction worker in Sausalito.

A preliminary hearing for Linda Carole Almen on the felony hit-and-run driving count was set for June 20.

She was arrested at her home after a witness to the accident obtained the car's license number, police said.

The woman is charged with hitting Gary R. Zadnick, 23, of Vacaville as he worked Thursday on sewer lines in the 800 block of Bridgeway.

Zadnick was treated at Marin General Hospital for severe head cuts.

Lumber Stolen

Lumber valued at $196 was stolen from the McKeon construction site at Kerner and Sonoma streets, San Rafael, between 4:30 p.m. Saturday and 7:30 a.m. Monday, police reported today.

Profile Of Commuters To Be Gained

A questionnaire seeking a broad profile of commuters will be distributed to motorists at the Richmond and Golden Gate Bridge toll plazas, as well as to passengers aboard Golden Gate Transit ferries and buses, from 6 a.m. to 10 a.m. Thuraday.

Information collected on the confidential, one-page survey will be used by the planning department in drawing up proposals to increase the lower priced housing supply and expand the range of job opportunities within the county.

Data will also be used by Golden Gate Transit to streamline the scheduling of buses and ferries.

The questionnaire will ask the occupation, age, working hours, family size, housing situation and the street name and nearest cross street of one's residence.

Plea Entered In Pot Case

An 18-year-old Fairfax resident pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior court to a felony count of growing marijuana and a preliminary hearing was scheduled for June 19.

Camas Eve Brown was arrested with Michael Arthur Timmel, 21, also of Fairfax, after police received a tip May 27 that marijuana plants were growing in a planter box at the residence. Police said they found about 15 stalks of possible marijuana.

Timmel, who is also charged with possessing drug paraphernalia, was to appear to plead today.

Whiskey Springs Density Opposed

A referendum petition calling for repeal of a Sausalito City Council resolution approving a density of approximately 380 units for the proposed Whiskey Springs apartment development will be presented to the city council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The petition, circulated and initiated by the newly-formed Nevada Street Valley Neighborhood Association, has collected sufficient signatures to force the city council either to repeal the density or put the matter to voters, according to Leify Smith, association director.

City Clerk Miriam K. Ansell said 540 valid signatures were collected, more than the 445, or 10 per cent of the city's 4,455 registered voters, needed to make the referendum valid.

In April the council granted developer Joseph Duffel a conditional use permit which would allow the 380-unit density in the development, planned for the 14-acre site of the former American Distilling Co.

Miss Smith said those who signed the petition oppose the high density in Whiskey Springs because it would increase the city's population by about 18 per cent and intensify existing traffic congestion.

The neighborhood association believes the development, as proposed and approved, would "further degrade the village character of Sausalito by generating an additional 3,000 auto trips in and out of the city daily," she said.

"Most people in Sausalito are also convinced this density in Whiskey Springs would increase property taxes since the cost of the services which would have to be provided to development residents would be greater than the revenue it would bring to the city," Miss Smith said.

If the council agrees to repeal the high density, the association director said the petitioners would like to work with the developer to plan a development "acceptable to everybody."

She said the association is suggesting, among other things, a lower number of units, a mixture of dwellings and resident-serving commercial enterprises in Whiskey Springs and opening the development's planned recreational facilities to the public.

Burglary Case Hearing Is Set

A preliminary hearing for two brothers charged with burglarizing a Kent Woodlands home then stealing the car from the garage, has been set for June 15 in Marin Municipal Court.

Arnold Roy Turner, 20, of Pacific and Robert Burch Turner, 24, of Burlingame were arrested May 27 as they fled the home of Mildred M. Stockton, at 9 Phoenix Road, according to sheriff's deputies.

Deputies said the garage had been pried open to get in, but were unsure what had been taken.

A bench warrant with bail set at $5,000 has been issued for Michael Mattson, age and address unknown, on the same charges.

Mill Valley Delays On Construction Ban

The Mill Valley City Council last night converted a proposed emergency ordinance — which could have imposed an immediate construction ban in East Mill Valley into a regular ordinance which requires two readings and a public hearing.

The council backed off from the emergency measure at midnight after agreeing that hasty action before a handful of spectators might appear inappropriate.

Mayor Jean Barnard cautioned her colleagues not to take final action last night. She said such a move could draw criticism from those who might characterize the meeting as "one of those midnight special sessions."

After listening to objections to the moratorium from three developers, the council unanimously passed the first reading of the draft ordinance.

The moratorium, if adopted, will prohibit the development, construction or use of any affected property unless a specific use permit is granted by the city. The proposed moratorium applies even to those uses of property that are compatible with current zoning.

It is being considered by the council as a means to prevent uncontrolled development in the area surrounding Upper Richardson Bay while the city prepares a master plan for East Mill Valley.

The emergency ordinance provided for an initial four-month moratorium, which could be renewed for eight months and then one year. The regular ordinance, now being considered by the council would establish a one-year moratorium, which could be extended for an additional year.

Developer Warner Odenthal, a property owner in the affected area, told the city council that a one year construction ban — which could easily be extended for a second year — was unfair to him. He claimed that during the past 14 years, while his development plans have been stymied by the city, he has paid more than $100,000 in property taxes.

"The city doesn't need a moratorium on its own property and it doesn't need a moratorium on our property either," he said. "Our property is zoned commercial-recreation and the city has complete control over us anyway."

Ivan S. Poutiatine, chairman of the city's planning commission, vigorously supported the moratorium, which had previously been recommended by the commission.

The very presence of the developers at the meeting, according to Poutiatine, indicated the need for a master plan for the area. "Right now, there is a planning vacuum in the area," said Poutiatine. "This is the reason for the moratorium."

The measure will return to the council for its second reasing and possible adoption June 19.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

YOUTH COMMISSION — Appointed John Everts, and Patsy Downing to the Mill Valley Youth Commission, but continued a proposal that would change the terms of office for commissioners from one to two years.

ENVIRONMENT — Appointed Kent Sims to the environmental quality committee of the City-County Planning Council of Marin.

HUMAN RIGHTS — Appointed Binky Monjauze to the human rights miniboard.

RETIREMENT CENTER — Continued a request from the Community Church Retirement Center for a refund of sewer fees, a refund of fire hydrant installation costs and exemption from an obligation to pay the city for the priviliage of hauling dirt across city-owned property.

CAMINO ALTO — Appropriated $8,557 for additional engineering fees anticipated by Stanley Bala, city engineer, in connection with the Camino Alto improvement project. Bala told the council that the additional fee would probably not reach the full appropriation.

OLD MILL STREET — Referred to the planning commission a request from the Mill Valley School District that the city close Old Mill Street and allow it to be used as a play area by students at Old Mill School.

BUILDING CODE — Adopted the 1970 edition of the Uniform Building Code after knocking out a section that exempts public utilities from applying for excavation permits from the city.

PUBLIC EMPLOYEES — Adopted an ordinance that incorporates the city's employees into the California Public Employees Retirement System.

NIGHT PARKING — Passed the first reading of a draft ordinance that would prohibit parking any vehicle in the downtown business area between 3 a.m. and 6 a.m. According to Mayor Jean Barnard, the ordinance was designed to allow street cleaners to move throughout the area unobstructed.

STOP SIGN — Designated the intersection of Kipling, Longfellow and Seaver drives as a stop intersection and authorized the erection of stop signs.

FALL ARTS FEST — Approved, in principal the application of the Fall Arts Festival to use Boyle Park Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, subject to the approval of regulations in an agreement between festival organizers and the city's park and recreation department.

CITY PARKS — Took no action on a recommendation from the park and recreation commission that all city parks, except the tennis courts, be closed from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m., due to unruly behavior after dark.

COMMUNITY GARDEN — Referred to the parks and recreation commission and the architectural advisory committee a suggestion from Lee Eggleston that the city organize a community garden to serve as demonstration model for amateur gardeners throughout Mill Valley.

PARKING METERS — Referred to the city attorney a proposal from the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce to install limited time parking meters in selected locations in the downtown business area.

MEETING — Adjourned to a special budget meeting at 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

Water Bomb Leads To Drug Pleas

Two Novato residents arrested on suspicion of drug charges after allegedly aiming a five-gallon bag of water containing goldfish at Novato police have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court.

A preliminary hearing was set for June 27 for Donald Paul Seaman, 37, charged with possessing marijuana for sale, and misdemeanor counts of assault on a policeman and having a marijuana smoking device, and for Judith Elaine Neil, 28, charged only with the felony possession for sale count.

The two were arrested May 28 by two Novato officers who said Seaman hurled the bag of water at them on the Western Country Fair carnival grounds.

During a search, police said they found vegetable matter and a list of clients. Police said they then searched Seaman's residence and found more suspected marijuana.

Three others arrested in an ensuing investigation have been arraigned in municipal court and are scheduled to plead June 15.

Safety Budgets To Be Studied

Public Safety budgets for Sausalito totaling $823,911 will be studied by the Sausalito City Council finance committee in a 1972-73 municipal budget review session at 8 p.m. Thursday in city hall.

Sausalito's public safety budget for the coming year, as proposed by City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr, includes $465,717 for police, $342,702 for fire and $15,492 for ambulance.

The proposed spending program is approximately $7,000 less than last year's budget which totaled $816,755 and included $467,874 for police, $334,153 for fire and $14,728 for ambulance.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By Gordon B. Greb

Try this quiz on the June 6, birthday of Paul Dudley White (1886-), medical doctor:

T F 1. When Lydon B. Johnson suffered his first heart attack in 1955, this Boston physician was called upon to handle the case because of his international reputation as a cardiologist.

T F 2. Born at Roxbury, Mass., this New Englander has never stopped studying and teaching since he first went to Harvard University more than 64 years ago.

T F 3. Skinny as a youngster, White is still very thin and believes that staying this way is the means to good health, which is one reason you can see him pedaling his bicycle around town everyday.

T F 4. White notes in his book, "My Life and Medicine," that heart disease is now the nation's No. 1 killer, outranking cancer and death by accident.

ANSWERS

1. FALSE — The doctor was President Eisenhower's 1955 heart specialist, not Johnson's.

2. TRUE — Continuously studying, he earned an M.D. in 1908 and a D.Sc. in 1950, both from Harvard.

3. TRUE — His advice: avoid overeating, exercise regularly, do not smoke and have annual medical checkups.

4. TRUE — White thinks soft living has contributed to the rise of heart disease in America since 1920.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Only Simple Arithmetic Is Needed To Score A Victory

People often say that bridge is a game for the mathematically minded. Actually, arithmetic is all the mathematics you need. And even the arithmetic is far from advanced: All you need is the ability (and the willingness) to count up to 13. This may enable you to play as though you could see through the backs of the cards.

WITH QUEEN

West led the deuce of spaces, and East won the first trick with the queen. He continued with the ace of spades, and South ruffed. Declarer made a mental note that East had started with six spades and West with four. (In theory, it was possible for East to have seven spades, but he would have bid a second time with a seven-card suit.)

Declarer knocked out the ace of hearts next. West led a club to the ace, and South won the club continuation with the king.

South drew a second round of trumps, and East discarded a spade. South then ruffed his last club in dummy, and East once more discarded a spade.

COUNT COMPLETE

By now South knew that East started with only one heart, only two clubs and exactly six spades. He was sure to have exactly six spades. He was sure to have exactly four diamonds to fill out his original hand to 13 cards. This left only one diamond for West to hold.

Declarer led the king of diamonds from dummy, drawing West's known singleton. Then he led a small diamond from dummy. East played the eight, and South won a finesse with the nine. It was then easy to get to dummy with a trump for another diamond finesse.

DEEP FINESSE

Any average player would finesse with the jack of diamonds and thus get three diamond tricks, but only a counter could safely finesse with the nine of diamonds and thus make the game contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player bids two hearts.

You hold:
♠ - 10 7 5 2
♦ - 2
♣ - Q 10 8 5 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades.

The distribution is far too good for a raise to two spades.

Pencil Safety

NEW YORK (UPI)—Children chewing on lead pencils probably run less chance of lead poisoning these days. The Pencil Makers Association Inc. reports a new testing and certification program which requires that members' pencils contain less than one-half of one per cent of lead in the lacquer. Ninety per cent of pencil makers hold membership in the association.

HERE ARE SOME "BRASS TACKS" ABOUT AUTOMOBILE BUYING

Automobile SELLING is highly competitive business. The dealer with lower overhead REALLY has a competitive advantage. He can use this advantage to give his customers better deals.

In Marin County overhead IS lower and you'll find BETTER deals than you can find "over the bridge" - AND the service is LOCAL!

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Hospitals Must Be Constructed With Needs Of Future In Mind

Hospitals must be built with future needs in mind. All too often, new institutions are obsolete before their doors are opened. Changes in health care methods and licensing regulations also must be anticipated. At this writing, many cities have more than enough beds. However, changes in distribution are needed.

For many years, half the patients in hospitals stayed too long and frequently did not need such expensive care to begin with. Hospitalization and service plans can be blamed, because these groups refused to insure people for outpatient or home care. Had facilities been available, the majority could have been housed in a nearby hotel or motel and received the same medical care at half the price. In other words, the key gain of having these facilities available will be less expensive outpatient (ambulatory) care.

MEANWHILE, the hospitals will update the more expensive intensive care units where staff and equipment are geared to provide life-saving services to victims of heart attacks, strokes, burns, and other conditions that carry a high risk. There will be special sections for surgery, women, children, rehabilitation, and psychiatric problems. Emergency rooms will take up considerable space and, in all probability, will be run by full-time salaried physicians with special training in trauma. This may include an ambulance service with trained crews who know how to handle the injured and acutely ill.

CERTAIN HOSPITALS in metropolitan areas will have artificial kidney units; others will have blood and tissue banks, cancer treatment centers, or extensive automated laboratory facilities. Duplication should be avoided. The X-ray departments of today are prepared to do a variety of highly technical and sophisticated procedures.

Specialized care of any type is very expensive, but the costs need not be shared by every patient in the institution. Savings can be realized if those in need of routine care eat in a communal dining room, take their own showers, turn down the beds, and tidy the rooms or recuperate in motel facilities.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanieu request to the Independent-Journal.)

PLANT ALLERGY

Miss G. writes: When the spring grasses and weeds start growing, I get clear blisters on my ankles. They break and the area itches, then blisters form again. This goes on all summer. Since I must take care of the lawn and garden, would you have any advice on prevention?

REPLY

Consider moving to an apartment if you are this sensitive to grasses and weeds. However, consult an allergist or dermatologist before making drastic changes. There are other causes for blisters that develop in warm weather.

COFFEE IS A DIURETIC

C. C. writes: Does coffee encourage frequent urination in a teen-ager?

REPLY

Yes. Coffee acts a mild diuretic for all age groups. The water in coffee also helps.

FLU WITHOUT FEVER

M. T. writes: Can you have flu without fever?

REPLY

Yes — a mild case. As a rule, the temperature rises sharply several hours after the onset of influenza.

Workers Strike Over Free Beer

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — About 650 brewery workers went on strike Monday because their employer wanted to discontinue a 50-year practice of providing free beer to workers during that period known elsewhere as coffee breaks.

The strike by members of Local 5 and 183, United Brewery Workers, halted production at the Philadelphia and Norristown, Pa., plants of C. Schmidt & Sons, Inc., makers of Schmidt's beer.

The union spokesman said that during negotiations for a new three-year wage contract the company sought to eliminate the jobs of two bartenders working the "free beer" breaks.

A federal mediator will meet with both sides Wednesday in an effort to resolve the dispute.

MANY USES PREDICTED

Cassette TV Catching On In Business World

By MARTIN SKALA
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — It's not yet within reach of the average home viewer, but cassette television is capturing a widening audience in the business world.

Businessmen who once scoffed at video players as a "futuristic" plaything are taking a serious look at the new medium's potential for increasing sales and boosting employee productivity.

Coca-Cola, Ford and IBM are among the growing number of companies planning to make major use of the new "personalized" TV technology. Video cassettes play through TV sets, the same way audio cassettes play through a hi-fi set.

With a $10,000 investment in a video-player set and 20 instructional cassettes, Coca-Cola's bottlers will soon be able to upgrade their production and marketing skills. The video players will provide individualized, on-the-job training at bottling plants, dispensing with much of the need for classroom-type instruction.

Japan's Toyota Co. is providing its own video-cassette programs to dealers, both to instruct car mechanics and to deliver sales pitches to customers.

In the future, a car buyer may not even have to go to showrooms to inspect new models. He could plug the auto company's cassette into his home video player, see the vehicles in action, and then order directly from the local distributor.

IBM, which recently acquired 300 video players made by Japan's Sony Corp., plans to use the devices mainly for sales promotion and management communications.

Businessmen are eager to experiment with video cassettes for use in point-of-sale advertising, vocational education, and sales training. But the technological turmoil accompanying the development of the many competing hardware and software systems has made many potential users wary.

Four incompatible technologies are vying for acceptance in video recordings: magnetic tape, photographic film, vinyl discs, and still some time away, holographic tape. Though producers of video systems jockey for a leading position, various engineering claims and counterclaims are hard to sort out. No one wants to invest thousands of dollars in playback units, and even more expensive original programming, in a particular technology that may be an "also-ran."

To help resolve the user's dilemma, Videorecord Corp. of America of Westport, Conn., is organizing a distribution network to rent video players and programs to business. By making it easy to rent the equipment, Videorecord frees users of the worry of investing in potentially obsolescent machines.

The three-year-old company, perhaps the leading software producer in the field, has signed up several dozen dealers in 24 states as a first step in creating a national distribution system. Each dealer, says Videorecord president Stafford Hopwood Jr., will offer "a complete viewing package," including a color TV set, a recorder player unit, and a duplicating service that will convert existing materials to the lower-cost cassette format.

Although Videorecord does not intend to be wedded to any single technology, its major commitment in terms of hardware is to the $1,400 video-cassette recorder made by the U.S. arm of the Dutch electronics giant, North American Philips Corp. Philips, a leading manufacturer of audio cassettes, is also the European pacesetter in the budding cartridge-TV industry.

Hopwood, a former executive with the Columbia Broadcasting System, sees "electronic merchandising" as a major launching pad for the new medium because 'you can reach selected audiences economically."

"Broadcast TV works best for mass-audience products where you want to reach thousands at a time. But things like engineering services, heavy equipment, and industrial products could never be sold on TV before."

The education market also rates high on Videorecord's list. Video cassettes are considered ideal in a multi-media learning environment. Since cassettes can be stopped and rerun and don't require a darkened room, the student can control his own learning pace.

That's why the Connecticut firm has acquired distribution rights to more than 3,000 films covering such diverse fields as health care, office skills, personal finance, sports, and music. In cassette form, these programs can be shown by clubs, civic groups, and educational institutions.

"Some people seem to have the misconception that the video cassette is a mass communicator just because it plays through TV receivers," Hopwood said.

But Hopwood is convinced the video-cassette medium has much more to offer than reruns of old Hollywood movies. It will prosper, he believes, only as highly selective and imaginative programs are developed for it.

Suit Says Clear Lake Is Polluted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Lake County property owners filed a $20.4 million suit in San Francisco Superior Court on Monday, claiming Clear Lake had been polluted.

The 34 plaintiffs named as defendants the state of California, Lake County, the Clear Lake Keys Co. and Marvin T. Levin and Robert Ducca, company officials.

Their suit contended the developers of a marina at the lake had "improperly planned, designed and constructed said tract."

As a result, there were improper facilities for the disposal of pollutants, the suit continued.

No Building Permit For Burger Chain

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The city's Board of Permit Appeals has voted to revoke a building permit for the McDonald hamburger store chain.

The revocation came Monday after Joseph Belardi, Labor Council president, declared the chain hired non-union help.

"THAT'S WHERE IT'S AT!"

Eastern Firm Captures Canton Seafood Pact

BY MARTIN SKALA
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — If seafood expert Murry P. Berger has his way, U.S.-China trade may soon develop a pungent flavor all its own.

The American yen for Orinetal dishes such as shrimp, chow mein and egg rolls, the president of Seabrook Foods says, provides a ready-made market for frozen foods imported from China.

Beofre the year is over, Berger — a member of the first U.S. businessman's group to be invited to the Canton Trade Fair — plans to give consumers a taste of Chinese shrimp and vegetables.

Seabrook Foods, which does a $75 million annual business, is a fast-growing processor of frozen seafood and vegetables. It distributes more than 150 frozen food products, ranging from breaded oyster and seafood newburg to cut okra and onion rings. The company's major labels include Carnation Seafoods, Snow Crop, and Kitchen Ready — many of them regional brands.

Berger returned from the Canton Trade Fair with a firm contract to buy $200,000 worth of frozen shrimp and five varieties of exotic vegetables. It is believed to be the first direct U.S. purchase of frozen foods from mainland China. Other products U.S. importers reportedly purchased at China's semi-annual trade exhibit included jewelry, handicrafts, chemicals, and rugs.

"This is only the beginning" the jubilant executive said at Seabrook's Great Neck, Long Island, headquarters. If the initial shipments pass consumer tests, as he confidently expects they will, the "door will be opened" for larger imports of frozen foods from China.

"We may introduce an expanded line of ethnic foods.

"The potential is big, especially since Chinese-style foods are so widely accepted here."

Seabrook already markets ready-to-eat dishes that appeal to ethnic or regional tastes including shrimp scampi, hush puppies, kosher vegetables. Chinese seafood, however, is Berger's main interest.

"The Chinese have been exporting frozen shrimp to Canada and Europe for several years," he explains. "I tasted their shrimp in Great Britain and it's a real quality product."

Shrimp — the most popular variety of shellfish — is in short supply in U.S. waters. To supplement the domestic catch from the Gulf Coast, processors such as Seabrook import 200 million pounds of shrimp annually, about one third of U.S. consumption. "We're always on the lookout for new sources of supply," Berger added.

The 20-year veteran of the seafood business first expressed a desire to go to the Canton fair more than a year ago.

He wrote to a trading company in Peking, but received no reply. The break came shortly after President Nixon's trip to Peking in February. After "just about giving up hope" he received a brief cable from the Canton fair officials extending a personal invitation.

After getting clearance from the State Department, Berger joined a group of about 30 businessmen making the first U.S. appearance at China's major export showcase.

Negotiations with his supplier — a large government export-import agency specializing in seafoods — were well-organized and "very cordial," Mr. Berger reports. "No cross words were spoken."

"You soon learn there is only one price. There's no haggling," he added.

Nor did the Chinese trade officials, or his interpreter, try to "sell their ideology." Berger didn't leave Canton until after the mining of North Vietnam's harbors had been announced by the Nixon administration, but there were "no expressions of anti-American sentiment." "There are a great many posters with Mao quotes, but there are no anti-Western slogans to be seen."

Berger said the huge trade show, which reportedly generates half of China's annual foreign trade, featured big displays of arts and crafts, machine tools, hardware, and tractors. "I would have to believe these items were mainly for export," he said.

If U.S.-China trade is really to get off the ground, Mr. Berger argues, "the U.S. will have to drop its discriminatory tariffs."

"If we're sincere in wanting to expand commercial contacts, Chinese goods will have to enter the U.S. on an equal footing with non-Communist nations."

Fortunately for Seabrook, seafoods are a non-dutiable item in the U.S. Also transportation costs are low. Most other Chinese products, such as handicrafts and textiles, face a stiff duty that, in many cases, may price them out of the U.S. market.

If the U.S. hopes to export high-technology goods to China, economists say the U.S. government will have to put out the welcome mat for Chinese goods. China policy is to pay cash for everything and seek a close balance between exports and imports, by holding imports down to the level of its exports. Peking has been able to boast quite accurately that it has no external debt.

Lebanon Hits Israel: Air Violations

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Lebanon complained to the United Nations that Israeli warplanes overflew its territory three times Monday and accused the Israeli government of a stepped up "campaign of villification and persistent threats."

Lebanon and the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) both previously denied that Japanese gunmen who carried out the massacre at Lod International Airport in Tel Aviv last week were trained in Lebanon.

Israel has threatened reprisals against Lebanon charging the gunmen hired by the Arab guerrillas came from across the Lebanese border.

Lebanese Ambassador Edouard Ghorra complained to the U.N. Security Council Monday night of the alleged air space violations.

"Israel has intensified her violations of Lebanese air space to extend over wider areas of our territory," Ghorra said. "This comes at a time when Israel is continuing her campaign of villification and persistent threats against Lebanon."

The Israeli parliament Monday night asserted what it termed "Israel's right to act against guerrilla organizations and their accomplices."

"There is nothing easier for Israel than to paralyze air communications, if indeed countries like Lebanon and Egypt should try, by means of or with the help of terrorists, to paralyze our lines of communications," said Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan in a radio interview on the fifth anniversary of the outbreak of the 1967 Middle East war.

An Arab guerrilla ambush on the Israeli-occupied Golan Heights that killed an Israeli soldier and wounded another was the only serious incident that occurred on the anniversary.

Despite the Lod airport shooting attack, Dayan said the guerrillas have been "a resounding failure."

U.S. Doctors Look At Acupuncture

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Since President Nixon's trip to Peking the American public in general and the medical profession in particular have been increasingly intrigued by the Chinese practice of acupuncture.

The word and the technique itself have not been unknown here but in the minds of many persons it has been associated with the pseudo-scientific or in some cases the occult.

With the impetus provided by Nixon's visit and press coverage of actual surgical procedures using needles to kill pain, public interest has escalated to the point where professionals and laymen are having second thoughts about the ancient Chinese art.

A nationwide survey by UPI suggests that doctors and medical institutions are equally wary of acupuncture at the present time. There are very few exceptions.

The general tenor of the survey was typified by Dr. John Lincoln, chief of anesthesiology at Maine Medical Center, that state's leading hospital.

"I am extremely interested in acupuncture—watching developments and scientific literature to help in making the decision on our future course," Lincoln said.

A negative response came from a spokesman for Dr. Joseph Simino, commissioner of the New York Health Department.

"We do not do acupuncture," he said. "We do not recommend it."

But the spokesman did not shut the door on the subject, adding "we have a committee which is only doing research to see if it is a valid medical practice."

Comparatively, an enthusiastic answer came from Dr. William S. Derrick, head of anesthesiology at the University of Texas Medical School in Houston.

"We are certainly very interested in the whole subject of acupuncture. A civilization which has been using it for hundreds of years must have something going for it...we are very curious about acupuncture. If it is nearly as good as we are led to believe it has a lot to offer in the practice of anesthesiology and relief of pain. We are maintaining an open mind about it."

Acupuncture—simple in definition but complex in practice—consists of the insertion of needles of various metals, shapes and sizes into one or several of more than 300 spots on the human trunk, the extremities and the head to deaden nerves and stop pain.

Like any other discipline it requires years of intensive training and the Chinese are the only ones equipped to practice it.

Dr. John W. Fox, of the Downstate Medical Center in Brooklyn, who participated in one of the first cases of surgery in the United States using acupuncture, believes occidentals are a couple of decades behind the Chinese.

"The Chinese have performed it and mastered its techniques in complicated operations while we can only use it for simple operations," said Fox.

He said the United States is a "chemical oriented" society while the Chinese rely on acupuncture.

"When we feel a pain, we reach for an aspirin. When they feel a pain, they reach for a needle," Fox said.

Fox participated in an operation May 15 in which a benign lesion on a patient's tonsil was removed with analgesic acupuncture.

"We knew the Chinese could do it and now that we have done it, we have proved that it works," Fox said.

While most doctors and institutions at the very minimum expressed some curiosity in acupuncture the American Society of Anesthesiologists issued a warning against rushing into the practice without sufficient safeguards.

From its headquarters in Park Ridge, Ill., the ASA said Friday while acupuncture was "a potentially valuable technique" there were possible hazards associated with it including the application of acupuncture to patients who have not been properly psychologically evaluated.

"If acupuncture is applied indiscriminately, severe mental trauma could result in certain patients," said the ASA.

Another hazard was the possible misuse of acupuncture by quacks attempting to treat a variety of illnesses, including cancer and arthritis, thereby diverting the patients from obtaining established medical treatment, the society said.

The UPI survey indicated that there were almost no ongoing studies or plans to study acupuncture on a regular classroom basis in American medical schools although the curiosity level was high.

The major exception appeared to be the University of Illinois Medical School where chief anasthesiologist Dr. Alon Winnie said, "we plan to start a large program in use of acupuncture in about a month...in our upcoming study we will pick patients randomly to receive acupuncture and others to get drug injections. Then we will crossover and compare results of those given acupuncture and those given usual anesthesia."

But Dr. Winnie said as of now no courses of study were planned. He, too, exhibited the caution of the others saying "my feelings are strong that it should be evaluated before it comes into wide usage."

Gays Opposed As Ministers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The president of the Lutheran Church in America said Monday that he was opposed to the ordination of homosexuals as ministers.

"Official Lutheran policy holds that homosexuality is contrary to God's creative purpose for men," Dr. Robert J. Marshall of New York City told a news conference at the Press Club.

Marshall added, "The ideal is a heterosexual relationship, producing a family."

Soda Bottlers Strike Is Ended

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A six-month strike by the Teamsters Union against soft drink bottlers in the San Francisco Bay Area ended today.

Drivers began returning to work after the union members ratified a pact which calls for arbitration of issues not settled by negotiation.

Federal Mediator Gene Barry said the final issue settled during the weekend was amnesty for all of the union members accused of violence during the walkout.

The lengthy strike was marked by repeated incidents between strikers and nonstriking employes. Both the union and employers were fined for disobeying a court injunction against picket-line hostility.

Plot Allowance Plan For Veterans

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House has passed 310 to 4 and sent to the Senate a bill that would provide a $150 plot allowance for veterans who are buried in nongovernment cemeteries.

Sponsors of the measure said most veterans no longer can be buried in national cemeteries, which are running out of space. One provision of the bill provides for a study of possible development of additional national cemeteries, perhaps on a regional basis.

Golfer Sanders Qualifies For U. S. Open; Snead Misses

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Doug Sanders has another world to conquer, while Sammy Snead was beaten by the one jinx marring an illustrious golf career.

Sanders, winner of last weekend's Kemper Open at Charlotte, N.C., successfully toured the Charlotte Country Club Course to qualify for the June 15-18 U.S. Open at Pebble Beach with a 68-67-135 Monday.

Snead, who has won every major golf tournament except the U.S. Open, failed to make the qualifying cut at Charlotte when he fired a 78 after a neat first round 69.

Dapper Doug Sanders was among 64 golfers qualifying at Charlotte. He felt his confidence returning when a birdie putt on the 18th hole Sunday gave him his first tour victory in two years. Sanders won the tourney by a stroke over Lee Trevino, who is defending champion in the Open and one of 35 golfers who gained automatic exemption into the prestigious event.

Qualifying continued today at a number of sites as golfers vie for the remaining berths in the 150-man field.

Most of the big names made their qualifying attempt at Charlotte. Hubert Green had a 136, Don Bies and Rod Funset came in with successful 138s; Lou Graham qualified with a 140; Bud Allin and John Schroeder clicked at 141; Dave Hill, Bob Lunn, Dave Marr, Bob Murphy, Kermit Zarley, Mason Rudolph and John Mahaffey had 142s; Charles Sifford had a 143; Bruce Devlin, Babe Hiskey, Cesar Sanudo and Ken Still shot 144s and Dave Eichelberger, Gibby Gilbert and Fred Marti hit 145.

Ras Allen, a fourth year pro, carded the day's low of 134 to lead eight qualifiers in sectional qualifying at the Dallas Country Club. Allen's double eagle on the 509-yard first hole of second round competition gave him a 65 to go with an earlier 69.

Homero Blancas, who has written his share of the headlines on the Professional Golfers Association tour, fired a 68-71—139 in finishing second to Allen. Also qualifying were Ben Crenshaw at 142, Ron Weber and Mitch Voges at 143 and Darell Hickok and Bruce Lietzke at 144.

Bob Byman, a 17-year-old high school junior from Boulder, Colo., shot a five-under-par 66-71—137 to lead three qualifiers at the Flat Iron Country Club. George Rives was a distant second at 141 and Clayton Cole gained the other berth with a 142.

Danny Edwards, a 20-year-old amateur, was one stroke off the course record of 65 set by Bobby Locke in 1948 at the Midlothian Country Club as he finished with a 140 at Chicago. Bob Zender, a former stockbroker in his rookie year on the pro tour, topped the Windy City qualifiers with a 137.

Qualifying with 141s were Don Klenk, Bill Ogden, Bob Brue, Jim Ahren and Dick Ehrmantraut.

The four berths from Cincinnati's Lovernook Country Club were filled by Cliff Cook, Sr., and Carl Owen, with 138s, and Barney Thompson and Ross Bartschy, Jr., at 139.

There were 11 qualifiers at the Olympic Club in San Francisco, led by Barry Jaeckel's 75-68—143.

Tony Lopez shot a 144 as runner-up; Jimmy Powell fired a 145; Chuck Courtny, 146; Al Geiberger, 147; Bruce Summerhays, Mike Butler and Terry Small and Mack Hunter had 148s, and Jimmy Wiechers and Tommy Sanderson carded 149s.

Ray Leach of Novato shot 78-77—155 and Buddy Sullivan, pro at Marin Country Club, Novato, shot 82-76—158, both failing to make the field for the U.S. Open.

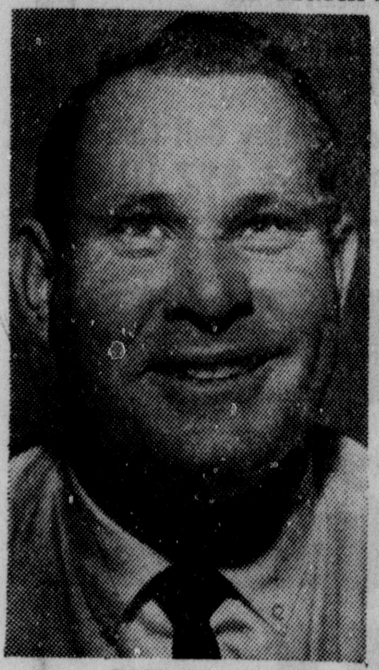
College Of Marin Grid Past Relived

By RALPH CHATOIAN

There was College of Marin football coach Dick Read surrounded by some of his players of another time, players who would make him forget momentarily that his teams the past two years have won a grand total of one game.

And there was Marin's athletic director, Harry Pieper, thinking back to 1960 when he coached football for the last time and his biggest problem was getting enough eligible men on the field in a season cut short because of lack of players.



DICK READ

It was a reunion of College of Marin football teams of the 1960-63 era at Nave Lanes restaurant in Ignacio last Friday, a night of dinner, a few drinks and many old stories recounted from a decade past.

"It's a pleasure to see you, the players," said a beaming Read. "We won a few and we lost a few, but we had a lot of fun. That's what counts. That's what it's all about."

Everyone had his say. They had their chance to stand and utter words of praise to the coaches or to thank the littlest man in the room, trainer Harry Hicklin for the miles of tape he has wound around ankles and knees of all those who have run, thrown or jumped for old College of Marin.

ONLY ONE man in the room was still playing the game of football, Elmer Collett, offensive guard for the 49ers. He played for Marin in 1962 and '63 before going on to San Francisco State from where he was drafted by the 49ers. One of Elmer's teammates on the 1963 team had played the game until a year ago when he retired as defensive lineman for the Cincinnati Bengals. That is Martin Baccaglio who is now in the real estate-investment business in San Jose. Baccaglio had fun recalling Read's chalk talks when the coach's voice would rise in pitch and then the chalk would be hurled to the floor. Yes, these men could raise the dander of the normally calm, cool Dick Read.

Bruce Robertson said he didn't realize how good the coaching was at College of Marin until he got to San Jose State, "then I really appreciated what I had at Marin." Robertson is now coaching junior college football in Santa Maria, Santa Barbara County.

SOME OF THE star players from out of the past looked as if they coujd still get out on the football field and play winning ball — guys like Ron Cole, Bill Buffalo, Ron Blum, and of course, Scott Moriarty, always joking, always laughing, but a heck of a fullback a few years ago.

Challenging Collett and Baccaglio in size was another of the star linemen out of the 1962-63 era, Lyle Baucom. That size was probably a prerequisite for his present job, dean of boys at Mission High School in San Francisco.

One of the players of the 1960 team at the reunion was Geofrey Dunham, now one of the youthful councilmen who are making the people in Cotati nervous because they don't fit the mold of wizened, gray-haired policy makers.

DUNHAM AND Frank Gallardo were among the players of that 1960 team which tried to carry out a football program with only 14 players. As Pieper said, "Those were the days I had to be on the field. I don't mean as a coach; there weren't enough players so I was in the scrimmages, too."

Also at the banquet was Dr. Harry Hensler, former team physician for the Tars who was mending broken bones of football players in the early '30s.

Marin Catholic Has 7 In Baseball Game

Senior-studded Marin Catholic High School has placed seven players on the 15-man roster for the South team in the third annual Knights of Columbus North-South All-Star baseball game, scheduled for June 22 at Albert Park in San Rafael.

The game will pit an all-star team of graduating seniors from the four northernmost high schools in the Marin County Athletic League against an all-star team from the four southern schools. Proceeds will benefit the K of C scholarship fund.

The teams were chosen by head coaches of the schools in the respective areas, and announced by game director Mike Nelson.

Padres Tab Shortstop In Draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dave Roberts, a power hitting shortstop from the University of Oregon, today was selected by the San Diego Padres as the no. 1 pick in the eighth annual summer baseball draft.

Later, San Francisco picked Portland, Ore. pitcher Robert Dressler, a right-hander, while Oakland tabbed Los Angeles shortstop Chester Lemon.

ROBERTS

Roberts, 6-foot-3 and 216 pounds, batted .410 in 37 games for Oregon while hitting 12 home runs and driving in 47 runs.

The Cleveland Indians took Richard Manning, a 17-year-old high school sensation from Niagara Falls, N.Y. Manning, a shortstop, batted over .400 throughout his scholastic career and hit .614 this season.

Philadelphia selected Larry Christenson, a 6-4, 215-pound right-handed pitcher from Marysville, Wash. Christenson struck out 143 batters in 72 innings and walked only 12 while compiling an amazing 0.28 era.

TEXAS PICK

Texas picked Roy Lee Howell, a third baseman from Lompoc High School in California and Montreal selected Bobbie Goodman, a 17-year-old catcher from Memphis, Tenn., who batted .571 in high school.

Milwaukee took Danny Thomas, a 6-2, 190-pound sophomore infielder from Southern Illinois. Thomas batted .369 with five homers and 21 RBI's for the Salukis last season and led the team in stolen bases with 23.

Cincinnati took Larry Payne, a right-handed pitcher from Bedias, Tex., and Minnesota took Richard Ruthven, a right-handed pitcher from California State University, Fresno.

Houston selected Stephen Englishbey, an outfielder from

MRS. MC COLLISTER

Marinite In 2 Swim Wins

Mrs. Jane McCollister finished first in two events and second in three others to highlight the performances at the Marin Aquatic Club Masters Invitational swimming meet Sunday at San Rafael High School.

The field included approximately 50 competitors age 25 and older representing 14 swim teams from the Bay Area.

Mrs. McCollister, of the Marin Aquatic Club, won the 100-yard freestyle in 1:20.2, two full seconds better than her winning time at the National Masters meet last month. She also won the 100 individual medley in 1:27.8 and took second in the 100 breaststroke, 100 backstroke and 50 butterfly in the 50-54 age bracket.

Mrs. Beth Musser, coach of the Hamilton Air Force Base Voodoo swim team, continued her competitive comeback by winning the 100 back in the 45-49 bracket and taking second in the 100 free and 100 I.M. She had not competed for 30 years prior to the Nationals.

Other Marin County athletes to win events were Mrs. Nancy Ridout of Marin Aquatic Club in the women's 30-34 100 free and Dore Schwab of Marin in the men's 50-54 free.

The San Mateo Marlins won the team competition with 414 points: Marin had 124½ and the Santa Rosa Swim Club 123.

Other Marinites who placed:

WOMEN

Age 35-39 — Marilyn Kelly (Marin), 2nd, 100 breast; 3rd, 100 I.M.; 6th, 100 free.

200 Free Relay — 2nd, Marin Aquatic Club (Kay Campion, Rosemary Tufts, Nancy Ridout, Jane McCollister).

MEN

Age 35-39 — Stu Waters (Marin), 2nd, 100 I.M.; 2nd, 100 fly; 2nd, 100 free. Don Simmerville (Marin), 4th, 100 back; 5th, 100 free.

Age 25-29 — Tom Byrnes (Marin), 4th, 200 breast. Ed Kadel (Marin), 3rd, 200 breast; 4th, 100 free.

200 Free Relay — 2nd, Marin Aquatic Club (Dore Schwab, Stu Waters, Don Swartz, Ed Kadel).

200 Medley Relay — 3rd, Marin Aquatic Club (Schwab, Waters, Burns, Swartz).

ATLANTA, LONG ISLAND

NHL To Stock Two Expansion Squads

MONTREAL (UPI) — Atlanta and Long Island, the National Hockey League's two newest clubs, set the foundations for the teams they will ice in the 1972-73 season today during the second day of the annual NHL meetings.

In today's expansion draft, the two clubs can select 21 players each from the established team's unprotected lists and later in the inter-league draft they can clam any player on American or Western Hockey League reserve lists, regardless of ownership or playing rights.

The 14 established clubs have waived their rights to claim in these proceedings in favor of Atlanta and Long Island.

While the 14 other NHL teams have stepped aside for the two new clubs, the general managers of the two expansion clubs are worried, however, that they can lose drafted players to the World Hockey Association.

The opening day of the annual NHL get-together Monday was unexciting with six players changing teams at the price of $40,000 apiece.

The Vancouver Canucks selected Boston's Tannahill and Gerry O'Flaherty of the Toronto Maple Leafs. To keep thair roster at 18 men, the Canucks were forced to drop Ron Ward, who already has signed with the New York Raiders of the WHA.

The Los Angeles Kings chose Detroit Red Wing forward Doug Volmar and Chicago's Barry Lng, who played last year with Portland of the WHL.

A player exchange took place when Montreal failed to protect Larry Pleau and he was snapped up by Toronto. The Leafs then dropped defenseman Brad Selwood, who was scooped by the Canadiens for $30,000.

Both Pleau and Selwood already have signed WHA contracts with the New England Whalers.

The Buffalo Sabres picked up Tim Horton, the 42-year-old veteran defenseman, from the Pittsburgh Penguins. Horton had announced earlier this year he was reitiring from hockey to devote more of his time to his business interests.

A's Decision Indians, 3-2

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The red-hot Oakland A's seek their fifth victory in a row tonight when they clash with Cleveland in the second game of a three-game series.

The A's decisioned the Indians 3-2 Monday, the first meeting this season between the two teams.

Vida Blue, nursing an 0-2 record after a late start with the Athletics, was expected to be on the mound. Cleveland's Vince Colbert, 0-3, will start for the Indians.

Oakland commands a four-game lead over Chicago in the American League West, while Cleveland is 3 1-2 games behind Detroit in the A.L. East.

The first win over Cleveland came on a Campy Campaneris homer in the 10th.

Oakland's first two runs came on a Reggie Jackson round-tripper in the third. John Odom had singled and worked his way to third. He strolled in after Jackson connected with a Gaylord Perry pitch and sent it 400 feet away over the center field fence.

It was Jackson's 11th homer

Giants To Host Cards Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants, who trail every team in the National League West, host the St. Louis Cardinals today, who trail everyone in the N.L. East but Philadelphia.

The skidding Giants will open with their most effective starting pitcher, Steve Stone. For added measure they will have their starting manager back from the hospital.

Stone (3-4) has not lost in his last three starts. He allowed only one run and 17 hits in pitching the consecutive wins.

Starting for the Cards will be Rick Wise, who is 4-5 on the season.

Back in the dugout tonight with the Giants will be manager Charlie Fox, released from the hospital following an operation for kidney stones.

"I'd feel a lot better if the team had at least split," Fox said after his Giants lost a doubleheader to Pittsburgh on Sunday. They were idle Monday.

Meanwhile, Giants president Horace Stoneham last night denied a report that pitcher Juan Marichal would be traded to Pittsburgh. "We have no thought of trading Juan. There's nothing to it," Stoneham explained.

However, Stoneham pointed out that Philadelphia had approached him last April regarding a possible Marichal trade. Stoneham told the Phillies that the Giants wanted pitching. That seemed to end the negotiations.

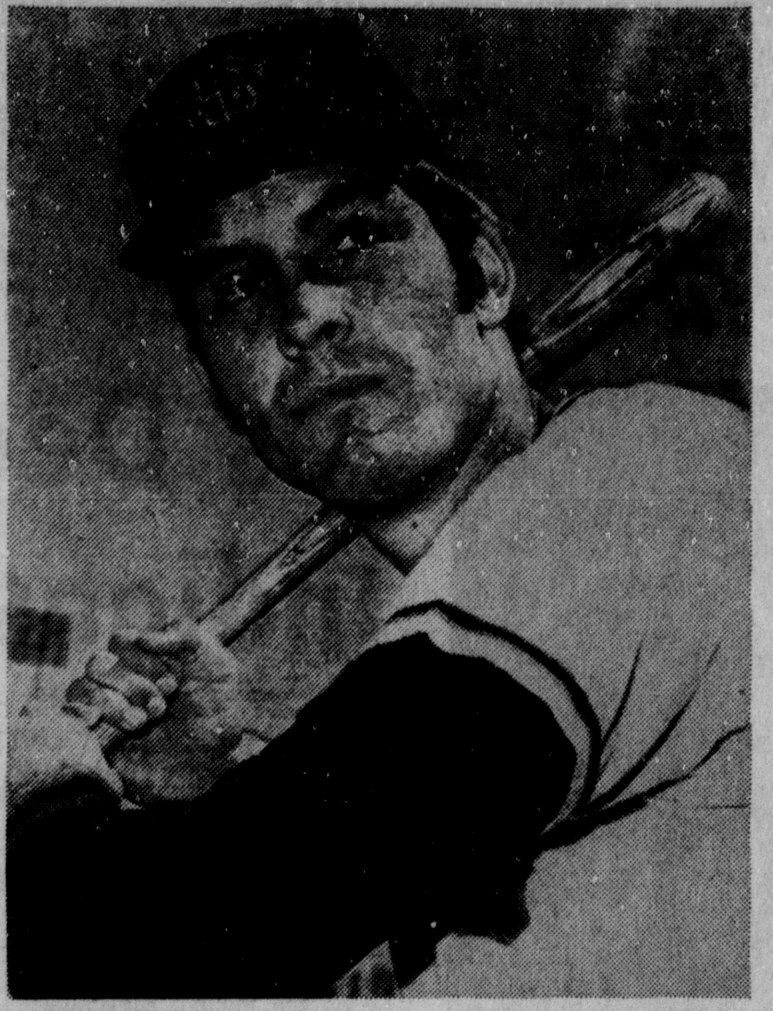
Kingman Is Proving Merit Of Fox Praise

Giant Star Displaying Potent Bat



GIANT GEM — San Francisco Giant slugger Dave Kingman coiled before unleashing the power that has enabled him to lead the National League in home runs, 14, and runs batted in, 38. (UPI Telephoto)

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox has said that Lanky Dave Kingman will be a superstar.

And the 24-year-old USC graduate is wielding his bat as if he has already attained that status.

Kingman is leading the National League in home runs with 14—one more than Cincinnati's Johnny Bench—and in RBIs with 38—three more than Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell.

He was tagged 43 hits in 187 times at the plate for a .230 average.

In the last month he has provided the muscle in the Giants' attempt to climb out of the low rungs of the Western Division. The club's other slugger, Willie McCovey, has been sidelined with a fractured arm, returning to the lineup only the past weekend.

This is Kingman's first full season with the Giants. In 1970 the 6-foot-6 righthander played his first professional baseball with Amarillo where he hit .295.

Fox said at the start of this season, "The kid had more poise than I've seen in a long time for a rookie.

"He's got talent that hasn't even been discovered and there's no question in my mind he will be a superstar in this game."

With McCovey back in the lineup, Kingman has switched from first base to third.

The fact that he is 6-foot-6 has not hampered his defensive play at third. His quickness, agility and good hands have made him an infield asset where the drives and grounders come ablistering.

Kingman is most happy when McCovey is in the lineup because he bats just ahead of Willie. Pitchers must give him good pitches in an attempt to keep the bases as empty as possible when McCovey lumbers up to the plate.

Batting coach Hank Bauer has worked closely with Kingman, but he said he hasn't changed Kingman's swing much.

At first, Bauer said, Kingman had a tendency to chase outside pitches and try to pull them.

But Bauer said he has been overcoming this minor flaw.

And it is certain opposing pitchers realize this.

JACK HANLEY

A Matter Of Pride For Giants' Stone

Steve Stone's pride was jolted when the Giants sent him back to the minors in midseason last year. It happened in Pittsburgh, July 20. And that was ironical for it was in Pittsburgh that Stone won his first major league game on April 23, a 2-0, five-hit shutout against the Pirates who were to become baseball's 1971 world champions.

That initial victory over the Pirates was followed with wins over Atlanta and Montreal by Stone and by the end of May his record was 4-1. But in June and July he was making second appearances against batters. They began belting line drives off the young right-hander. Between June 1 and July 18 Stone made nine starts. He was the loser in eight of them. The hits finally mounted to 106, exactly the number of innings pitched by Stone.

SOMEWHERE ALONG the line Stone lost confidence in his breaking stuff and the batters just waited for his fast ball. Batters dug in at the plate against Stone. They were quick to notice that he was a gentlemanly pitcher who didn't knock batters down.

"Stone will be all right," said Charlie Fox when he sent the young man to Phoenix. "He'll be back with us. You can be sure of that."

Stone, now 24 and a year older, is back with the Giants and the other night in Candlestick Park he brought in his third consecutive complete game victory, a 5-2, five-hitter over the Dodgers whom he had shutout 1-0 eight days before in Los Angeles.

IN THAT SHUTOUT, his first win of 1972 after losing three in relief roles and one in a complete game during which he allowed just three runs, Stone did something that upset Frank Robinson. Stone sent Robinson sprawling in the ninth inning with a tight fast ball after which the Dodger slugger grounded out.

"I wasn't throwing at you," Stone told Robinson as he crossed the infield, returning to the Dodger dugout from first base.

"I never said you were," replied Robinson.

WHEN STONE faced the Dodgers again in Candlestick, June 1, Robinson was resting. Bill Buckner was in right field for him. Buckner had gotten the first hit of the game off Stone, a first inning single. When Buckner came up the second time in the fourth, Stone somersaulted him into the dirt with a tight fast one and then Buckner grounded out.

Stone learned last year that batters will take a pitcher's bread and butter away from him if permitted to dig in. But Stone learned other things, too, while he was pitching his way back to the big time. At Phoenix he learned how to control his breaking stuff. And he also put an effective polish on his changeup.

The Indians scored in the seventh when Alex Johnson came home on a Craig Nettles single.

Cleveland tied it in the eighth when Eddie Leon hit 320 feet over the left field fence.

After the game, Cleveland manager Ken Aspromonte lauded the A's as "the best overall hitting team I've seen. They've got six guys who can beat you with one swing. They're better than Baltimore by far."

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Rookie wide receivers Mike Siani of Villanova and Cliff Branch of Colorado both signed up at the Oakland Raiders rookie camp, thus turning away from other sports opportunities.

Siani was a sought after baseball prospect and Branch was a world class sprinter given a chance of making the U.S. Olympic team.

But they gave similar explanations as Siani said simply "I lika football more than baseball" and Branch said only "football has always been my game."

Darwin Double Keys Minnesota Triumph

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Bobby Darwin's sixth-inning double sent the Baltimore Orioles down to their fourth straight defeat as the Minnesota Twins rallied for a 3-2 victory Monday night. Meanwhile, Oakland tipped Cleveland 3-2 in 10 innings.

Darwin opened the Twins' fourth with a single, stopped at second when Steve Brye scratched a hit off McNally's leg and Soderholm's two-bagger to deep center scored both runners.

Killebrew singled behind the second base bag to open the sixth inning and infielder Dave Johnson's throw on a putout attempt sailed into the Twins' dugout giving Killebrew second base. Darwin's sixth double of the season scored Killebrew.

Pittsburgh at San Diego was postponed because of rain in the only other major league game scheduled.

FISH AND GAME

Herman—A Man With Answers

By AL GIDDINGS

Who's Herman? For the last couple of years, whenever the Marin Rod and Gun Club pier keepers had a problem involving fish and game, they usually picked up the phone and dialed either me or Herman.

Last Saturday, Game Warden Russ Ild of Mill Valley dropped by the pier to check fishermen. Frank Spencer, one of the keepers there greeted him with, "Hello Herman. How are things going?" This had happened before, with Russ just taking it in stride. But Saturday he decided to question Frank as to why he always called him "Herman".

FRANK SAID, "Why, I've been calling you for the past two years on the pnone, and I always call you Herman." In fact, I've got the name Herman and your phone number listed here under game warden."

The phone number didn't match Russ's either, so for the past two years someone named Herman has been the official Marin Rod and Gun Club lawmaker and answerman. Wonder what the real Herman has been thinking all these years.

Saturday some stripers were brought into the rod and gun club dock by fishermen trolling the bridge, or "shiner fishing" over at The Brothers Islands. At Loch Lomond, Bill Boyle of the Loch Lomond live bait barge said he sold about 125 dozen shiners to the Saturday drift fishermen who use live bait.

HE HAD about 30 fish weighed through his station there with the largest going 27 pounds, taken by Grant Howe of San Francisco. Grant is one of the Loch Lomond regulars. I checked Grant Sunday about 11 a.m. and he had two. He said the south brisk wind ruined the fishing, as the drift was one way and the wind was the other. It was rough and cold also. The 50 or so boats working the outgoing rip tides had nothing but trouble. That's fishing!

Even though the bay was rough, the ocean off Rocky Point and Stinson Beach was generally calm. Best salmon I heard of this week was a 35-pounder taken by Mrs. Mickey Lauchinaur of Santa Venetia. It's June already and usually from July on, those big fish are closer to the shoreline. Also starting in July, Tomales Bay just outside the mouth serves up some real trophies each year. Halbut fishing should begin to pick up there too, but stay home if it's windy and the bar is breaking. If it's flat its great; if it's rough, it can kill you!

TROUT PLANTS are scheduled for Bon Tempe, Lagunitas and Phoenix reservoirs in Marin County this week. The east branch of the Russian River is also scheduled for a plant.

President Richard Nixon has just signed a National Hunting and Fishing Day into existance. Public Law 92-285 has just been signed and will be a reality on Sept. 23. The celebration is planned to dramatize the invaluable contributions made by the nation's hunters and fishermen in the conservation of fish and wildlife resources, and to encourage broader public participation in all phases of conservation work.

THE DEPARTMENT of Fish and Game again issued its yearly warning to well meaning nature observers to leave fawns that are seen in fields or along roadways right where they are. If you pick the animals up, you may be dooming them to an early death. Although the tiny animals may appear to have been abandoned by their mother, chances are the adult mother deer will shortly return and take charge of its young.

You are also violating the Fish and Game Code. Each spring a number of arrests are made of well meaning people who make the mistake of picking up fawns. Latest to make this mistake was a Napa County College student. He appeared in the St. Helena Justice Court May 31, and after pleading nole contendre to a charge of taking a live fawn, he was fined $125, suspended on condition he put two days in the county prison's work program.

Tough Time For Sonoma Baseballers

California State College, Sonoma, baseball fans can find little to cheer about in the final Far Western Conference baseball statistics released by the league office.

The Cossacks were last in the standings with a 1-17 league record, 5-41 over-all. California State at Sacramento and the University of California at Davis tied for the championship with 12-6 records.

Sonoma was last in team batting with a .186 average. Only three players hit above .200 and only one above .214. Ron Petroni led the Cossacks with an average of .293, ranking 21st in the leauge.

Sonoma pitchers had similar problems. Len Hoffman, formerly of San Marin High School, ranked 18th among FWC hurlers with a 4.63 earned run average and an 0-2 record. The Cossacks' most frequently used pitcher, Mike Gogan, was 0-6 with a 4.82 ERA.

Sonoma had no leaders in any batting or pitching departments. The team finished sixth in fielding with a .934 percentage.

Astros' Watson Is N.L. Player Of Month

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Outfielder Bob Watson has become the first member of the Houston Astros to be named the National League Player of the Month since the club was organized in 1962.

Watson earned the nomination from a panel of sports writers and broadcasters after compiling a .370 batting average with six homers during the month of May.

Track Star Admits Steroid Use

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

LOS ANGELES — Randy Matson, who holds the world shot put record at 71 feet, 5½ inches, admitted yesterday that he took steroids to increase his strength and pep a few years ago.

"I knew it was illegal," Matson told the Southern California track and field writers, "but I understand there isn't any test that will detect its use."

"When I heard it was dangerous to a person's health, I quit taking them," he said. "There is more to life than track and field. I didn't want to take a chance of hurting myself."

LOS ANGELES — Jeff Bennett of the U.S. Army won the 1,500 meters in 4:08.9 seconds, the final event, to come from behind Monday and capture the National Amateur Athletic Union Decathlon Championship with 7,910 points. Jeff Banister of the Decathlon Club of America was second with 7,890 points.

BOSTON — The race-fixing trial of five men was to go to the jury today in Suffolk Superior Court.

Judge James C. Roy was scheduled to charge the jury before deliberations began involving conspiracy charges against attorney Edwin A. Nelson, Jr., of Brockton, Mass.; William Barnoski of Somerville, Mass.; Anthony Ciulla of Stoneham, Mass.; Salvatore Macarelli of Nahant, Mass.; and Barnum Sardonis of Rumford, R.I.

Authorities allege the defendants plotted to drug two horses in the nine races at Suffolk Downs in East Boston last April 23.

Tennis

MEXICO CITY — Stan Smith, the No. 1 ranked U.S. tennis player, was due to arrive here today to join his four teammates for Davis Cup Competition against Mexico June 16-18.

"We have about a 70 per cent chance of winning," team captain Dennis Ralston said as he arrived yesterday.

Hockey

BOSTON — Bobby Orr, the National Hockey League's most Valuable Player, was to undergo surgery on his left knee today at Massachusetts General Hospital.

The Boston Bruins' defenseman, who entered the hospital Monday night, originally had been reported set for surgery Friday. No explanation was given for the move-up of the operation.

Orr was troubled by a loose cartilage or bone chips in the knee through the end of the 1971-72 season and during the Stanley Cup playoffs, which the Bruins won.

Golf

NEW YORK — Doug Sanders has vaulted 18 places in professional golf's weekly money-winning list as a result of his victory last Sunday in the Kemper Open, it was announced yesterday by the Professional Golfers Association Tournament Players Division.

Sanders, who received $35,000 for winning the tournament at Charlotte, N.C., climbed from 26th to eighth place as he brought his earnings this year to $74,232. Last year Sanders won $24,891.

Jack Nicklaus continues to lead the money list, even though he did not play in the Kemper Open. Nicklaus has earned $156,051.

Lee Trevino, a second place finisher at Charlotte, has moved into second place with $118,397 followed in order by Jerry Heard ($110,111), George Archer ($106,963), Tom Weiskopf ($97,179), Bobby Mitchell ($85,665), Bruce Crampton ($84,243), Sanders, Bob Murphy ($72,482) and Dave Hill ($71,997).

Kennedy Games' 'Flavor'

BERKELEY (UPI) —Saturday's Kennedy Games at Berkeley will have an international flavor, with the addition of sprinter Roger Bambuck, hurdler Guy Drut and long jumper Jacques Pani of France.

The international stars confirmed Monday that they would compete in the Kennedy Games shortly after Cal coach and meet director Dave Maggard discussed the meet before a press luncheon.

Drut has already decisioned Olympic king Willie Davenport this year and has a best of 13.3 in the high hurdles. But awaiting him at Berkeley is world record holder Rod Milburn.

The shotput will include history's three 70-footers, Randy Matson, Al Feuerbach and George Woods, who just hit the magic mark last weekend.

Kingman Is Proving Merit Of Fox Praise

Giant Star Displaying Potent Bat

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox has said that Lanky Dave Kingman will be a superstar.

And the 24-year-old USC graduate is wielding his bat as if he has already attained that status.

Kingman is leading the National League in home runs with 14—one more than Cincinnati's Johnny Bench—and in RBIs with 38—three more than Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell.

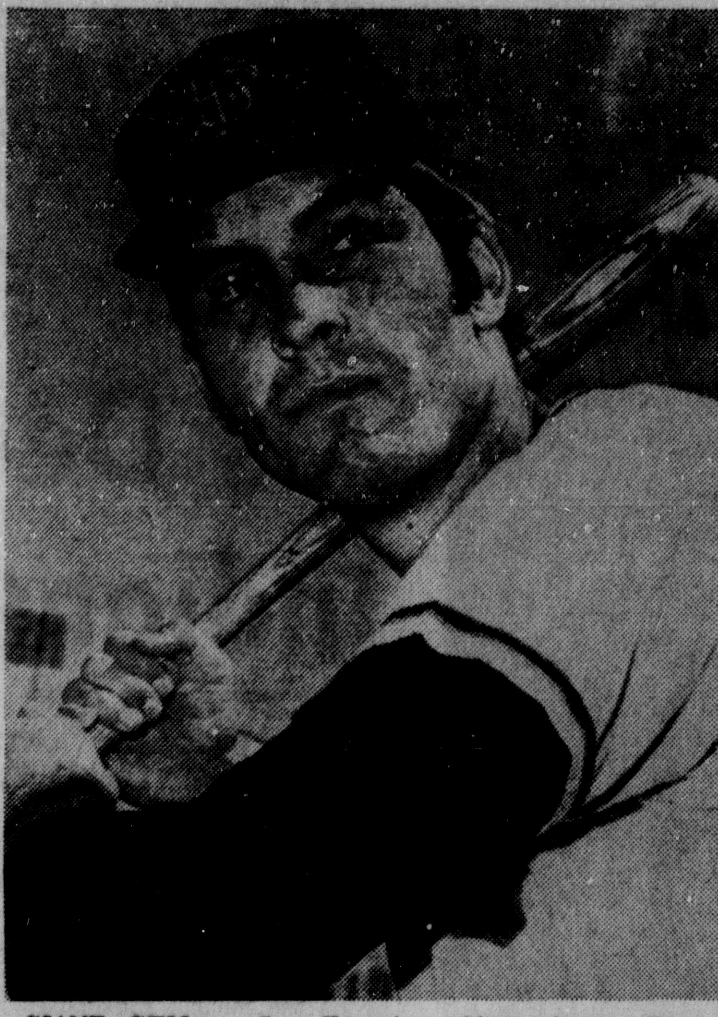
He was tagged 43 hits in 187 times at the plate for a .230 average.

In the last month he has provided the muscle in the Giants' attempt to climb out of the low rungs of the Western Division. The club's other slugger, Willie McCovey, has been sidelined with a fractured arm, returning to the lineup only the past weekend.

This is Kingman's first full season with the Giants. In 1970 the 6-foot-6 righthander played his first professional baseball with Amarillo where he hit .295.

Fox said at the start of this season, "The kid had more poise than I've seen in a long time for a rookie.

"He's got talent that hasn't even been discovered and there's no question in my mind he will be a superstar in this game."



GIANT GEM — San Francisco Giant slugger Dave Kingman coiled before unleashing the power that has enabled him to lead the National League in home runs, 14, and runs batted in, 38. (UPI Telephoto)

With McCovey back in the lineup, Kingman has switched from first base to third.

The fact that he is 6-foot-6 has not hampered his defensive play at third. His quickness, agility and good hands have made him an infield asset where the drives and grounders come ablistering.

Kingman is most happy when McCovey is in the lineup because he bats just ahead of Willie. Pitchers must give him good pitches in an attempt to keep the bases as empty as possible when McCovey lumbers up to the plate.

Batting coach Hank Bauer has worked closely with Kingman, but he said he hasn't changed Kingman's swing much.

At first, Bauer said, Kingman had a tendency to chase outside pitches and try to pull them.

But Bauer said he has been overcoming this minor flaw.

And it is certain opposing pitchers realize this.

JACK HANLEY

A Matter Of Pride For Giants' Stone

Steve Stone's pride was jolted when the Giants sent him back to the minors in midseason last year. It happened in Pittsburgh, July 20. And that was ironical for it was in Pittsburgh that Stone won his first major league game on April 23, a 2-0, five-hit shutout against the Pirates who were to become baseball's 1971 world champions.

That initial victory over the Pirates was followed with wins over Atlanta and Montreal by Stone and by the end of May his record was 4-1. But in June and July he was making second appearances against batters. They began belting line drives off the young right-hander. Between June 1 and July 18 Stone made nine starts. He was the loser in eight of them. The hits finally mounted to 106, exactly the number of innings pitched by Stone.

SOMEWHERE ALONG the line Stone lost confidence in his breaking stuff and the batters just waited for his fast ball. Batters dug in at the plate against Stone. They were quick to notice that he was a gentlemanly pitcher who didn't knock batters down.

"Stone will be all right," said Charlie Fox when he sent the young man to Phoenix. "He'll be back with us. You can be sure of that."

Stone, now 24 and a year older, is back with the Giants and the other night in Candlestick Park he brought in his third consecutive complete game victory, a 5-2, five-hitter over the Dodgers whom he had shutout 1-0 eight days before in Los Angeles.

IN THAT SHUTOUT, his first win of 1972 after losing three in relief roles and one in a complete game during which he allowed just three runs, Stone did something that upset Frank Robinson. Stone sent Robinson sprawling in the ninth inning with a tight fast ball after which the Dodger slugger grounded out.

"I wasn't throwing at you," Stone told Robinson as he crossed the infield, returning to the Dodger dugout from first base.

"I never said you were," replied Robinson.

WHEN STONE faced the Dodgers again in Candlestick, June 1, Robinson was resting. Bill Buckner was in right field for him. Buckner had gotten the first hit of the game off Stone, a first inning single. When Buckner came up the second time in the fourth, Stone somersaulted him into the dirt with a tight fast one and then Buckner grounded out.

Stone learned last year that batters will take a pitcher's bread and butter away from him if permitted to dig in. But Stone learned other things, too, while he was pitching his way back to the big time. At Phoenix he learned how to control his breaking stuff. And he also put an effective polish on his changeup.

South Houston, Tex., and California named David Chalk, a third baseman at the University of Texas.

HANNA

Atlanta grabbed Preston Hanna, a right-handed pitcher from Pensacola, Fla., and the Chicago White Sox took Mike Ondina, a centerfielder from Cordova.

The New York Mets selected Richard Bengston, a catcher from Peioria, Ill., and the new York Yankees took Scott McGregor, a left-handed pitcher from El Segundo.

The Chicago Cubs picked Brian Vernoy, a left-handed pitcher from Westminster, and Boston took Joel Bishop, a shortstop from Sacramento. Los Angeles selected John Harbin, a shortstop from Whittier.

Detroit grabbed Jerry Manuel, a shortstop from Rancho Cordova and St. Louis took Dan Larson, a right-handed pitcher from Alhambra.

Pittsburgh took Dwane Peltier, a shortstop from Anaheim, and the Baltimore Orioles completed the first round by taking Ken Thomas, a catcher from Bellville, Ohio.

of the season and gave him the lead in the league.

The Indians scored in the seventh when Alex Johnson came home on a Craig Nettles single.

Cleveland tied it in the eighth when Eddie Leon hit 320 feet over the left field fence.

After the game, Cleveland manager Ken Aspromonte lauded the A's as "the best overall hitting team I've seen. They've got six guys who can beat you with one swing. They're better than Baltimore by far."

Two Receivers At The Raiders' Rookie Camp

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Rookie wide receivers Mike Siani of Villanova and Cliff Branch of Colorado both signed up at the Oakland Raiders rookie camp, thus turning away from other sports opportunities.

Siani was a sought after baseball prospect and Branch was a world class sprinter given a chance of making the U.S. Olympic team.

But they gave similar explanations as Siani said simply "I lika football more than baseball" and Branch said only "football has always been my game."

Darwin Double Keys Minnesota Triumph

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Bobby Darwin's sixth-inning double sent the Baltimore Orioles down to their fourth straight defeat as the Minnesota Twins rallied for a 3-2 victory Monday night. Meanwhile, Oakland tipped Cleveland 3-2 in 10 innings.

Darwin opened the Twins' fourth with a single, stopped at second when Steve Brye scratched a hit off McNally's leg and Soderholm's two-bagger to deep center scored both runners.

Killebrew singled behind the second base bag to open the sixth inning and infielder Dave Johnson's throw on a putout attempt sailed into the Twins' dugout giving Killebrew second base. Darwin's sixth double of the season scored Killebrew.

Pittsburgh at San Diego was postponed because of rain in the only other major league game scheduled.

FISH AND GAME

Herman—A Man With Answers

By AL GIDDINGS

Who's Herman? For the last couple of years, whenever the Marin Rod and Gun Club pier keepers had a problem involving fish and game, they usually picked up the phone and dialed either me or Herman.

Last Saturday, Game Warden Russ Ild of Mill Valley dropped by the pier to check fishermen. Frank Spencer, one of the keepers there greeted him with, "Hello Herman. How are things going?" This had happened before, with Russ just taking it in stride. But Saturday he decided to question Frank as to why he always called him "Herman".

FRANK SAID, "Why, I've been calling you for the past two years on the pnone, and I always call you Herman." In fact, I've got the name Herman and your phone number listed here under game warden."

The phone number didn't match Russ's either, so for the past two years someone named Herman has been the official Marin Rod and Gun Club lawmaker and answerman. Wonder what the real Herman has been thinking all these years.

Saturday some stripers were brought into the rod and gun club dock by fishermen trolling the bridge, or "shiner fishing" over at The Brothers Islands. At Loch Lomond, Bill Boyle of the Loch Lomond live bait barge said he sold about 125 dozen shiners to the Saturday drift fishermen who use live bait.

HE HAD about 30 fish weighed through his station there with the largest going 27 pounds, taken by Grant Howe of San Francisco. Grant is one of the Loch Lomond regulars. I checked Grant Sunday about 11 a.m. and he had two. He said the south brisk wind ruined the fishing, as the drift was one way and the wind was the other. It was rough and cold also. The 50 or so boats working the outgoing rip tides had nothing but trouble. That's fishing!

Even though the bay was rough, the ocean off Rocky Point and Stinson Beach was generally calm. Best salmon I heard of this week was a 35-pounder taken by Mrs. Mickey Lauchinaur of Santa Venetia. It's June already and usually from July on, those big fish are closer to the shoreline. Also starting in July, Tomales Bay just outside the mouth serves up some real trophies each year. Halbut fishing should begin to pick up there too, but stay home if it's windy and the bar is breaking. If it's flat its great; if it's rough, it can kill you!

TROUT PLANTS are scheduled for Bon Tempe, Lagunitas and Phoenix reservoirs in Marin County this week. The east branch of the Russian River is also scheduled for a plant.

President Richard Nixon has just signed a National Hunting and Fishing Day into existance. Public Law 92-285 has just been signed and will be a reality on Sept. 23. The celebration is planned to dramatize the invaluable contributions made by the nation's hunters and fishermen in the conservation of fish and wildlife resources, and to encourage broader public participation in all phases of conservation work.

THE DEPARTMENT of Fish and Game again issued its yearly warning to well meaning nature observers to leave fawns that are seen in fields or along roadways right where they are. If you pick the animals up, you may be dooming them to an early death. Although the tiny animals may appear to have been abandoned by their mother, chances are the adult mother deer will shortly return and take charge of its young.

You are also violating the Fish and Game Code. Each spring a number of arrests are made of well meaning people who make the mistake of picking up fawns. Latest to make this mistake was a Napa County College student. He appeared in the St. Helena Justice Court May 31, and after pleading nole contendre to a charge of taking a live fawn, he was fined $125, suspended on condition he put two days in the county prison's work program.

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Lightface type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

Tough Time For Sonoma Baseballers

California State College, Sonoma, baseball fans can find little to cheer about in the final Far Western Conference baseball statistics released by the league office.

The Cossacks were last in the standings with a 1-17 league record, 5-41 over-all. California State at Sacramento and the University of California at Davis tied for the championship with 12-6 records.

Sonoma was last in team batting with a .186 average. Only three players hit above .200 and only one above .214. Ron Petroni led the Cossacks with an average of .293, ranking 21st in the leauge.

Sonoma pitchers had similar problems. Len Hoffman, formerly of San Marin High School, ranked 18th among FWC hurlers with a 4.63 earned run average and an 0-2 record. The Cossacks' most frequently used pitcher, Mike Gogan, was 0-6 with a 4.82 ERA.

Sonoma had no leaders in any batting or pitching departments. The team finished sixth in fielding with a .934 percentage.

Astros' Watson Is N.L. Player Of Month

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Outfielder Bob Watson has become the first member of the Houston Astros to be named the National League Player of the Month since the club was organized in 1962.

Watson earned the nomination from a panel of sports writers and broadcasters after compiling a .370 batting average with six homers during the month of May.

Track Star Admits Steroid Use

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

LOS ANGELES — Randy Matson, who holds the world shot put record at 71 feet, 5½ inches, admitted yesterday that he took steroids to increase his strength and pep a few years ago.

"I knew it was illegal," Matson told the Southern California track and field writers, "but I understand there isn't any test that will detect its use."

"When I heard it was dangerous to a person's health, I quit taking them," he said. "There is more to life than track and field. I didn't want to take a chance of hurting myself."

LOS ANGELES — Jeff Bennett of the U.S. Army won the 1,500 meters in 4:08.9 seconds, the final event, to come from behind Monday and capture the National Amateur Athletic Union Decathlon Championship with 7,910 points. Jeff Banister of the Decathlon Club of America was second with 7,890 points.

Horse Racing

BOSTON — The race-fixing trial of five men was to go to the jury today in Suffolk Superior Court.

Judge James C. Roy was scheduled to charge the jury before deliberations began involving conspiracy charges against attorney Edwin A. Nelson, Jr., of Brockton, Mass.; William Barnoski of Somerville, Mass.; Anthony Ciulla of Stoneham, Mass.; Salvatore Macarelli of Nahant, Mass.; and Barnum Sardonis of Rumford, R.I.

Authorities allege the defendants plotted to drug two horses in the nine races at Suffolk Downs in East Boston last April 23.

Tennis

MEXICO CITY — Stan Smith, the No. 1 ranked U.S. tennis player, was due to arrive here today to join his four teammates for Davis Cup Competition against Mexico June 16-18.

"We have about a 70 per cent chance of winning," team captain Dennis Ralston said as he arrived yesterday.

Hockey

BOSTON — Bobby Orr, the National Hockey League's most Valuable Player, was to undergo surgery on his left knee today at Massachusetts General Hospital.

The Boston Bruins' defenseman, who entered the hospital Monday night, originally had been reported set for surgery Friday. No explanation was given for the move-up of the operation.

Orr was troubled by a loose cartilage or bone chips in the knee through the end of the 1971-72 season and during the Stanley Cup playoffs, which the Bruins won.

Golf

NEW YORK — Doug Sanders has vaulted 18 places in professional golf's weekly money-winning list as a result of his victory last Sunday in the Kemper Open, it was announced yesterday by the Professional Golfers Association Tournament Players Division.

Sanders, who received $35,000 for winning the tournament at Charlotte, N.C., climbed from 26th to eighth place as he brought his earnings this year to $74,232. Last year Sanders won $24,891.

Jack Nicklaus continues to lead the money list, even though he did not play in the Kemper Open. Nicklaus has earned $156,051.

Lee Trevino, a second place finisher at Charlotte, has moved into second place with $118,397 followed in order by Jerry Heard ($110,111), George Archer ($106,963), Tom Weiskopf ($97,179), Bobby Mitchell ($85,665), Bruce Crampton ($84,243), Sanders, Bob Murphy ($72,482) and Dave Hill ($71,997).

Kennedy Games' 'Flavor'

BERKELEY (UPI) —Saturday's Kennedy Games at Berkeley will have an international flavor, with the addition of sprinter Roger Bambuck, hurdler Guy Drut and long jumper Jacques Pani of France.

The international stars confirmed Monday that they would compete in the Kennedy Games shortly after Cal coach and meet director Dave Maggard discussed the meet before a press luncheon.

Drut has already decisioned Olympic king Willie Davenport this year and has a best of 13.3 in the high hurdles. But awaiting him at Berkeley is world record holder Rod Milburn.

The shotput will include history's three 70-footers, Randy Matson, Al Feuerbach and George Woods, who just hit the magic mark last weekend.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Potential Good For National Cash

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. On professional advice, I purchased 200 shares of National Cash Register (NYSE) about 14 months ago. Should I sell this stock or does it stand a chance for appreciation? — R.G.

A. NCR should be held for its promising turnaround potential. An anticipated first quarter deficit equal to 31 cents a share resulted from a strike which was terminated Jan. 31, start-up costs on new products and expenses from re-engineering a computer peripheral product. Full year earnings, however, should make a significant recovery. Three new products will be introduced later this year: a computer and two accounting machines.

Longer term, the recently completed agreements with Control Data should importantly strengthen National Cash Register's position in the computer field. The "close working relationship," if approved by the Justice Department, will broaden product lines, reduce R&D costs as well as product expenses, since duplication will be eliminated and costs shared.

Q. I purchased Hammond Organ about 5 years ago but it doesn't seem to get anywhere. Also should I sell American Tel. & Tel? I am 73 years old and alone. L.N.

A. While at this point I would recommend retaining these two NYSE-listed issues, the rationale for doing so is different in each case. Telephone will undoubtedly continue to produce an above-average yield with comparatively little downside risk. Thus, this low-risk, high-return stock is well-suited to your investment needs.

Hammond Corp. (formerly Hammond Organ) is a speculation on earnings recovery and is not the best type of security for your portfolio, long term. However, I suggest holding for the predicted profit rebound which should carry over to trading levels.

For the year ended March, a marginal gain in earnings is looked for with significant improvement over the balance of the current fiscal year. A new integrated circuit organ model introduced in January has been well accepted by the trade. Other models are also selling at a brisk pace.

Market In Mixed Mood At Opening

NEW YORK (UPI) —Prices turned mixed to slightly lower during the first two hours today under some selling pressure. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was moderate.

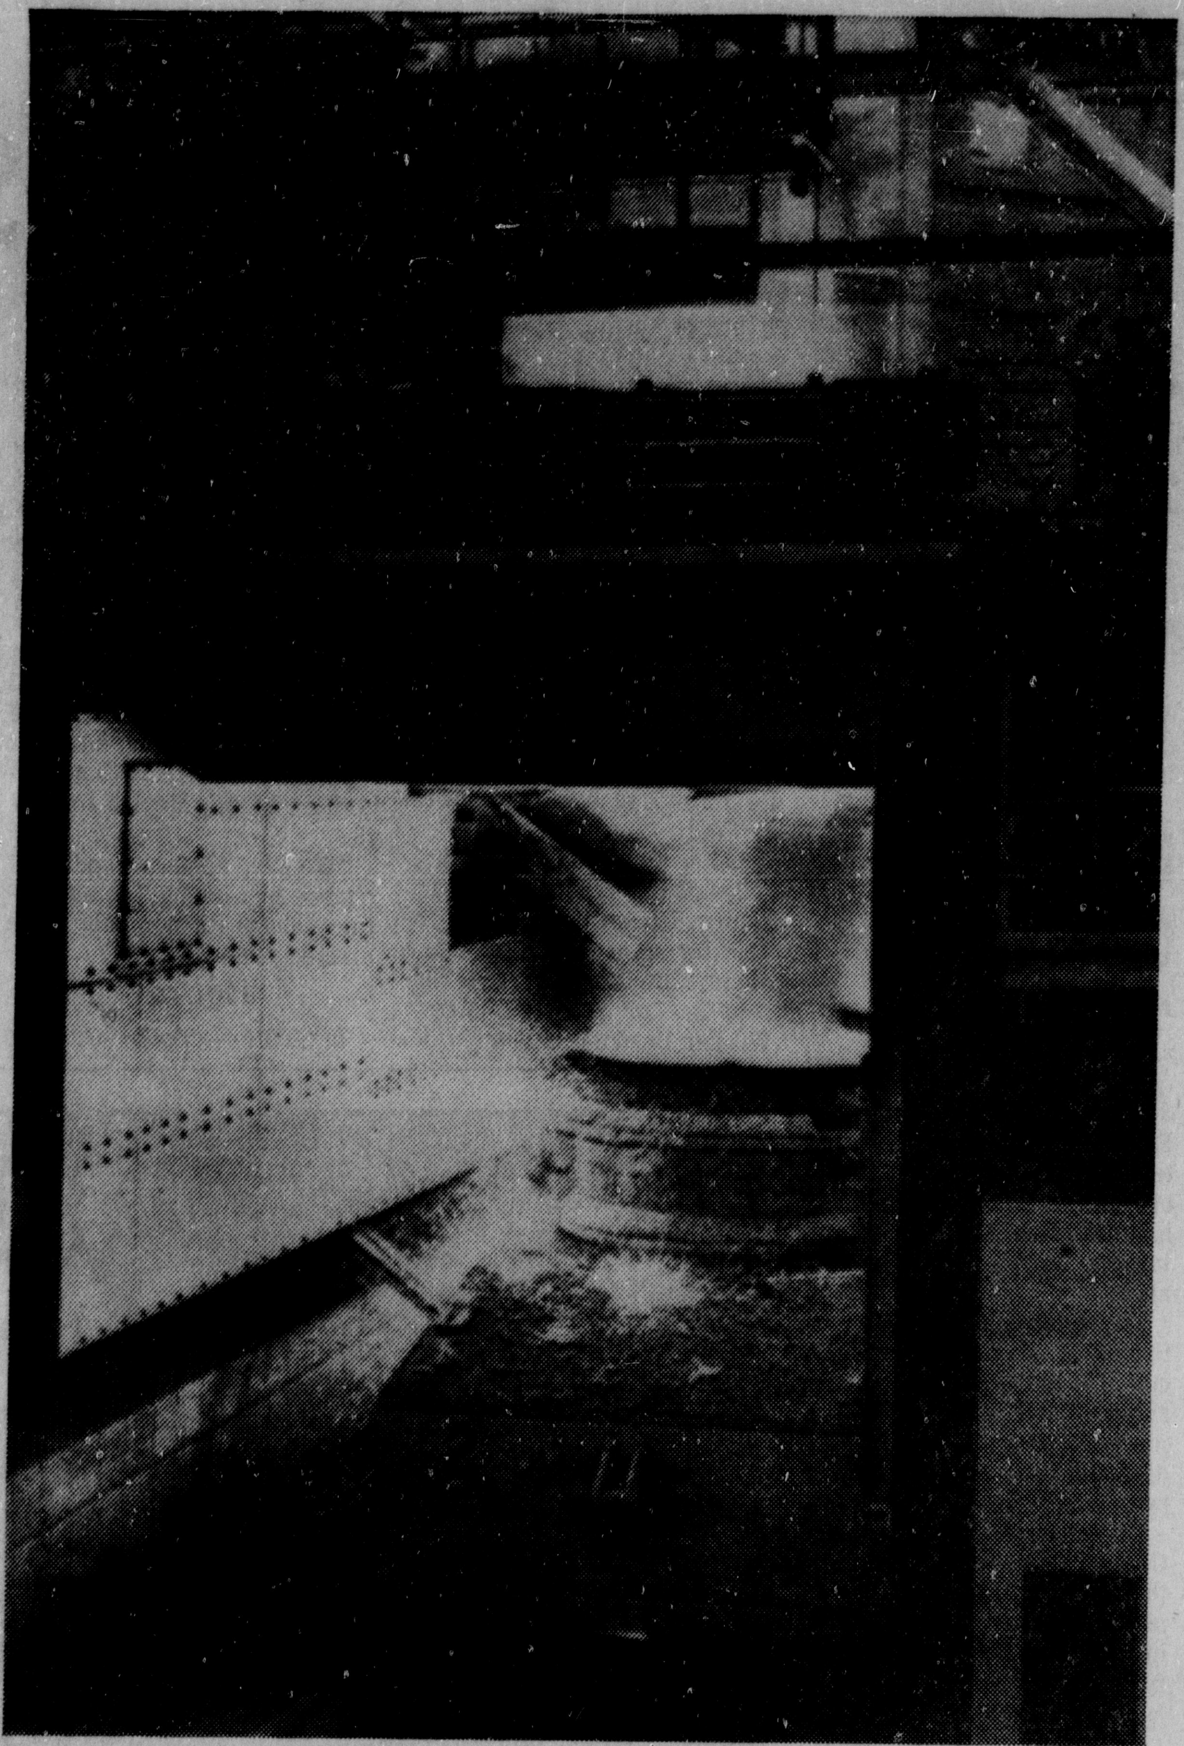
There were a few large block trades, indicating institutions are selling. One reason was that mutual fund redemptions are at record highs some analysts said.

Massey-Ferguson was the most active issue with a block of 200,300 shares at 15, off ¼. McDonnell-Douglas was second, primarily because of a block of 203,300 shares at 41, off 1 ¼. Levitz Furniture was third, up 2 ½.

Prices also were mixed to slightly lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Among the glamors, Schlumberger dropped 2, Corning Glass 1 ⅜. But Polaroid, which has been hit hard recently by profit taking, rebounded.

Gold mining issues also were higher, apparently in reaction to sharp increases in free market gold prices. Dome Mines rose 2 ½, and Campbell Red Lake, American-South Afridan and Homestake Mining, all more than a point.



INTO SECOND CENTURY

Safeway Store On B Street To Undergo $300,000 In Remodeling

Safeway Store in San Rafael, on B Street near Second, will get a $300,000 remodeling and expansion job, starting in two or three weeks.

The job will take about five months, but the store will remain open throughout the period of remodeling.

"It will look like a completely new store when completed this fall," said Clyde Coletti, construction department manager in San Francisco.

A new entrance will be built in front of the building, facing B Street, and the present right entrance (as you face the building) will be closed off to create a separate liquor sale section. Other changes include the closing in of the dock area in the back of the building to provide more storage room, and expansion of the sales area by pushing back the produce cases.

Coletti said the increase in the floor area will be only 500 or 600 square feet, but the extensive remodeling and change in entranceway will give it a brand new appearance. The remodeling should be completed in November.

PAYLESS DRUG will be among the major stores that will open up branches in the new Corte Madera shopping center planned by Ernest W. Hahn Inc. in the area east of Highway 101 and north of Paradise Drive.

This branch will be in addition to the large new Payless store that will go into Northgate Mall in the building formerly occupied by City of Paris.

As previously announced, Macy's and J.C. Penney also plan to open stores in the Hahn Shopping Center in Corte Madera.

EDWARD H. MARGOLIN of Novato has been named vice president of marketing for Farrar, Herrick & Associates, a development company with offices in San Rafael and San Bernardino.

Margolin is manager of the firm's San Rafael office at 1330 Lincoln Avenue and formerly directed marketing activities in Northern California. His new duties cover marketing for the organization throughout the United States.

Farrar, Herrick & Associates has separate divisions for real estate development, construction, real estate syndication, and property management.

TAMBLYN LE FEBURE of Larkspur, manager of First Western Bank's Northern California credit department, has been promoted to assistant vice president.

Le Febure began his banking career in 1965 as an examiner with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. He has been with First Western since 1969.

LAURA ALUMBAUGH, 17, Novato High School senior who also completed one year at College of Marin at the same time, won the $500 Archie Culpepper award at the breakfast meeting of the Marin County Board of Realtors this morning. An additional award of $250 went to Janet Carrier, 17, of Forest Knolls, a student at Drake High School.

The scholarship award is given by the Board of Realtors to a Marin student who wants to go into business administration and is interested in real estate. The award perpetuates the memory of long-time board member and past president, Archie Culpepper.

Miss Alumbaugh plans to attend Santa Clara University and major in business administration. Miss Carrier plans to enroll at College of Marin and Humboldt State College, majoring in forestry and conservation.

AMAZING GRACE Music Shop at 67 Red Hill Avenue (Miracle Mile) in San Anselmo, opposite the Zebedee Restaurant, has just changed hands.

Stephen T. Young of San Anselmo, who owned the store for two years, sold it to David C. Crummey of Lagunitas, a singer, guitarist and teacher. Crummey will retain the name Amazing Grace Music. The shop specializes in guitars and accessories, plus mandolins and banjos.

Young, the previous owner, said he will head for Nashville, Tenn., "to do some writing, recording, and hopefully performing." Young was a guitarist and professional musician for 13 years before he opened the music shop two years ago.

SEASHORE REALTY, with offices in Bolinas and Stinson Beach, has changed owners. The two offices are now owned and operated by George F. West and five associates at 22 Brighton Avenue in Bolinas and 3605 Shoreline Highway, Stinson Beach.

Former owner Thomas R. Tawns retired to engage in other business.

MARGARET F. WILLIAMS of San Rafael has been named assistant operations officer in Wells Fargo Bank's Northgate office in San Rafael.

A graduate of Dominican College, she joined Wells Fargo in 1962.

MGM Will Offer Bonds For Hotel

CULVER CITY (BW) — Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Inc. president and chief executive officer James T. Aubrey Jr., has announced that MGM proposes to sell, through an underwritten public offering, $50,000,000 principal amount of collateral trust bonds due 1992.

Aubrey stated that the proceeds of the offering will be used to finance a portion of the costs of the 2,000-room resort hotel and casino being constructed by MGM in Las Vegas.

Charge Of Sample Ballot Foulup

The Secretary of state was asked today by a candidate for Marin County supervisor to investigate complaints that many voters did not get sample ballots for today's primary election.

The county elections office, however, said it already had planned to investigate the complaints, and said much of the problem apparently was the fault of the U.S. Postal Service.

The sectional center postmaster, in turn, refused to accept any blame.

The bouncing ball of blame got started last night when Patricia T. Maginnis of San Rafael, a candidate in the Fourth Supervisorial District, filed a complaint in a night letter to Secretary of State Edmond G. Brown Jr. complaining that it was unfair to voters to weigh candidates and issues without sample ballot information, she asked that "corrective measures be taken."

Miss Maginnis, a medical technologist, told the Independent-Journal today that six of seven coworkers on her shift last night at Marin General Hospital had not received their sample ballots. She said that by "corrective measures" she meant an investigation.

"I am not trying to accuse anybody," she said, adding that she only got her own sample ballot in the past few days by telephoning the county elections office. "They were very nice," she said, and promptly mailed her a sample ballot.

County Elections Officer Peter C, Meyer said his office had "quite a few" similar complaints yesterday, and that in every case it was found that the voter had been sent a sample ballot. In many cases, he said. voters had not gotten their sample ballots because they had moved without reregistering.

In the case of Novato alone, he said, more than 1,000 undelivered sample ballots were returned to the elections office. Yet a spot check of these found in every case that the address was valid, he said.

A detailed investigation by his office will be made after the election, Meyer said.

He reported that almost 108,000 sample ballots were mailed by his office, "or one for every single voter in the county."

Hugh Cassidy, sectional center postmaster for Marin and Southern Sonoma, said Meyer's suggestion that the Postal Service was to blame was "something I just can't accept." He said he would investigate, however, when Meyer produces evidence of nondelivery of sample ballots.

The secretary of state's office, gearing up for a long night, was unable to comment on the night letter from Miss Maginnis.

A COOLING FOG ENDS SCORCHING WEATHER

A one-day heat wave in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties came to an end early today when cooling summer fog came in off the ocean, sending temperatures down dramatically.

Yesterday's scorcher saw the thermometer go as high as 101 in Terra Linda. At noon today the temperature in San Rafael was 71.

Other highs reported were San Rafael, 97; Woodacre, 100; San Anselmo, 96; Ross, 94; Novato, 99; Sausalito, 83, and Petaluma, 98.

Smog level readings also crept up with a "significant" amount of the nasty irritants being reported in San Jose and light smog in San Francisco.

In San Rafael smog crept up to the top of scale still considered clean air.

The weatherman predicted high temperatures today and tomorrow in the mid-80s.

Marin Voter Turnout In Good Start; 70% Seen

Ballotihg in today's primary election generally got off to a good start throughout Marin.

Commuters lined up at many polls when they opened at 7 a.m. Polls will remain open until 8 p.m.

Significant returns should be reported by 11 p.m. and complete unofficial results for Marin may be known by 1:30 a.m., County Elections Officer Peter C. Meyer said.

A 70 per cent turnout of Marin's 106,244 voters was predicted yesterday by Meyer.

Election returns will be carried live from the Civic Center starting at 8 p.m. on radio station KTIM, 100.9 FM.

Voting apparently went smoothly at most precincts. In at least one case, however, poll workers violated county instructions and refused to allow a voter to ballot despite the fact his name was not on their rolls. The voter, Lee K. Morrison of 19 Elizabeth Way, San Rafael, presented his registration stub as required, but the precinct workers nevertheless refused to allow him to vote.

By the time the issue could have been straightened out, Morrison already had left home on business.

The turnout of voters in Southern Marin was nearly 25 per cent in some precincts in the first four hours. At Mill Valley Boy Scout Hall, 177 East Blithedale Avenue, 123 of 661 registered voters had voted. At Tamalpais Fire Station, 309 Poplar Street, 130 of 620 had voted.

At St. Hilary's Church, 765 Hilary Drive, Tiburon, 97 of 389 had voted, and at the Belvedere residence of Kimball S. Palm, 100 of 384 had voted.

Turnout also was heavy in Sausalito and Stinson Beach, but light in Marin City, where only 146 of 1,336 registered voters had cast ballots at two polling places in St. Andrew's United Presbyterian Church.

At Sausalito School District offices, 75 of 405 registered had voted, as had 89 of 407 registered to vote in Stinson Beach at the community center.

Precinct workers at the Fairfax Women's Club, 46 Park Road, reported 96 of 594 voters had balloted.

In San Anselmo, 70 of 455 registered had voted at the James J. Krahl residence, 60 Sequoia Drive.

San Rafael Boy Scout Hall workers reported that 119 voters had balloted out of 609 registered.

A slow turnout was reported in Novato, with 43 of 330 registered voting at the community house in the downtown area. At the Seventh-Day Adventist Church in San Marin, 35 of 225 had voted.

AWOL SAIGON GI

A Defector Turns Into Battle's Hero

PHU MY, South Vietnam (UPI) — An unnamed South Vietnamese soldier jailed for being AWOL by his own government, impressed as an ammunition carrier by the North Vietnamese and now back in a South Vietnamese jail is the real hero of the government victory here, a U.S. adviser said Tuesday.

The man is being held incommunicado somewhere near Phu My, a district (county) capital attacked last Friday by the Communists.

Government troops recaptured the town Monday, thanks mainly to information passed on by the soldier.

He defected 12 hours before the attack began and gave government and U.S. officers the full details of the impending North Vietnamese assault.

The officers have credited the soldier with saving Phu My and nearby Crystal Camp, headquarters of a South Vietnamese regiment.

"Only because of the intelligence we got from this soldier who defected from the North Vietnamese were we able to hit the NVA before they hit us and preempt their attacks," said Col. Phillip Kaplan, senior U.S. adviser to the government's 22nd Infantry division.

The defector's story began early in the Communist offensive, when he was wounded in early April while fighting on the South Vietnamese side near Hue. When he was released from the hospital he was given leave, and went to visit his family at Bong Son, north of Phu My.

The soldier overstayed his leave and was picked up and jailed by South Vietnamese military police as one of their last acts before they were run out of Bong Son by the North Vietnamese, leaving the soldier locked up.

The Communists assumed the man was a captured Viet Cong and treated him accordingly. He didn't argue with them.

After a brief stint as a laborer, hauling ammunition and food, he was taken to an indoctrination camp, where he received several days of propaganda pep talks.

Then he and 143 others were assigned to the 21st North Vietnamese Regiment, a section of the 3rd Infantry Division operating in heavily Communist - controlled Binh Dinh province, 250 miles north of Saigon.

Assigned to a specific battalion, the man and his Communist companions were briefed on the attack on Phu My, scheduled for midnight June 1. By a stroke of luck, he saw the detailed plans, including the timetable and order of battle.

He went to get a drink at a creek early last Friday morning, and just kept walking to Phu My.

The attack on Phu My and Crystal Base developed exactly as the soldier said it would, except that it started six hours late. The delay only aided the defenders.

South Vietnamese authorities haven't decided if the man is a hero or a criminal, so, in the meantime, he's back in jail.

Plan China Visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The two House leaders, Republican Gerald R. Ford and Democrat Hale Boggs, will leave June 23 for a two-week trip to China, they announced today.

McGovern In Driver's Seat As Democrats Cast Primary Ballots

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — George S. McGovern, dismissed as a fringe candidate only three months ago, today was heavily favored to win the crucial California primary. A solid victory could trigger a steamroller leading to McGovern's nomination as the Democratic presidential candidate.

McGovern was expected to defeat Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey in a head-to-head collision between the two leading candidates for the nomination and possibly put to an end, for all time, the former vice president's hopes of becoming president.

McGovern also was favored to turn back Humphrey in the New Jersey and New Mexico presidential primaries and was unopposed in his home state of South Dakota.

At stake in the four primaries was a rich harvest of 415 delegates to the national convention, opening July 10 in Miami Beach, and McGovern was certain of adding to his leading total of 516.5 votes. It takes 1,509 to win the nomination.

The winner takes all 271 delegate votes out of California; New Jersey's 109 delegate votes are apportioned among the winners in congressional districts; in New Mexico, the top two finishers split the state's 18 delegate votes; and McGovern has South Dakota's 17 locked up.

Although the California primary was considered mostly a McGovern-Humphrey showdown, George C. Wallace has mounted a major write-in campaign.

Wallace, paralyzed from the waist down by the bullets of a would-be assassin, launched a massive media blitz and sent to California his wife, Cornelia, and his son, George Jr., to campaign on his behalf.

Two other candidates on the ballot, former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy and Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty, gave up their personal campaigns. Yorty endorsed Humphrey Monday and McCarthy threw his support to McGovern. (See story, page 2.)

Also on the ballot are Rep. Shirley Chisholm, who has campaigned in California only sporadically; Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, once the favorite who pulled out of all primaries after disastrous defeats in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania; and New York Mayor John Lindsay, who bowed out after the Wisconsin primary.

President Nixon was assured of clinching the Republican presidential nomination by sweeping the California primary. He already has 633 delegate votes of the 674 needed for nomination and California will provide him with 96 more.

Supremely confident of winning, McGovern campaigned only half a day in California in the 24 hours before the polls opened, visiting defense workers south of Los Angeles and holding a rally in San Diego.

Then he boarded his chart-

Marin Supervisors Ask Halt Of AF Demolition

The Marin County Board of Supervisors agreed today to request the base commander at Hamilton Air Force Base to halt demolition of an aging building pending evaluation of repair costs. (For a base officer's description of the building, see story page 12.)

The board's action, which came on a 3-1 vote with supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste dissenting and John F. McInnis absent, was urged by Ben J. Ostlind of San Rafael who maintains the building would be ideal for a civilian air terminal.

Besides asking for the delay, the board directed the county building department to estimate repair costs along with engineers from Hughes Air West and Air California if they are interested.

The two airlines have expressed interest in the past in providing civilian air service from the base provided the federal government agrees to joint military-civilian use.

Baptiste, in opposing the action, said it amounted to the county taking action "without full public exposure."

Ostlind countered that Baptiste was trying a "delaying tactic."

As reported yesterday by the Independent-Journal, destruction of the building began several days ago and was brought to public attention by Ostlind, a long-time proponent of joint use.

The Marin County Aviation Commission, which will meet today at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center, is expected to discuss the demolition of the building.

Pitch Made For Airpark At Smith Ranch Facility

By NELS JOHNSON

Former Aviation Commissioner Benjamin R. Ostlind and 85 boosters of the Smith Ranch Airport urged the San Rafael City Council last night to convert the 100-acre private air facility north of Santa Venetia into a city operated smallcraft airpark. (Another San Rafael City Council story, page 12.)

Ostlind's plea came on the heels of a revelation that a Los Angeles based development firm is considering a mammoth residential complex for the airport site and adjacent lands.

According to City Mgr. James H. McCown, the Larwin Development Corp. of Los Angeles has approached city staff with a proposal to build 1,400 apartment, condominium and townhouse units on a 148-acre tract that runs behind the Marin Civic Center Veterans Memorial Building and along a portion of the Santa Venetia Channel.

The parel, which includes the Smith Ranch Airport, is now in the hands of a Midwestern bank as a result of a foreclosure proceeding, but the Larwin firm has an option on the property, according to McCown. "We understnad the status of this proposal is that it may well be coming to the planning commission through the formal application process in the near future," McCown said.

Ostlind, expressing outrage at the residential development proposal, told the council to give "urgent consideration" to acquiring the land "on which this only airport in San Rafael is built." He urged that it be turned into a recreational airpark composed of an airfield for small and corporate craft, plus a marina or small golf course.

Councilman John A. Miskimen said that the airpark plan was a "good proposal" and called for a study of necessary funding. Staff was instructed to look into funding methods and to determine the approximate cost of the land.

Ostlind said that state and federal funding programs could be tapped for much of the airpark development costs, and suggested the issuance of nonprofit corporation bonds to cover the original purchase of the land. But he offered no estimate on the total cost of his proposal.

Ostlind, who presented council with a petition signed by 85 boosters of the Smith Ranch facility, said that his group alone could and would "obtain complete subscription to required bonds for acquisition of the land." Many of the airport supporters filled the council chambers.

The Smith Ranch advocate said that aircraft sales tax and aviation fuel taxes would serve to fatten city coffers.

"As far as any detrimental effect to the neighboring areas is concerned, I am sure that those persons dedicated to stopping growth of housing and preserving open space can easily recognize the value of such an airport. . ." he said, adding that only one complaint had been filed because of airport operations in the last 30 months. But he admitted that some protest had been "stirred up by agitators before that."

Ostlind, long a spokesman for the facility, abandoned an attempt to gain commuter flights between the private field and San Francisco International Airport in 1969, after strong opposition from Santa Venetia and Gallinas Village residents. At that time, commercialization of the airfield was rejected by both the Marin County Planning Commission and the Marin County Aviation Commission.

Last night, Ostlind said that his proposal "should not be considered as a commercial airport," but encouraged the inclusion of a repair and fuel service, a motel and restaurant, plus provisions for aircraft sales, in the airpark.

Smith Ranch airport, primarily used by aircraft hobbyists, now houses about 35 planes. "It's a country airport," Ostlind said.

Rezoning Of Area Surrounding Nicasio Delayed Till Mid-July

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Marin County Planning Commission yesterday approved low density agricultural zoning for two large areas of southwest Marin, but failed to reach agreement on lands around Nicasio.

Lands approved for the new A-60 designation — limiting one new dwelling to every 60 acres — lie generally north of Bolinas in the Olema Valley and south of Muir Beach.

The commission's action, which must be ratified by the county board of supervisors, reclassifies the fourth of five sections of the county's sprawling agricultural preserve.

Rezoning of the fifth area, some 40,000 acres around the tiny farming community of Nicasio, was continued to July 17 after lengthy discussion in which the commission referred it back to staff for further study.

As with the other sections, yesterday's rezoning was recommended by the county planning staff to fulfill state law governing land use within the preserve.

The law — the Williamson Act — states that lands within the preserve must be zoned in a manner "compatible" with the agricultural industry.

The Nixons Cast Absentee Ballots

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President and Mrs. Nixon both cast absentee ballots in today's Republican primary in California, the White House announced.

Nixon expects a one-sided victory in his home state against conservative challenger Rep. John Ashbrook of Ohio.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren declined to say how the Nixons voted although it is certain the first family cast their ballots for the President.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Troops, Youths Battle

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — British troops battled rioting Protestant and Roman Catholic youths today in Belfast and Portadown, 25 miles southwest of the Northern Ireland capital.

The army said at least six persons, including a 14-year-old boy, were wounded by gunfire from unidentified sources during the disorders in the two cities.

A 'No-Fault' Windfall

BOSTON (UPI) — Massachusetts car owners will receive an estimated $30 million to $40 million in refunds from auto insurance companies under a court decision that was a victory for the "no fault" concept.

The Massachusetts Supreme Court, basing its decision on an excess profits statute, ruled yesterday insurance companies would have to reduce their 1972 compulsory auto insurance rates by 27.6 per cent and refund the difference to the insured.

Doubts Assassin Plot

NEW YORK (UPI) — A reported assassination attempt against two sons of ailing reputed underworld boss Joseph A. Colombo Sr. may not actually have occurred, a high police official suggested yesterday.

Deputy Chief of Detectives Seymour Silver said that the gunshot attack on a car carrying Anthony and Joseph Jr., may have been "imaginary."

"It appears now that all the shooting may have been done from inside the vehicle," said Silver. At least 18 shots were fired from the car in what was purported to be the latest shooting incident in the tangled Mafia affairs of the Gallo, Colombo and Gambino families.

Pollution Fund Call

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The secretary general of the U.N. Environment Conference called today for $200 million to set up an international agency for solving the world's pollution woes.

The sum is double the $100 million President Nixon asked for an environment fund to finance the proposed institution.

Maurice F. Strong of Canada, secretary general of the 11-day conference — the first of its kind that began here Monday — called for the money in a working paper distributed to the 1,500 delegates from 112 countries.

He said the $40 million a year over an initial five-year period was needed to set up and operate the new but small agency to coordinate worldwide environmental assistance, protection and monitoring.

Hits Wiretap Decision

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Acting FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III spoke out yesterday against a federal judge's recent decision that the wiretapping provision of the 1968 Omnibus Safe Streets and Crime Control Act is unconstitutional.

Gray, who made a quick tour of FBI offices in Philadelphia, Newark, N.J. and Providence, R.I., told newsmen in Philadelphia and Newark that U.S. District Judge Joseph S. Lord's decision last Thursday "may have reached an erroneous result."

Second Pollution Alert

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Dr. George E. Hardy Jr., Jefferson County health officer, declared an air pollution alert yesterday for the second time in four days.

Hardy had declared an alert Friday, invoking for the first time the state's new air pollution control law.

Hardy halted the first alert Sunday when the level of air pollution dropped below 375 micrograms of particulate matter per cubic meter of air.

Lon Nol Is Winner

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — The Cambodian government announced today that incumbent President Lon Nol easily won the country's first presidential election with more than 60 per cent of the vote.

The president's two opponents, former National Assembly Chairman In Tam and former law school dean Keo An, polled 21.89 per cent and 17.24 per cent respectively in the Sunday balloting, according to the unofficial countrywide count announced over national radio.

Heavy Pollution Fines

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) —Alabama's 1971 water pollution control law provides for fines ranging from $100 to $10,000 per day for violation of water pollution regulations. The state passed its first water pollution control act in 1949.

Sex Bias Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate yesterday passed, 23-6, legislation declaring it against public policy for a public school to refuse employment on the basis of sex or to ask questions relating to the applicant's sex.

Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, jokingly asked for a "no" vote because "we ought to keep sex out of the schools."

The measure by Sen. Alfred E. Alquist, D-San Jose, now goes to the Assembly.

MASSACRE DEATH MOURNED

Members of the family of one of 16 Puerto Rican pilgrims killed May 30 at Israel's Lod Airport wept yesterday over his casket shortly after the arrival of the bodies at San Juan aboard a U.S. Air Force jet. Hundreds of relatives and friends gathered in memory of those killed in the airport massacre.

Yorty Pulls Out In Support Of Humphrey

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Mayor Sam Yorty pulled out of today's California Democratic primary, urging his supporters to vote for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey as the only presidential candidate with a realistic chance to stop "the McGovern juggernaut."

Yorty appealed to supporters of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace to join the "stop McGovern" front. The Wallace campaign refused.

"Our Democratic party is threatened with suicidal radicalization by Sen. George McGovern's lavishly financed campaign of deception and demagoguery," Yorty said in announcing his endorsement Monday.

"Sen. Humphrey appears to be the only candidate in a position to prevent the radically sparked, money-powered McGovern juggernaut from taking California by storm before the voters wake up to what is happening to them."

"It would help if the supporters of Gov. Wallace would give up their futile write-in campaign and help us prevent the radicalization of the Democratic party in California," Yorty said.

Humphrey said the mayor's endorsement came as a surprise. "I hadn't any indication," he said. "I'm pleased. It was very helpful."

The manager of the Wallace campaign in Southern California, John Grainer, retorted that he was surprised Yorty endorsed Humphrey instead of throwing his support to Wallace.

Sierra Club Becoming Front To Big Business, Nader Says

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ralph Nader contends the Sierra Club, one of the nation's most venerable and largest conservation groups, is "rapidly turning into a front group for business."

Nader's charge brought a sharp retort from the California-based club. Its Sacramento lobbyist, John Zierold, said Nader's linking the organization to business interests was the "ultimate refinement of folly." He said Nader's charges were "outrageously inaccurate."

Nader at a Washington news conference Monday faulted the club for failing to take a public stand on Proposition 9, a proposal on California's primary election ballot today.

The proposal would impose strict environmental safeguards in the state—placing a five-year moratorium on construction of atomic power plants, banning the use of DDT, prohibiting oil drilling in tidelands and imposing harsh penalties for any kind of air pollution.

The consumer advocate said the Sierra Club should have taken a public stand because the proposition dealt with a "key issue" in its area of interest.

Nader said he had asked the Public Relations Society of America to investigate the public relations firm of Whitaker Baxter of San Francisco, which has attacked Proposition 9 on behalf of industrial clients. He said the firm had shown a "callous disregard" of professional ethics.

South Vietnam Troops Take Kontum

SAIGON (UPI)—A 2,000-man force of South Vietnamese troops today recaptured the embattled provincial capital of Kontum, which the North Vietnamese penetrated early in their offensive that began March 30.

Military spokesmen said government troops stormed two Communist strongholds in the city and drove the North Vietnamese out of the city. The spokesmen said the South Vietnamese, backed by U.S. helicopter gunships, cleared the entire Central Highlands city of North Vietnamese commandos holed up in three pockets since May 26. Government forces over the past weeks have slowly retaken ground in the battered city and spokesmen said today it was back in government hands.

The Saigon command claimed 166 North Vietnamese were killed this morning in the attacks against the two remaining Communist pockets inside the city. By mid-afternoon, the command said, all Communist resistance in Kontum had been wiped out.

It was the second major government victory in two days. Monday, South Vietnamese troops, acting on intelligence supplied by a Viet Cong deserter, routed Communist forces from the district capital of Phu My.

Spokesmen said today U.S. fighter-bombers Monday hit railroads and bridges in North Vietnam in 220 bombing raids. The bulk of the targets were roads and railroads between Vinh, the country's second largest port, and the Ho Chi Minh trail through Laos to the southern battlefields.

U.S. Navy fighter-bombers also hit a railroad switching yard midway between Haiphong and Hanoi, triggering a "large secondary explosion," U.S. spokesmen said.

North of Vinh, warplanes from the aircraft carrier USS Saratoga scored two direct hits on the Phu Dien bridge on Highway 1, spokesmen said. In the same area 130 miles south of Hanoi, Saratoga pilots "dropped two spans of the Qui Vinh railroad bridge" on North Vietnam's main north-south rail line that goes into China along Highway 1.

Another railroad bridge on the line from Vinh south to the Ho Chi Minh Trail was destroyed when pilots from the Saratoga dropped the middle span, the U.S. command said.

Closer to Saigon, Communist forces shelled the district capital of Duc Hue, 36 miles northwest of the South Vietnamese capital, killing one civilian and wounding three others, the Saigon command said.

Just outside the Hau Nghia provincial capital of Bao Trai, 25 miles northwest of Saigon, a series of skirmishes left 24 North Vietnamese dead and 12 South Vietnamese troops wounded, sources said.

In today's battle for Kontum, spokesmen said only one South Vietnamese soldier was killed and another wounded.

The attack was backed by artillery strikes and heavy raids by U.S. helicopter gunships, spokesmen said.

Watchdogs Of Congress Hint Widespread Interest Conflict

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A citizens' group says about one third of the House's 433 members are involved in businesses and law firms that could be potential conflicts of interest with their legislative duties.

The group called the National Committee for an Effective Congress (NCEC) said because of poor information about the House members and virtually useless information about senators there were indications that the percentage is even higher.

NCEC said the congressmen with outside interests should end them, noting that two-thirds of the "members apparently have found no inconvenience or hardship in refraining from such outside activities."

NCEC said thet last year 16 congressmen withdrew from the practice of law.

NCEC offered the following as examples of potential conflict of interest positions:

—52 participate in the practice of law, either maintaining an office or holding a partnership, "or some looser association."

—41 receive income as directors, chairman or officers or otherwise serving banks and savings and loan associations subject to government regulation.

—23 have relationships with insurance companies, mutual funds and real estate firms.

—65 have "close affiliations" in oil development, advertising and broadcasting media, farming "and a variety of industrial enterprises."

Several members were involved in more than one category.

NCEC said that its findings were based on financial disclosures for 1971 filed by congressmen with the House Ethics Committee. It said that better information could have been compiled if the House required full disclosure of financial interests by members.

Although the House information was restricted, NCEC said the Senate rules on disclosure "are so limited as to preclude any meaningful analysis."

Angela Relaxes; Plans To Ballot

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)— Angela Davis Monday enjoyed her first full day free from her 13-week murder, kidnap and conspiracy trial by basking in the sun, swimming and relaxing.

The 28-year-old black militant escaped to the privacy of a friend's home following two Sunday night parties, one public and one private, to celebrate her acquittal on all charges in connection with the Marin County shootings of 1970.

She planned to vote in California's primary election today in Santa Clara County where she has been a resident since her trial was moved last December on a defense change of venue request from San Rafael. Miss Davis sipped champagne with members of the all-white jury Sunday night before attending a loud public celebration at a nightclub-bowling alley.

After Sunday's verdict, the avowed communist said she would devote her time from now on to helping free political prisoners and oppressed people.

Miss Davis said she has no immediate plans except to take a vacation. She has been on bail since her trial began Feb. 28, but had been unable to leave the area without special written permission.

The jurors were ordered to make no public comment on their 13 hours of deliberation because of the pending case of Ruchell Magee, a former codefendant of Miss Davis whose trial was separated.

Magee is charged with pulling the trigger of the shotgun tied to the head of Judge Harold Haley Aug. 7, 1970.

Town Meeting On Assessments Sought For Belvedere, County

The Belvedere City Council decided last night to see if a town meeting can be arranged for the county assessor to explain assessment processes to residents. Assessed valuation in the city has increased 250 per cent in the last nine years.

Willard G. Pittman said Belvedere's assessment increase this year had averaged 11.6 per cent, compared to 14 per cent in Tiburon, 6 per cent in Ross and 1 per cent in Corte Madera.

"Our great problem is the high turnover of property," he said, "if someone is crazy enough to pay $100,000 for a $15,000 house then all the other assessments go up."

Setting the first budget hearing for June 21, Mayor Thomas S. Price said Belvedere's assessed valuation has increased in the past nine years from $8.4 million to $20.8 million.

"To balance the impact of increased assessment we have decreased the tax rate from $2.32 to $1.70 per $100 assessed valuation. However, the per capita tax bite has increased over 40 per cent," Price said.

City Mgr. William L. Cavalli was instructed to invite county assessor Bert W. Broemmel to address a town meeting. And Price suggested that local residents with financial expertise help study the feasibility of long-range financing of large capital projects — including updating and enlarging water mains, reconstruction of certain roads and acquisition of open space.

A group of Acacia Avenue homeowners complained that density restrictions for apartments suggested in the Livingston and Blayney planning report were too lenient and should be reconsidered and to ask that parking restrictions be written into town ordinances for Acacia Avenue.

The council voted to discuss both requests at the planning commission meeting Monday. In an effort to stop speeding within the city, the council decided to install an experimental "rumble" strip of five raised stripes on San Rafael Avenue near Edgewater Road. The stripes, costing $28 each, would leave a corridor between the curb for bike riders.

Councilman David E. Bordon suggested stripes also on Lagoon Road, but the council decided to experiment first on San Rafael Avenue.

The Belvedere City Council Also:

DOWNTOWN MARSH — Endorsed the Marin Audubon Society's efforts to conserve the marsh in Tiburon.

CABLE TV — Heard a progress report by Cable T.V. of Marin Inc., that underground installation of cables should be completed within 10 days.

APPRECIATION — Expressed the council's appreciation of George V. Banning's service as a planning commissioner for 12 years, nine of them as chairman.

TREE SPRAYING — Accepted a recommendation by Pieter Myers of the environmental committee that insecticidal spraying of city trees be avoided; instead pines on Lagoon Road should have scale infection treated by controlling ants and minor pruning, and elms on San Rafael Avenue should be left unsprayed since they show no signs of elm beetle.

WOODLAND LANE — Voted to accept a low bid of $5,900 for Woodland Lane Improvement, Mayor Price dissenting.

SPEEDING — Heard Police Chief John W. Jaeger report that the new stop sign on Marin and San Rafael avenues was not proving as successful as had been hoped in cutting speeding. A patrolman had issued six warnings to speeders on San Rafael within a few hours.

LIBRARY — Voted to support a proposal to expand the county library service for Belvedere-Tiburon in premises adjacent to the post office vacated by H. C. Electronics.

VOTER REGISTRATION — Authorized voter registration at the city office for the convenience of residents.

SWIMMING POOLS: — Deferred a decision on allowing bypassing obtaining a use permit for construction of swimming pools without superstructures or retaining walls until the planning commission meeting Monday.

Two Hurt In Cycle Accident

Two Vallejo residents were injured at 10:30 p.m. Saturday in a motorcycle accident on Petaluma-Point Reyes Road, less than one mile south of Nicasio Road, the California Highway Patrol reported yesterday.

William L. Wright, 35, was treated at Kaiser Hospital in San Rafael for injuries to his left wrist and left hand.

A passenger on his motorcycle, Carolyn Sue Twigg, 24, was reported in poor condition in the intensive care unit of Marin General Hospital with a head injury, broken collar bone and broken vertebrae in her neck.

The accident occurred, said the patrol, when Wright's attention was diverted to his cycle's rear wheel. The cycle drifted to the right and struck the curb.

Equipment Stolen From Sailboat

Four winches and a depth finder valued at a total of $699 were stolen between 6 p.m. May 24 and 8:35 a.m. May 25, Sausalito police reported.

The items were taken from a sailboat owned by Ronald Anderson while the vessel was berthed at Anderson's boatyard in Clipper Yacht Harbor.

Funds Lacking For Novato Parks

By FRANK FARRARA

The Novato City Council and the city parks and recreation commission spent a frustrating evening last night trying to reconcile long-range plans for parks and a lack of cash.

Commissioners seeking an override tax of 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation to finance capital improvements faced a council that told them funds were limited.

The commission had recommended a capital improvements program of $216,000 and City Mgr. Charles A. Brown has recommended $100,000 partially supported by a 6-cent override rate, the same as this year.

Brown explained that part of the program would be financed with revenue from the city's recently established bedroom tax, estimated to bring in about $40,000 in the 1972-73 fiscal year.

Commission Chairman Walter W.Vater midway through one joint meeting said he believes the commission has been "an errand boy and rubber stamp" rather than a long-range planning group. Its job, he said, should be to give the council a long-range plan "reflecting the needs of the comtion site in the Ignacio area, but "understood the budget difficulty." She said she would like to see an "acquisition such as O'Hair."

Recreation Director Edward W. Adams said he would apply to both the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the state Land and Water Conservation Fund for funds toward purchase of the O'Hair property.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said the city is now revising its general plan and the planning commission is working on the basis of a population of 70,000 to 80,000 in the Novato area by 1990, well below the 174,000 projected population in the current plan.

He suggested that long-range planning for parks and recreation should consider this new population goal.

munity," even if the community doesn't realize these needs. He apologized for his "emotionalism," but said he regarded recreation as being as significant as sewers or roads.

Mayor Wayne Sartain replied that parks and recreation was allocated 28 cents out of the city's total 1971-72 tax rate of 95 cents per $100 assessed valuation. . ."no small amount."

"I think a 24-cent increase is unrealistic," said Councilman Fred F. Ruegg. "I think we have to operate on the present rate, and develop parks we have now rather than acquiring additional land."

Much of the discussion was about the commission's recommendation to allocate $100,000 toward purchase of the 67-acre O'Hair property at the southwest corner of Novato Boulevard and Sutro Avenue for a major community park.

Ruegg said the fact is that money is limited "and people are just up to their ears in taxes." He suggested that the O'Hair property purchase, estimated to total $500,000, be put on the ballot "and see if the people will buy it."

Commissioner John Kassenbrock said the city would "have to do something in a short time" about acquiring a major park site "or abandon the concept." Land of suitable size for such a park won't be available much longer, he said. In substantial agreement were Councilman David Price Jones and Commissioner Geoffrey J. Bywater, runnerup in the recent council election.

Councilman Dorothy P. Young said she favored establishing city tennis courts, another swimming pool and a recrea-

Prior to meeting with the parks and recreation commission, the council discussed general plan revisions with the planning commission.

Planning Director Brian W. Mattson said the commission was working on the theory that the population of the North Marin area, now 43,000, should be from 70,000 to 90,000 by 1990.

Quesada questioned whether this projection was realistic because it would be based on growth of 1,500 persons a year until 1990, and he believed that growth "would be closer to 2,000 to 2,500 a year," in the next several years.

Sartain asked how many housing units have been approved in the area, but not constructed, and Mattson said 11,885, representing a population of 36,000.

Mattson was asked with 43,000 persons in the area and 36,000 potential, how the city could plan for 70,000.

Some of the previously approved housing plans will have to be reevaluated, Mattson said. "It's absolutely mandatory these be revised.

The council scheduled a hearing at 8 p.m. June 22 at the Novato Community House on the proposed housing element to the Novato Area General Plan.

The council also scheduled a series of hearings on the operating budget starting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the community house.

The schedule is: June 12, 14 and 15 at 7:30 p.m.; June 16, 9 a.m. to noon, 1:30 p.m.; to 5 and 8 to 11 p.m.; June 17, tour of projects, 9 a.m. to noon; June 19, 7:30 p.m.; June 21, 8 p.m., public hearing; June 26, public hearing, and June 27, adoption.

Reprieve For Lagoon Birds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A reprieve has been granted to the ducks and black swans of the lagoon at the Palace of Fine Arts.

About 100 waterfowl had been ordered executed following the discovery of a rare Asian disease that had killed about 40 birds. Local medical experts made a last minute appeal Monday for more time to see if the remaining birds could be saved.

"Medical experts in San Francisco claim there is no need to destroy the animals at all since there has not been a death in the lagoon for over 30 days and the incubation period for the disease is only three to five days," said State Sen. George R. Moscone of San Francisco.

Man Arrested For Extortion Try At Casino

RENO, Nev. (UPI)—A suspect who demanded $50,000 on the threat of blowing up a plush casino was arrested when he arrived to pickup the payoff under a big rock east of here, police reported Monday.

The suspect was identified as Atone Souza, 50, Halfway, Ore.

Chief security officer at the casino, Chuck Kruse, followed telephone directions on delivering the money. He left a bag under the rock as demanded.

The alleged extortionist, however, got two surprises. Not only was he arrested after he removed the bag, but inside was only a grilled cheese sandwich and three candy bars.

Police said a man had earlier telephoned Harrah's Club Sunday and warned that a bomb had been planted and would be set off by remote control unless the ransom was paid.

Congress Planning Check Of Tire Claims

By ROBERT P. HEY
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

WASHINGTON — Are your car tires growing bald?

If so, you're probably scanning tire ads that promise:

"Exact mileage."

"Unexcelled traction."

"Double the mileage of most regular tires."

"Improved high-speed performance and extended tire mileage."

Are claims like these on the level? Or are they — like what's in a tire — plain old hot air? That's what Americans probably wonder as they sift through the welter of claim after unsupported claim.

The U.S. government wonders, too. That's why it is asking 18 makers and distributors of auto tires to provide it with documentation to support the advertising claims of 75 brands of car tires. It has given the firms 60 days to produce. There are so many contradictory claims on the market that many here suspect that, although the government scrupulously has avoided saying so, some of the claims — like the tire — are inflated indeed.

But no one's sure that the government, and the public, will know much more after the tiremakers have provided their information than they know now. The reason is that this advertising documentation program of the government's has been a big disappointment.

Even the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), which runs the program, says some 60 per cent of the information manufacturers thus far have provided has been so technical, vague, or irrelevant that it wasn't any good to anybody.

The commission began the program late last summer and to date has asked for documentation of specific ads for half a dozen kinds of products. When the commission made available to the public the responses it had received from makers of airconditioners, commission staff members in charge of going over it admitted privately that most of the material was so technical they couldn't understand it.

The commission says the aim of the program is educational — to make this documentation available to the public. Then the public theoretically, is able to determine whether or not the advertising claims are supported by fact.

The commission does not analyze or interpret the information it receives. It says it hasn't the money or the staff to do that, and adds that it hope consumer groups or newspapers will do it instead.

Consumer groups say disgustedly that's buck-passing. The material undigested is useless, they charge. They think the FTC should ask Congress for money to do the job right. Neither consumer groups nor newspapers have anywhere near the necessary money, staff, or time, they point out. Besides, consumer advocates charge, the FTC shouldn't half-do a job — it should carry it all the way.

Two moves are afoot to change the program, although neither will come soon enough to help consumers.

The first — and the spur that causes the second — is the likelihood of congressional action next year. Already this year the Senate consumer subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, has held several hearings on the issue. It was at one hearing the FTC admitted 60 per cent of the documentation manufacturers send isn't useful.

But the commission then turned around and asked Moss for more time — some nine months — to study the program further. He agreed. All he was trying to do this year anyway was raise the issue, and build a record that showed the inadequacy of the present program — a necessary foundation for the congressional action he will seek next year.

Actually Moss might be able to ram through the Senate this year his "truth-in-lending" bill, designed to improve the situation. But there would be no time for House action, and the Senate is too busy now to waste time on bills with no chance of becoming law. Thus Senator Moss has granted the FTC nine months to reconsider its program.

His truth-in-lending bill would require that manufacturers supply to anyone, on request, specific and relevant information about the advertising claims made for their products — in language readily understandable. This is the direction in which the Congress will move next year.

Meanwhile the commission, under this congressional prod, says it is considering ways to change its present program. It says no specific changes have yet been decided. And they won't say what ones are under consideration.

While the FTC reassesses, the program — whatever its value — goes on. Previously a few of the manufacturers have made an effort to provide documentation that was pertinent and understandable. The commission, not to mention consumers, hopes others will take the hint. If manufacturers have the facts to back up their claims, consumer groups think, that should even be good business.

Anyway, Congress, the FTC, and auto owners will be interested in the kinds of documentation the tiremakers roll in, 60 days hence.

ZONE

Werner von Gundell has maintained the lowest possible density is the most compatible since it discourages urban growth which could spell doom for Marin's agricultural operations, which are mostly dairying and livestock grazing.

Rezoning of lands around Bolinas came near the end of an 11-hour session and found only four of the seven commissioners still remaining. Commissioners George P. Leonard, Rebecca Watkin and Kenneth G. Stevens had departed earlier.

The 4-0 vote rezoning the Bolinas-Olema Valley area was endorsed by a contingent of about 25 Bolinas residents and was in marked contrast with rezoning of the Muir Beach area.

While the Muir Beach area was disposed of in several minutes, the Bolinas-Olema Valley area required several hours as residents unsuccessfully urged the preserve boundaries be expanded to include more of their tiny community.

While most in the audience supported the rezoning, some major property owners —like ones at earlier hearings — voiced opposition claiming the rezoning was a confiscation of their land for open space.

Among those opposing the rezoning was Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles, who owns 1,400 acres in the Olema Valley. Sieroty, who spent most of the day waiting to speak, told the commission his land ought to be acquired for open space.

However, he continued, if the land isn't acquired it ought to be zoned for five-acre minimum lots which would provide a return on his investment.

Sieroty also suggested that smaller holdings near Point Reyes National Seashore remain unchanged since he is negotiating their sale with the federal government. Rezoning to A-60 could adversely affect the sale price, he said.

The assemblyman's land, however, like others recommended for A-60 designation, was rezoned at the urging of commissioners Margaret B. Azevedo and Jack G. Nixon.

Only one major holding recommended for rezoning was excluded. Nixon, supported by Mrs. Azevedo, said he couldn't accept the A-60 zoning for the Anton Holter property, adjacent to the Bolinas Mesa.

Since the Mesa is subdivided into small, 7,500-square-foot lots, Nixon said, it would be unfair to rezone the Holter property to minimum lots of 60 acres.

At his urging, the land was left in two-acre minimum lots and will be studied along with other areas in Bolinas for more appropriate zoning.

The commission's refusal to act on the Holter property brought groans from the audience which expressed fear that 45 homes would be built on a 90-acre section in the interim.

"Another Martinelli Farms," commented attorney Paul D. Kayfetz, who organized community support, including a petition signed by more than 200 residents, for low density zoning.

(Martinelli Farms was a 51unit subdivision proposed for the Elmer Martinelli ranch at Point Reyes Station but rejected by supervisors last week after threatened by suit from conservationists.)

Discussion of expanding the agricultural preserve to include much of Bolinas brought assurances from some residents that the tiny seaside community could become the vegetable garden of Marin.

Forces in support of rezoning said lands around the community are ideal for organic gardening —a point disputed by several Bolinas old-timers.

Highlight of the discussion was a statement by Wrightson Switz of Bolinas, youthful heir to the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. fortune, that he was prepared to finance organic farming near Bolinas on a large scale. "I'm prepared to make the investment. . .because I'm sure it will turn a profit," he told the commission.

He later was reported dickering over land prices with Sieroty.

In related action, the commission rejected requests that three large parcels near Olema be excluded from the agricultural rezoning.

The parcels —the Kelham and Rogers properties north of Olema and the Nicasio Land Co. property south of the village — were intentionally omitted from rezoning in April for further study.

Von Gundell told the commission yesterday the lands should remain in the preserve and be rezoned to A-60 as a holding action pending submittal of development plans.

On a motion by commissioner William B. Lynch, the panel voted 5-2 to rezone the bulk of the properties to A-60. Stevens and Leonard opposed the action.

Also the commission approved the removal of a long list of properties from the preserve including several parcels owned by Leonard, who abstained from voting.

His land, located east of Highway 1 at Stinson Beach, was excluded to allow for the future expansion of that community.

OBITUARIES

Frank Short, Retired Accountant, Succumbs

Frank G. Short, retired certified public accountant, died unexpectedly yesterday at his Inverness home. He was 77.

Born in Bowmanville, Ontario, Canada, Short came to this country in 1925. He lived in New York and San Francisco before moving to Marin County in 1954.

For many years he had his own public accounting office in San Francisco.

He was a past president and life member of the California State Society of Certified Public Accountants and was a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

He is survived by his wife, Louise B. Short of the family home; a son, Frank E. Short of Kentfield, and two granddaughters.

Private funeral will be tomorrow in San Rafael.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society or St. Columba's Episocpal Church in Inverness.

VOTING

ered jet for two brief appearances in New Mexico— the only presidential candidate to personally campaign there— and flew on to Houston to meet with Democratic governors assembled there.

McGovern said it appeared that a "stop McGovern" movement at the meeting, initiated by Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter, "has fizzled" but added he was making the journey to talk to the governors, of North and South.

In sharp contrast, Humphrey campaigned up and down the California coast, still full of enthusiasm and hoping that lightning would strike despite polls which showed him trailing McGovern by 20 percentage points.

But McGovern, with a smooth organization which included 50,000 volunteers ringing doorbells and seemingly no end of money, was a solid favorite. He outspent Humphrey by a better than two-to-one margin, including almost his full quota of $463,000 for broadcast time.

Short of money and organization, Humphrey, in the last 10 days, launched an all-out attack on McGovern's proposals for cuts in the military budget, welfare and taxes. He also charged that McGovern's record on civil rights and aid to Israel was blemished.

Initially reluctant to attack McGovern because of fears it would help the Republicans in the fall, Humphrey made the decision because it was, admittedly, his only chance to keep McGovern from winning.

Humphrey challenged McGovern to a series of television "debates" and they held three. Humphrey asked McGovern for a fourth face-to-face confrontation on election eve but McGovern flew to New Mexico and Texas instead, saying the voters "have had enough of these debates."

Although Humphrey had called California the key primary, he insisted that if he lost he would not abandon his fight for the nomination, banking on winning the support of uncommitted delegates.

RUTH TADDEUCCI

Private funeral for Ruth E. Taddeucci, who died Saturday at the Tamalpais Retirement Center, was Sunday at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial was yesterday at Cypress Lawn Memorial Park, Colma.

Mrs. Taddeucci, 77, had lived in Marin County for eight years, the last two at the Tamalpais Retirement Center in Greenbrae. She was a native of San Francisco.

A widow, Mrs. Taddeucci is survived by her son, Richard T. Lamberton of San Rafael; a brother, Herbert Talbott of San Francisco; a granddaughter and a great-grandson.

Memorial contributions to the Heart Fund are preferred by the family.

FRANCES BURK

Private family funeral for Frances Edna Burk, a longtime resident of San Anselmo, will be held tomorrow.

Mrs. Burk, widow of Ernest Burk, died Saturday at a local hospital after a long illness. She was a native of Santa Rosa and had lived in San Anselmo about 35 years. She lived at 57 Ross Avenue.

Surviving is a sister, Hazel A. Sage of San Anselmo.

Burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

R. A. POWELL

Private funeral for Russell A. Powell, former San Francisco printer and father of Wade Powell of San Rafael, has been held in Santa Rosa.

Powell, who had lived in Santa Rosa for the past three years, died at his home Sunday. He was 69.

During the many years he lived in San Francisco, Powell was a member and at one time president of the Central Council of Civic Clubs, the Golden Gate Council of the United Commercial Travelers and the Parkside District Improvement Club. He served on the San Francisco Library Commission in 1949 and 1950.

He was a member of the San Francisco Typographical Union 21 for many years.

In addition to his son Wade, he is survived by his wife, Mabel; two other sons, Wayne of Santa Rosa and Dalton of San Francisco; a brother, Milton of San Francisco; two sisters, Claire Wyman of Campbell and Audrey Plate of Santa Rosa, and nine grandchildren.

The family prefers memorial contributions to United Commercial Travelers Cancer Foundation, 86 Sunview Drive, San Francisco.

CLARENCE ROSA

Clarence L. Rosa, 70, a native of Sausalito, died yesterday in a San Francisco hospital. Services will be held today at Keaton's Chapel, followed by rosary services at 8 p.m.

A Mass of Resurrection will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at the Star of the Sea Church, Sausalito, followed by burial at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Rosa, who lived at 325 Franklin Street, San Francisco, was a member of the Sea Point Parlor NSGW of Sausalito and IDESST of Sausalito.

He is survived by his wife, Alma, and three sisters, Carrie Turrentine of Sausalito, Dolores Rosa of Belmont and Marie R. Souza of Sausalito.

LOUIS J. TOMASELLO

Requiem High Mass for Louis J. Tomasello of San Jose, brother of Frances Piazza and M. Jennie Abott of Novato, will be tomorrow at Holy Cross Church, San Jose, at 10:30 a.m. Rosary will be recited tonight at 8 o'clock at Randacore and Alameda's Mission Chapel, San Jose.

Tomasello, 61, died yesterday in a San Jose hospital. A native of San Francisco, he was a member of the Italian Catholic Federation Branch No. 4, Holy Cross Church, and the Trabia Club of San Jose.

He is survived by five other sisters, Virginia Rubino and Dorothy Mesi, both of San Jose; Mary Sunseri and Florence Archini, both of San Francisco, Rose Phillips of Fremont, and by a brother, John Tomasello of Gilroy.

'Busing' Holds Up Code Word Book

By RODERICK NORDELL
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

The election year headlines on "busing" have forced the nation's senior specialist on "code words," Dr. Wayne Cipher, to hold up publication of his latest book, "Code Words of the Future."

"All of us in the code word game had written off 'busing' years ago," he explains to an interviewer in the Code Collector's Newsletter. "We'd heard that a few small-fry local politicans had cashed in on it as a code word to signal voters as to where they stood on desegregation and the courts. But we never thought 'busing' had the charisma to be named as a code word on the national level."

What has changed your mind, Dr. Cipher?"

"Things like the Boston Globe editorial on the President's big anti-busing message, for pity's sake: '"Busing" has become a code word, and the President surely had to know this and take advantage of it.'"

"Do you agree?"

"As a code-word specialist, I don't know the facts. But if 'busing' is getting this kind of editorial attention, must we also face a return of 'law and order,' 'crime in the streets,' and other expressions alleged to have been code words? It could undermine my book's extrapolations toward a new generation of possible code words for the future."

"Any examples?"

"Yes, well, I think we're going to see 'recycling' become a good, strong code word in the next couple of years. As the resistance to court-ordered conservation grows, a politician can make hay with a line like, 'No recycling for recycling's sake.'"

"Incredible."

"Another code word to watch for is 'day care center.' By attacking forced day care centers — even if no one has suggested forced day care centers — a candidate identifies himself to anyone worried about keeping women's lib in its place."

"Fantastic."

"And then there's 'oil depletion allowance.' You won't need to be a demagogue to get some code word mileage out of that one with the make-the-rich-pay-their-share crowd."

"So 'liberals' can use code words, too?"

"Anybody can. Have you been reading 'Quotations from Chairman Mao Tse-tung' lately?"

"Not since I saw 'The Red Detachment of Women' on NBC."

"I'm serious. Read where Mao says, 'We are advocates of the abolition of war, we do not want war; but war can only be abolished through war . . . ' Obviously 'peace' is going to be used by somebody as a code word to appeal to the pro-war vote."

"Suppose all your code word predictions come to pass. How do you explain the public's willingness to accept them?"

"It's conditioning from infancy. Every family has its code words for topics that are unmentionable or used to be unmentionable. And certain wives know that when certain husbands say, 'May I help with the dishes?' it is code for 'Is it OK if I finish the paper in peace?'"

"And this has spread from the home to the hustings?"

"Yes. To use a code word correctly is to identify oneself as a member of the 'family,' whether domestic or segregationist, integrationist, feminist, male chauvinist, or whatever. Thus a candidate may try to speak the code of voters he hopes will ally themselves with him."

"Too bad all this information had to be withdrawn from publication, Dr. Cipher. Have you actually been court-ordered not to print your book?"

"No, but a code word to the wise is sufficient."

Indictment On Murder Charges

The Marin County Grand Jury last night indicted Edward Davies Pardington in connection with the murder of a Bolinas bartender-painter last month.

The 36-year-old drifter is to appear in Marin Superior Court Monday on the murder indictment.

He was arrested in Berkeley May 15, two days after Joseph Anthony Costello, 33, was found on a Bolinas beach with his throat slashed.

Sheriff's deputies said the two men had been quarreling because Costello gave Pardington, formerly of North Carolina, a place to stay, but then evicted him.

Price Of Gold In England At $60

LONDON (UPI)—The price of gold hit a new peak and edged closer to $60 an ounce on the free market today.

When the five firms which operate the market met to set the price guideline for the morning session they fixed the price at $59.75 an ounce, a record for an official fixing and 20 cents an ounce above the closing price Monday.

Dealers said the higher price mirrored opinions about a higher price for the metal rather than reflecting the actual volume of business. The market stayed very quiet, they said. Sellers were still declining to part with the metal and this kept prices at record levels.

Innocent Plea To Fund Scheme

Albert Vierra Alves, 44, of Novato has pleaded innocent to a deposit and withdrawal scheme he allegedly used to get money from a Novato bank in 1970.

A preliminary hearing on felony counts of having a fraudulent check and grand theft has been set for next Tuesday.

According to the information filed against Alves, he deposited a check for $8,545 then withdrew $4,000 in cashier's and travellers checks and $300 cash on the fraudulent deposit in May 1970. He was arrested last month on a warrant.

$8,000 Worth Of Clothes Taken

Approximately $8,000 worth of women's clothing, including dresses, slacks, jackets and blouses, was stolen Sunday from Chelsea Gear, 595 Bridgeway in Sausalito, police said today.

Officers said the burglary was discovered about 4 a.m. yesterday by an officer on foot patrol in the downtown. Entrance had been gained by prying locks on the firm's front door, police reported.

Pleads Guilty To Joyriding

An 18-year-old Forest Knolls resident, who had been charged with felony car theft, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a reduced charge of joyriding and was sentenced to five days already served while the case was pending.

Judge David R. Baty imposed the sentence on Shannon Rory Doyle, who was arrested May 22 riding a motorcycle on Montezuma Avenue. The vehicle was stolen from a military policeman at the Presidio of San Francisco, according to sheriff's deputies.

468 Trapped By Mine Explosion

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI) —An underground explosion at the Wankie coal mine near Victoria Falls trapped 468 miners today and the death toll was feared to be high.

Hospital sources reported that some of the miners had managed to escape from one of the several entrances to the No. 2 colliery where the blast occurred at 10 a.m. (4 a.m. EDT).

A spokesman for the mine owners, Anglo-American Corp., said that there was "no further news" on the fate of the miners —435 black Africans and 33 whites—working a full shift in the mine when the blast occurred.

Opera Singer Stokes Is Dead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Melvin Stokes, onetime opera singer and Broadway musical comedy star, died Monday after a brief illness. He was 85.

Stokes, a native of Tacoma, Wash., was a tenor with the original San Francisco Opera Company and later starred on Broadway in the light opera "Matime."

He sang in more than 100 other shows and was a friend of Enrico Caruso, Ezzio Pinza and other famous singers.

Labor Walkout Over Tea Table

LIVERPOOL, England (UPI) —Twenty men came off the production line for their tea break and found the table they normally use missing. Managers said they had no idea where it had gone. The men walked out.

The Vauxhall car factory laid off 2,500 production workers Monday over the tea-table walkout. About 120 cars were lost in the afternoon stoppage, the men lost a half-day's pay and the company said it lost about $261,000.

The table was found in another part of the factory during the afternoon. It was put back in its usual place. Production resumed today.

$433,035 From KQED Auction

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Educational television station KQED said today it realized $433,035 from its annual televised auction during the past 10 days.

The annual affair, the station's major fund-raising activity, featured a high bid of $11,000 for the first 100 shares of stock traded on the New York Exchange last Friday.

Other high bids included $3,800 for a complete set of Fillmore dance pavilion posters and $4,300 for one of the many art works donated to the auction.

Wig Denied For Young Guardsman

BOSTON (UPI)—A federal judge, citing a U.S. Supreme Court ruling that the army is a specialized community "governed by a separate discipline," has rejected a Harvard Law School student's petition to wear a shorthaired wig over his long hair at National Guard drills.

Bruce Friedman, a second year law student who conceded the army had a right to regulate appearances, said he felt the wig would meet the army's neatness regulations. Army officials said it permitted shorthaired wigs only to cover baldness or physical disfiguration.

Meadowsweet Zone Request Is Rejected

By DICK SMULLEN

Before a packed house, the Corte Madera Town Council last night rejected a planning commission request to rezone nearly 24 acres on Meadowsweet Drive to less dense development.

Instead, it voted 4-1, over councilman Robert J. Flahive, to give the owner of the ground, American Savings and Loan Association, a 30-day extension to draw plans and have them reviewed by the town staff.

The owner will pay the town for examination of the plans by Sedway-Cooke, a San Francisco planning consultant, for conformance with the Corte Madera General Plan. (The large quarry property is zoned R-4 in the general plan.)

The plans will then be reviewed by the town planning commission July 6 and forwarded to the town council for its July 17 meeting.

Flahive objected to the council not rezoning the ground last night, asking, "Who's going to rezone the land, the council or the developer? We're doing it backwards."

The town planning commission voted March 13 to rezone the 23.69 acres in the 700 xlock of Meadowsweet Drive from R-4, the most dense development allowed in the town, to R-1 or single-family residential.

Last night C. William Thomas, planning commission chairman, said the commission, realizing R-1 zoning would freeze development on the site, did so because Corte Madera lacks a study zone, which would have delayed development pending development of a general plan.

San Anselmo attorney Julius H. Selinger represented American Savings, and argued that an extension would give time to make a definite proposal and have it examined.

Town Atty. Albert Bianchi said a public hearing would be required if the council were going to zone the property anything but R-1 or leave it R-4.

A "movie" handbill circulated the town drew about 100 residents to hear the question, but the crowd learned the plot was misrepresented.

Based on the premise that the council was going to rezone the quarry from R-1 to R-4, the handbill invited residents to "hear the plans to zone the quarry to high density."

Policy On New Firemen Cleared Up

The Corte Madera Town Council last night temporarily shunted aside the proposal that it hire local volunteers in preference to any out-of-town residents for its six new full-time firemen.

The council unanimously voted to hire the six best qualified of 10 applicants, regardless of their home towns, and establish a policy on favoritism for local volunteers later.

The Corte Madera Volunteer Fire Department wrote to the council, saying its members were worried that "most of the new firemen" would not be hired from the 14-man volunteer company.

Last March the council voted to hire six new full-time firemen, in addition to the five already employed. The action ended a fire protection controversy that had begun in September when two houses were destroyed and a third damaged in an East Corte Madera blaze.

Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels said last night the applicants all took written, oral and agility tests, and that it seemed "grossly unfair" to change the selection rules in the middle of the process.

Councilmen Edward W. Colthurst and Robert J. Flahive favored giving extra weight to Corte Madera residents. Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff, a former volunteer town fireman, urged maintaining present standards, to get the best possible men.

Mayor Holmes S. Norville also favored upholding the rules, but suggested Bartels and the volunteers meet and decide how the part-time firemen could better meet standards.

He Hasn't Missed A Vote In 21 Years

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Charles E. Bennett, D-Fla., claims the record for serving the longest period in Congress without missing a roll call vote.

Bennett completed his 21st year without missing a vote Monday. He said he had participated in 3,428 consecutive roll call votes. Bennett has served in Congress since 1948. The last time he missed a vote was in 1951 when he went to Michigan to make a speech.

Leney Sworn In; New Appointments Are Made

Recount victor Herber C. Leney was sworn in and seated on the Corte Madera Town Council last night, ending a three-month battle for the position.

Marin County Superior Court Judge Warren E. McGuire declared Leney the winner May 30 over Robert P. Simmons. Leney lost in the original count, 829-822 but won after two recounts, 839 to 836. Several previously rejected ballots were validated during the final recount.

Appointments were announced to fill Simmons's former committee seats. Leney will sit on the finance committee, Edward W. Colthurst on the public works committee and Robert J. Flahive on the Marin County Economics Opportunities Council.

Simmons was first appointed to the council in January 1968, and elected to the council three months later. He served as chairman of the Marin County Council of Mayors and Councilmen in 1970, and was a member of the Christmas Tree Hill Dwellers' Association and chairman of the Marin County Economic Opportunities Council.

Leney, an attorney, has served as chairman of the Corte Madera Sanitary Commission and vice chairman of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission. Last year he was named Corte Madera Citizen of the Year.

Leney retired from the Corte Madera Sanitary Commission last night.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

SIGNS — Introduced an ordinance eliminating any exceptions on sign sizes in C-3 commercial zones.

TRIOSKS — Continued until June 19 an appeal on a planning commission decision to deny 14 freestanding signs in the Corte Madera Center.

MONEY — Referred to budget hearings a request from the Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce for a $2,000 donation for next year.

HIGHWAYS — Voted to reserve $4,888 in federal and state highway funds for a large project.

PARKS — Funded a four-week summer recreation program with Larkspur for $7,000.

TUNNEL — Heard from Town Engineer Arthur N. Morrison that the Corte Madera-Mill Valley railroad tunnel, while in no danger of collapse, is not safe for bicycle or hiking use. It is now blocked off.

REPAIR — Approved a small appliance repair business in the home of Phil Sidari at 320 Willow Avenue.

TREE — Voted 4-1, over Mayor Holmes S. Norville, to replace sidewalks broken by trees at 41 Ash Avenue. Norville said the action was contrary to council policy, which would have required removing the trees.

BARTELS — Named Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels employee officer for negotiations with employees (although none are now in progress).

PLEDGE — Voted to include the pledge to the flag in future town council meetings.

PARKING — Referred to staff for recommendation for the parking problems caused on Tamal Vista Boulevard by the Cinema Theater.

DONATION — Received a donation of $41.19 from Flahive (excess campaign funds) to be spent for a picnic table in the town park.

FLOOD — Referred to Colthurst a proposed ordinance to change building requirements in areas of possible flooding. Colthurst will report back June 19.

POSITION — Endorsed 4-1, Flahive objecting, a position taken by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, opposing actionu by special districts that infringe on the planning process. Flahive contended the position paper infringed on the freedom of action of special districts.

REFUND — Acting as Sanitary District No. 2 board, refunded $43,340 in connection fees to Johnny Ribeiro, builder for the now-abandoned Casa Madera project on Tamal Vista Boulevard.

MEADOWSWEET — Filed a series of communications objecting to the controversial Meadowsweet Station project grading permit, among them an accusation by Flahive that former councilman Simmons was in conflict of interest in the matter, denied by Town Atty. Albert Bianchi, and another conflict of interest charge by J. D. Bell that Bianchi himself was in conflict because he had once represented the developers, also denied by Bianchi.

Make That Martini With Two Vitamins

CHICAGO (UPI) — Cocktail customers may now take Vitamin E capsules at the end of a toothpick, like an olive, or floating like a cherry or lemon peel in their drinks at Sage's East restaurant.

The restaurant said it would make the vitamins available in drinks starting tonight.

Canyon Float Trip Scheduled

A float trip through the Grand Canyon will be offered Aug. 15-27 by the geology department at California State College, Sonoma.

The class will travel by raft on the Colorado River from Lee's Ferry, Ariz. through the canyon for 315 miles to Pierce's Ferry. Cost for the two-week trip totals $337 including food, round trip bus transportation from Rohnert Park, equipment and tuition. The class offers three units of credit.

The expedition will be led by Dr. G.D. Woodard, who has conducted tours there since 1967. Brochures on the trip are available at the office of instructional services and continuing education at the college.

Public Meeting Set On Solid Wastes

As part of their current study of the solid waste problem in the county, the League of Women Voters of Central Marin are sponsoring a public meeting Thursday in the planning commission chambers at the Civic Center from 10 a.m. to noon.

The speaker will be Leonard Stefanelli, president of Sunset Scavangers, San Francisco and public information officer of the Northern California Refuse Removal Council.

Wildlife Protection Clause To Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—By a 310 to 5 vote, the House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill giving the interior secretary power to enforce laws prohibiting the shooting from aircraft of eagles, wolves and other forms of wildlife.

The measure amends a 1971 law that did not designate an enforcement agency. This automatically put enforcement in the hands of the FBI. The amendment would allow the interior secretary to make any regulations necessary to enforce the law, which prohibits the killing or capture of any bird, fish or animal from a plane.

Houseboats Are Hearing Topic

An amendment to Sausalito's zoning ordinance which would make houseboats and ferry terminals conditionally permitted uses in the city's waterfront zone will be the subject of a public hearing before the Sausalito City council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

According to City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr, neither houseboats nor terminals are currently permitted in the zone under existing regulations.

Consequently, he said, the city's many houseboats are currently "illegal and outside the zoning ordinance."

The new rules would mean existing houseboats within the city limits would have to obtain conditional use permits from the city, he said.

In other business, the council will consider a ferryboat policy for Sausalito and a zoning ordinance amendment which would make all restaurants serving alcoholic beverages conditional, rather than normally permitted uses in Sausalito.

Sinaloa Junior High Will Give 345 Diplomas

Sinaloa Junior High School in Novato will graduate 345 students in ceremonies at 8 p.m. June 14 at the San Marin High School gymnasium.

Ronald D. Schenck, president of the Novato Unified School District board, will present diplomas; Dist. Supt. James G. Bunker will present scholarship awards, and principal W. L. Metteer will present departmental honors.

Mark Kassenbrock, student body president, will give the "farewell" talk and Henry Moroski, principal of San Marin High School will speak briefly.

The Sinaloa Junior High School Band will perform.

Students Give Nixon Slight Victory Edge

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) --A poll of California high school students shows that 30 per cent of those questioned would like to see President Nixon re-elected while 22 per cent favor Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern.

However, David M. Cole, 18, Richmond, of the California Junior Statesmen of America, said 23 per cent said they were undecided about a presidential candidate.

Cole said the survey was conducted among 13,000 students in 45 selected high schools.

In announcing the poll results Monday, Cole said 41 per cent of the students favored legalization of marijuana and 66 per cent said they would like to see the drinking age lowered to 18.

The California Junior Statesmen of America is a state-wide organization of 2,000 high school students.

Burglar To County Jail For Year

A 20-year-old Forest Knolls man was given a suspended state prison sentence and ordered to serve a year in county jail yesterday for burglary despite a plea bargain calling for a lesser sentence.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court imposed the sentence after learning that Michael Earl Frank had two juvenile arrests for burglary and a previous adult conviction.

He then followed the recommendation of the district attorney and rejected the bargained sentence of nine months in jail.

Frank, who could have withdrawn his guilty plea, nevertheless agreed to the harsher sentence.

He was arrested March 9 by sheriff's deputies who said he found him inside San Geronimo Valley National Golf Club. More than $250 had been taken from vending machines and was found in Frank's pockets, according to deputies.

Frank, who said he was drunk at the time, was armed with a kitchen knife and cleaver when arrested, deputies said.

Burglars Hit 2 Novato Schools

Two Novato schools were burglarized in the past two days and small amounts of cash taken, Novato police reported.

Rancho School was entered at 11:26 p.m. Sunday amd $1.60 taken from a soft drink machine, officers said. Three youths were in the area and a 14-year-old boy was apprehended and cited for burglary.

Offices in the administration building at San Jose Junior High School were ransacked between noon Sunday and 6:25 a.m. yesterday and $2.50 in cash taken, police said.

Two Girls Are Asphyxiated

COLFAX (UPI) —Two girls died of asphyxiation when returning from a weekend camping trip in the Lake Tahoe area apparently because exhaust fumes from the family pickup leaked into the camper compartment.

When Daniel J. Gonsalves of Sacramento checked on Ellen Marie, 9, and Stephanie Ann, 11, he found them unconscious Sunday in the rear camper and called for help. His daughters were pronounced dead on arrival at a nearby Colfax hospital.

Gonsalves, his wife and two other children were riding in the front seat of the pickup at the time while returning to their home via Interstate 80.

Boat Motor Stolen

A 90-horsepower engine valued at $650 was stolen from a boat owned by Theater Candy Distributing Co. between noon Friday and 8 a.m. Monday, San Rafael police reported today. The craft was drydocked at Seaway Marine Inc., 145 Third Street, San Rafael.

Larkspur Park Budget Cuts Urged

Although no action was taken, Larkspur residents suggested three ways of cutting the proposed parks budget during a public hearing last night.

City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst said about 15 persons attended the two-hour preliminary budget session in the city hall.

The park and recreation commission has asked an increase in the town's parks budget from $26,079 to $123,3 2 and in recreation asked a cut, from $19,900 to $13,500.

Largest item in the parks budget is a $99,650 capital outlay program for buying a footbridge anchorage on South Eliseo Drive ($45,000), tennis courts for Piper Park ($27,500), the Mary Fraser redwood grove ($15,000) and improvements at Dolliver Park ($7,500).

Residents last night suggested delaying on the footbridge program, postponing work on the tennis courts and cutting the amount of money to be spent on Dolliver Park improvements, according to Dr. Arnold M. Mayer of the park and recreation commission.

No cut was suggested in either the proposed recreation budget or the library budget (up from $49,486 last year to $55,614).

The next budget hearing will be June 12 when the fire department budget is reviewed, following a joint council meeting with the town's planning commission.

Hughes Can Stay In Canada For Year

OTTAWA (XUPI) — Howard Hughes has permission to stay in Canada for at least another year.

Ray Perrault, parliamentary secretary to Immigration Minister Bryce Mackasey, Monday confirmed in the House of Commons a Vancouver report that Hughes had been given a one-year extension of the visitor's permit granted him three months ago. The customary personal appearance was waived because of "indisposition," Perrault said.

Reputed Crime Kingpin Indicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Meyer Lansky, reputedly one of America's most powerful organized crime leaders, was indicted by a federal grand jury in Miami Tuesday on charges of conspiring to evade federal income taxes on money received from gamblers on junkets to a London gambling club.

Lansky and Dino Cellini, a long-time associate and a stockholder and employe of George Raft's Colony Sporting Club in London, also were charged with conspiring to obstruct the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) in assessing their income taxes. And Cellini was charged with filing two false income tax returns.

The indictments were announced in Washington by Acting Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst.

Lansky, 69, has been living in Israel since the summer of 1970. He is fighting an Israeli government attempt to deport him. Lansky has been indicted twice in the United States on gambling charges.

Cellini, 57, a native of Steubenville, Ohio, was employed by the Raft club, which operated in London from Feb. 1, 1966, to Jan. 31, 1969. The British government refused to let Cellini back in to England in 1967.

After the exclusion, the grand jury said Cellini established Travel and Resort Enterprises Inc. (T&R) in Miami to organize and operate gambling junkets to the London club and other foreign casinos.

The indictment said the casino extended credit to various gambling junketeers.

If a gambler did not pay his debt before leaving the foreign casino, his gambling IOSs were turned over to unindicted co-conspirators for collection in the United States, it was alleged.

Instead of paying the money to the London club, the grand jury said, the co-conspirators — all New England organized crime figures —delivered it to Lansky and Cellini in cash.

According to the indictment, Lansky and Cellini received about $198,000 from the coconspirators from November 1967 through mid-May 1968.

Nixon Cuts Short Florida Vacation

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon cut short a Florida vacation because of bad weather Monday night and flew back to Washington.

Nixon went to Florida Friday, hoping to spend five or six days at his island Key Biscayne home resting up from his 16,600-mile trip to the Moscow summit. Aides said three days of steady rain caused him to cut short the vacation.

Signatures Ready For Initiative

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —More than 1 million signatures for placing an initiative to restore the death penalty in California on the November ballot will be filed with county clerks Thursday, the coordinator of the drive said today.

Ken Brown of the California Correctional Officers Association said the petition effort has surpassed its goal of collecting 800,000 signatures. Only 520,806 valid voter signatures were needed to qualify the measure, but the 800,000 goal was set to allow for invalid signatures.

Brown said the number of signatures collected during the period time the death penalty initiative campaign has been in progress "has never been equaled in California history."

"This record-breaking, volunteer effort, which has been conducted by thousands of concerned Californians, is a remarkable and undisputed indication of the position held by Californians with regard to the Supreme Court's Feb. 18 ruling which struck down capital punishment," he said.

The state court ruled that the death penalty violated the state constitution. The association has spearheaded the drive to place the initiative on the ballot.

Pacific Sun Seeking Quick Interview Rule

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Marin County Pacific Sun and a reporter are asking California's Supreme Court to speed up a trial in order to prevent a proposed interview from becoming history rather than news.

The action, filed Monday, concerns Mrs. Alice Yarish's suit in the District Court of Appeal in which she asks that the warden of San Quentin Prison be ordered to let her interview a convict charged with murder.

She is seeking an interview with Ruchell Magee who is charged with murder, kidnaping and conspiracy in the 1970 Marin County Courthouse shootings and with murder in an escape attempt that killed six persons last year at San Quentin.

She contends Warden Louis G. Nelson violated press freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution's First Amendment by making "arbitrary rule changes" that prevented her interview.

Eight Burned As Meeting Bombed

ROME (UPI)—Eight persons suffered burns Monday night when unidentified assailants fire- bombed a meeting of neoFascists.

Police said two men were seriously injured.

The attack came at the headquarters of the "New Europe" youth movement, part of the neo-Fascist Italian social movement.

Acquittal Of Angela Proves System Works

The acquittal of Angela Davis on charges of murder-conspiracy proves again that the jury system functions much better than its detractors pretend.

Despite the months of clamor over Miss Davis's "political imprisonment," despite all the charges that a black Communist cannot receive a fair trial in the United States, the jury in San Jose considered the case on the evidence. It reached a decision that there was not proof beyond reasonable doubt that Miss Davis helped plan the Marin County Hall of Justice kidnap attempt in which Judge Harold J. Haley was slain.

THE CASE AGAINST Miss Davis was a circumstantial one. As always in such cases, the jurors were left with the problem of deciding whether the evidence pointed the way the prosecution claimed it did or whether it could be explained in more innocent terms. They chose to believe defense witnesses who contended Miss Davis was not at the places the prosecution witnesses placed her, and that the guns used in the Hall of Justice shoot-out were "borrowed" from a closet outside Miss Davis's apartment rather than delivered by her to Jonathan Jackson.

Why did she have the guns? This was easily explained: there had been threats on her life as result of her Communist teaching at University of California at Los Angeles. (Not explained was how an arsenal in a hall closet would protect her against an attempt on her life.)

THE APPARATUS that set up the cry about Miss Davis's "persecution" had everything going for it to create a martyr: the "system" against the "revolution," the white race against the black race — and even an all-white jury.

The all-white jury's verdict of innocence should prove beyond doubt the falsity of all this propaganda. The case presented by the state was certainly a strong enough one to be taken to court. The jury decided it was not strong enough to convict: it was not proved beyond all reasonable doubt.

That is what the jury system is all about. And that is what free democratic government provides. It is far different from the trial processes in the Communist countries, where imprisonment and even death for political beliefs are commonplace and the trial often is behind closed doors.

THE APPARATUS that failed to get its martyr through Miss Davis's conviction will not be stilled, however. Its revised line was voiced by Fania Jordan, Miss Davis's sister, within hours of the acquittal:

"Angela's acquittal was at the same time a conviction of the State of California on our charges of conspiracy. . .There can be no discussion of whether or not a fair trial took place. No trial should have taken place, instead of this outrageous frameup which has consumed two years in the life of Angela Davis."

Mrs. Jordan conveniently overlooked, for the purpose of propaganda, the fact that Miss Davis would have gone to trial some 18 months sooner were it not for delays engineered by the defense.

The San Jose jury proved our system works. But those who sought to make political capital of the trial will not admit that.

Bridge Directors' Little Trip Will Cost You 3,300 Tolls

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Take note, Mr. Average Commuter, the next 3,300 tolls you pay on the Golden Gate Bridge will reimburse the bridge district for revenues it burned up last month in three private Sacramento dinners with state legislators.

The tab would have been higher if district directors on the junkets also claimed their regular $50 per diem, but they graciously declined their usual fee in lieu of some $1,650 shelled out for the affairs at Sacramento's more elegant watering holes.

As for the wives who went along for the junkets, you will be happy to know the husbands will reimbutse the district for their dinners. It's public money, after all.

All this largesse, of course, is on top of the $20,000 a year the district showers on its Sacramento lobbyist. Just what he is being paid for is unclear, since no legislation involving the district was introduced this year. Guess that's politics.

And if you are uneasy about what "our" bridge district officials discussed with "our" legislators, take comfort in the explanation from one that the private sessions "facilitated a far freer exchange of views than would have been possible in public."

Why is it that politicians prefer to discuss public business in private?

BUS BENCHES would have been one fit subject for these leaders to have discussed. How ridiculous it is for waiting bus riders to have to sprawl in the dirt or sit on the curb for lack of any proper seating accommodations —then to board a $50,000 air-conditioned luxury coach!

Benches would be especially appropriate at the main San Rafael stop under the freeway, where riders often have uncomfortably long waits for buses. The benches would have to be virtually indestructible to survive, but this is no excuse for ignoring basic comforts for users of the otherwise excellent system.

DESPITE SPECULATION by another columnist in this newspaper, Anne L. Ellinwood was missing from today's ballot in the Third Supervisorial District. According to the speculation, she was supposed to mount a last-minute write-in campaign to challenge incumbent Michael Wornum.

"Not that I wouldn't like to," she told us recently, "but it's too late." She had announced earlier her candidacy for the seat, then withdrew to run unsuccessfully for re-election to the Tiburon city council. Terming herself the "recumbent" councilman, she said "there are no 'if's' in history."

IT TOOK a 76-page document to detail plans to clean up air pollution in American Samoa, and that has got to be the most depressing item of the week. Is no place safe from air pollution?

By contrast, it took several thousand pages to blueprint California's plan to clean up the air. With this many bureaucrats at work on the problem, is there hope?

'Ms' Declared Part Of 'Living Language'

Re: To "Ms or not to "Ms": You can't be serious about not using "Ms" to denote a female, circa 1972, because you can't find it in Webster's Third International Dictionary!

The fact that you are using Webster's Third should give you some clue about the changing nature of living languages.

You have a right to establish whatever editorial policy you choose with regard to the use or non-use of "Ms". But these things often boil down to a matter of the editor's personal taste and judgment. Why don't you simply say you don't happen to like the term "Ms" instead of hiding behind Webster?

Superintendent Explains Reasons For Quitting

I would like to take this opportunity to express in my own words my feelings and reasons for my resignation as superintendent-principal of the Bolinas-Stinson Union School District. The recent article in the Independent-Journal did not reflect my attitudes and feelings regarding this decision.

I have enjoyed what I consider two successful years in the district. The support of the school board and community has been gratifying, and we have made progress in bringing some stability and calm to the district. At this point, the potential for developing creative programs reflecting the philosophies of the Bolinas-Stinson Beach communities is receiving impetus from active community interest and involvement. In my opinion, it is time for leadership that is more compatible with this development. I do not necessarily identify with the emerging life-style of the community and the direction it envisions for the school. My action is intended to provide the board with the option of selecting this more compatible leadership.

The expressions of the board, staff, and others in support of my continuing are greatly appreciated. I know that I could provide continued stable leadership for the district, but I feel that this changing community needs the opportunity for choice in its school leadership. It is my hope that the total community will make its desires known and help the board in making wise decisions for the future.

(This is not the expression of an "obstructionist.")

Transit Line Employees Honest And Helpful

Here is an incident that occurred last Friday afternoon that restores one's faith in humanity.

When I arrived home from San Francisco on the Golden Gate Transit bus, my wallet was missing. This could have been a major disaster for me but we phoned the transit company in hopes I may have dropped it on the bus. The girl who answered was very concerned and helpful. She advised that if found, the driver would turn the wallet in after his last run. She would then phone me the good news.

The driver did later turn in the wallet and everything intact and that's the story.

Unfortunately I didn't get either of their names but the girl answered as Operator 11. The bus driver's badge number was 137. Neither would accept a reward.

These two employees are honest and helpful. Hope they get a raise or a promotion soon.

Make Property Tax Credit On Income Tax

There has been considerable talk lately about how much the federal and state governments would like to help the poor proerty taxpayer, especially to help him pay for the public schools.

There is a very simple, efficient, economical way to do this. Let each property taxpayer take the amount he pays each year in property taxes as a credit against his federal and state income taxes.

At present we take property taxes as a deduction against income taxes. As a concrete example. this system saved me about $430 in federal and $80 in state income taxes in 1971. If I could have taken a tax credit instead, I would have saved $1,335 in federal and $260 in state income taxes.

This tax credit procedure is much more efficient than the unprincipled, inefficient and uneconomical proposals for federal revenue sharing to help local taxpayers. If the federal government has revenue to share (it has had only deficits for years), it would be quicker and simpler, would save the high cost of bureaucratic handling, if the taxpayer could just retain the money instead of sending it to Washington to have part of it, after handling expense, returned.

U.S.-Russian Pact On Missiles Reveals Its Own Great Urgency

MOSCOW — Out of the astonishing Moscow trip have come two solid benefits unlikely to be diminished regardless of how well or how badly the series of agreements signed with such pomp and splendor work out. One is a quite incidental increment that should be an eye-opener.

The nuclear arms limitation agreement is in itself a step forward with a potential for the future good of mankind that is inestimable. But apart from the agreement itself is the revelation of how deeply involved the two superpowers are in amassing the instruments of annihilation. The cards are on the table and anyone can now see how far down the slippery slope we have come in assembling the stuff of doomsday.

The compromise necessary to achieve this first small step gives a dramatic picture of the competition in the whole range of nuclear weapons on land, sea and air. Stopping construction of new missile-armored submarines —the Russians had a program of building eight or nine a year — is a big advance. Yet, under the complex formula contained in the treaty, old G-class subs can be replaced with modern types at the sacrifice of a certain ratio of land-based missiles.

THE URGENT NEED in the next state-of-arms negoation is to put a brake on the development of ever newer and more destructive weapons. The framework of the SALT talks has worked well and the intention is to move as rapidly as possible to supersede the interim agreement on offensive missiles with a permanent arrangement providing a limit like that now put on defensive missiles.

Headed by Gerard C. Smith, the American delegation has been a first-rate team and the hope is that it can be kept intact. The back-stop in the White House has been Henry Kissinger, working in close collaboration with the Soviet ambassador in Washington, Anatoly Dobrynin. And at critical moments when a deadlock developed, President Nixon in a frank exchange with Leonid Brezhnev pointed a way out of the stalemate.

The second important gain was the proof that the Russians really wanted these agreements and a knitting together of major elements in the future of the two great nations. Given the rigidities of the bureaucratic structure, they handled the invasion of several hundred American and foreign newspaper men and women with ease and efficiency. The White House staff performed with first-rate skill at every juncture. The conflicts that certainly occurred, even as the climax of the talks neared with the deadline at hand, were resolved without public brouhaha.

In his masterful briefing on the night the arms limitation was signed, Kissinger, with a pride of authorship, called it a landmark decision. The familiar cliches —epoch-making, history-making —fall short of characterizing this moment of pause in our time of troubles.

THE HAZARDS AHEAD are plain enough in the forces that would frustrate what has been done here. Those at home harboring all the suspicions and hatreds out of the cold war will not suspend their judgment to credit a Republican president with his Moscow achievement. But this is minor in the spectrum of public opinion.

Critics of the Nixon mission to Peking were a scattered few. Most of them clinging to the shopworn illusion of a China that never was. Because great substance has come out of this meeting and because repressions inherent in the Soviet system stir passionate feeling, the protest this time will be louder.

Nevertheless, it is minor set alongside the tangle of animosities pitting China against the Soviet Union, with Indochina a tragic victim trapped in the big power vise. While Nixon and Brezhnev were sitting around the conference table, the bombs were dropping with renewed violence on vital installations in Hanoi and the shelling of the cities in the south went on.

Peking and Hanoi were denouncing the meeting here, with North Vietnam excoriating the Nixon duplicity, stopping short of Peking's vilification of Moscow. China's quarrel with the Russians is accentuated by the problem of deliveries of war materiel through Chinese ports to be transshipped by rail to North Vietnam.

In Peking's vernacular, the running dogs of imperialism met in the capital of communism that has betrayed Marx and Lenin to carve up the world. This last is a suspicion that is undoubtedly shared by nations outside the Communist orbit. The answer willcome in how wisely and justly the two giants administer their bilateral agreements.

Federal Agents' Impersonation Of Newsmen Perils Freedom

There are many conflicts of rights these days, in a free society.

One of the most apparent, and still unsettled, is the oight of the public to be informed by a free press, and the right of the government to withhold certain information. When the Supreme Court heard the Pentagon papers case last year, it settled nothing that had not been previously considered settled: the strong presumption against the constitutionality of prior restrains on the press.

Beyond that point, the matter is still awaiting judicial determination. Perhaps the news media can be punished afterward for what they have printed. It is up to the courts to say. If civil disobedience has been committed, there might well be a penalty to pay.

THERE ARE ALSO conflicts over the ill-defined right of privacy, both of an individual and of the government business at certain stages, at least. There is the conflict between informing the public about a crime and the right of a person to a fair trial in court.

And there is the desire of news people to protect and preserve their sources of information. More reporters have been under subpoena before grand juries in recent years than ever before, with the government seeking to trace suspected criminals through the news source. Eighteen states have passed shield laws, protecting news sources, and a federal statute is pending.

But in all this welter of conflicting rights, one phenomenon has come to light which has been little noticed: the apparently increasing practice of government agents to impersonate legitimate news personnel.

A TWENTIETH CENTURY Fund task force report on "Press Freedoms Under Pressure" documents many of these impersonations. In January, 1970, four agents of the U.S. government pretended to be members of the press corps, with authentic press passes, in an effort to find out where news people were getting information to which the military objected.

After the masquerade was exposed, the Army apologized. But there were many other cases.

The Army security agency invented an entirely fictitious news agency at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1968. Later, a former military intelligence agent testified before the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee that this phony agency obtained the only television interview with Abbie Hoffman, the Yippie leader. Two agents who did so well at Chicago went around the country, impersonating press personnel wherever it suited their purposes.

Here and there all over the country, news people have been detecting phonies in their midst, and exposing them. Credentials seem to be issued quite readily by police or other officials to known impersonators. The Army sometimes used legitimate newspapers, without their knowledge or consent, as cover for agents. An Army agent was issued bogus press credentials in the name of Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch — which knew nothing about it —so he could attend a press conference of the Southern Leadership Conference.

The Defense Department does not deny such practices in the past, but wrote in 1970 that instructions had been issued to Army agents prohibiting the use of press credentials or otherwise representing themselves as newsmen.

NATURALLY ENOUGH, the militant left suspects the press, and sometimes attacks news people physically, because they are believed to be stool pigeons. Thus the press is unable to perform its task of informing the public, and a right not of the press but of the people suffers.

The integrity of news personnel will be gravely damaged if these practices continue. There is no evidence that law enforcement will suffer if they end. Infiltration of suspected organizations, long a police practice, can continue without impersonations of the press.

Sonoma State Students Hope Carpools Will Protect Coeds

Lack of transportation and dangers of hitchiking are major problems at Sonoma State College, but a computerized system for carpools may go into effect next fall.

Students this year became alarmed at the number of coeds who were raped either by persons who had offered them rides or while walking to and from the campus. While only a few incidents were reported to the police and very few arrests made, campus rumors have it that rapes have become commonplace, with as many as two or three occurring in one week.

Although the campus isn't prone to paranoia, a group of students believed something should be done to cut down on hitchiking. With no local transportation available, students without cars thought a carpool system might work.

THE CARPOOL Coordination Switchboard opened late in the semester and never really got off the ground as much as its leaders would have liked. They hope to be better organized next year so volunteer drivers will be available when a student calls for help.

Students also hope the new campus computer can be used to set up a more reliable system of matching students for carpools. When students register in the fall, the computer will analyze class schedules and addresses of students to determine which ones might be logical to form a carpool.

Students, especially women, who are stranded on campus without transportation will still have an emergency number to call in September where other students will see they get a ride.

POSTERS AROUND campus seeking information about the murder of Kim Wendy Allen are constant reminders of the dangers of hitchiking. A new batch of posters seek Jeannette Kamahele of Cotati, who's been missing since April.

The campus seems resigned to its new name of California State College at Sonoma. Although the change from Sonoma State College wasn't that great, students and faculty seemed to react against the idea of uniformity in college names.

At Sonoma State the tradition is to have no tradition and individuality is very important. Another part of the problem was caused when no one on campus was informed or consulted about the name change. The college is known for its wide participation in decision-making and everyone hates to be left out even on minor changes.

SALT Agreement Great Boost For Military-Industrial Complex

WASHINGTON — The day after President Nixon gave his report to Congress on his trip to the Soviet Union, I went over to see my friend Hannibal Stone, president of the Association for a Permanent Military-Industrial Complex.

Because the President had announced agreement on the freeze of nuclear weapons with the Russians, I expected Hannibal to be depressed. Instead, I found him euphoric.

"HANNIBAL," I SAID, "how can you be smiling when President Nixon and the Russians are talking about disarmament? Surely this is a blow to the Military-Industrial Complex and all it stands for."

"Wrong," Hannibal said, handing me a cigar. "This is the best thing that could happen to us."

"I don't understand," I said, as he lit my cigar with a Minuteman missile cigarette lighter.

"Russia and the United States have agreed to limit anti-ballistic missiles. They have also agreed to freeze land-based and submarine-based intercontinental missiles at the level now in operation. If it works, they may come to new agreements to limit arms production on other weapons now being made. This means we will have to work twice as hard to develop new weapons that aren't covered by the arms agreements."

"YOU MEAN we're not going to save any money by the signing of the arms treaty?"

"Au contraire," Hannibal said. "We will have to spend more money now for defense than ever before."

"Dammit, Hannibal," I said. "I was hoping for a peace dividend."

"Forget the peace dividend," Hannibal said. "In order for the Joint Chiefs of Staff to assure us that we have adequate protection in spite of the arms accord, we're going to have to spend at least another $20 billion on new weaponry — stuff that hasn't even been dreamed of yet."

"I KNEW the President's speech was too good to be true."

"You must remember," Hannibal said, "the Military-Industrial Complex makes very little money once it is in full production on a weapon. By then everyone knows exactly what the weapon is going to cost, and we can't monkey around with the figures.

"But when we're asked to develop a new weapon, no one can put a price tag on it, and the longer it doesn't work the more money we can ask for to develop it.

"Give me a contract for a weapon no one understands, and I'll give you twice the profits that I would on a weapon that has proved itself in the field."

"GOSH DARN, HANNIBAL," I said. "I thought one of the reasons the President went to Moscow was to cut down on the spiraling inflation and wasteful money both countries were spending on weapons."

"Maybe he did," Hannibal said. "But the fact is that at this very moment members of the Soviet military-industrial complex are at their drafting boards working on new weapons which are not part of the accords. We can't let the Russians get ahead of us on these weapons or we will lose the military edge to the other superpower."

"But you don't even know what those weapons are,"I protested.

"All the more reason to spend money developing our weapons. I would say that the President's nuclear arms accord is actually a breakthrough for us.

"Now we can come up with any wild idea and Congress will have to buy it. We can say that if we don't have this weapon, the Russians may have one that is much more devastating. The Soviet military-industrial complex is probably going to use the same ploy with their people."

I SAID, "President Eisenhower warned me about people like you."

Hannibal chuckled and slapped me on the shoulder. "Don't let it get you down. It's only money. Here, take the Minuteman missile cigarette lighter with you. Consider it a peace dividend from me."

High Court Is Petitioned For Appeal Hearing

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — Attorneys for Novato resident Karen Duncan have petitioned the U.S. Supreme Court to hear her appeal of a contempt citation for refusing to testify in a grand jury probe of Weatherman revolutionary activities.

In the meantime, Miss Duncan is free on a stay granted earlier by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Karen Koonan, a research assistant in Miss Dunchan's case, said that her lawyers do not know whether the high court will rule on the request for a hearing before it adjourns in the next two or three weeks or wait until it reconvenes in October.

Miss Duncan was ordered held in contempt by a federal court in Tucson, Ariz., in October 1970. She already has spent some time in jail for her refusal to testify.

SUMMER SESSIONS 1972

SONOMA STATE COLLEGE

GENERAL INFORMATION:

The Sonoma State College Summer Sessions are operated through the Office of Instructional Services and Continuing Education to serve the expanding educational needs of the college's six-county service area. Students may enroll without the filing of official transcripts and other records providing they meet the prerequisites for the course.

WHO: The courses are open to all adults and high school graduates.

WHAT: More than 80 courses (listed in this advertisement) are offered in a variety of subject areas during the six-week Summer Session, June 19 - July 28. Additional courses (not listed in this advertisement) are available in the Intersession (June 12-16), Post Session (July 31-August 18) and Special Sessions.

WHERE: All classes will be held on the Sonoma State College campus unless otherwise specified.

WHEN: Most classes in the six-week Summer Session will meet on a daily basis, Monday through Friday.

COST: The registration fees for the 1972 Summer Sessions courses is $24 per semester unit. In addition, a $4 student body fee is required for persons enrolled in the six-week Summer Session.

REGISTRATION: To register for any class, submit an INTENT TO REGISTER FORM to the Office of Instructional Services and Continuing Education, Room 1108, Stevenson Hall, Sonoma State College, 1801 E. Cotati Ave., Rohnert Park, Calif. 94928. The Intent to Register Forms will also establish a reservation list for classes with limited enrollment. Students who do not submit the form may also register the first day of class, if space is available. Actual registration and payment of fees will be conducted at the first class meeting.

Proposed Tennis Club Gets Help

The San Rafael City Council last night prezoned at 2.5-acre parcel at 2436 Fifth Avenue, opening the door for the establishment of a tennis club development. (Another San Rafael City Council story, page 6)

The prezoning was conditioned on annexation to the city.

The action came on a 4-1 vote over the opposition of 35 neighbors who had petitioned the council citing increased traffic, parking problems and noise. Mayor C. Paul Bettini opposed the prezoning.

"If we permit an inroad for this club, we change the nature of that area," the mayor argued. "It's a first class residential area," he said.

Plans for the club, which received a favorable nod from the planning commission, call for tennis courts, swimming and wading pool facilities and five dwelling units. The proposed club is located on the north side of Fifth Avenue near Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

The club would provide 40 on-site parking spaces for a maximum 200-family membership, according to Grace Wagner, a spokesman for owner Caesar B. Cardani. An annexation action has not yet been filed, she said.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

DESIGN REVIEW — Adopted an environmental and design review zoning ordinance amendment that calls for a "proper balance between man-made features and the natural environment" and design review for all new buildings except single-family dwellings and duplexes sited on individual lots with frontage on a public street.

CAR LOT — Denied 3-2 Harold Holzinger's appeal of a planning commission denial for a use permit for a used car lot at 525 Second Street.

BUMP — Authorized the placement of an asphalt bump on Antonette Avenue as a traffic control device.

OPEN SPACE — Instructed staff to study the possibility of increasing city tax by 10 cents to fund open space land acquisition and to look into the possibility of raising funds through a bond issue. Bettini suggested that the city might join Marinwood and Terra Linda in a joint open space effort.

SAN QUENTIN — Supported State Sen. Peter H. Behr's, R-San Rafael, SB 229, which urges a study of possible public uses of state lands at San Quentin.

INSPECTOR — Approved the employment of Robert K. Young as a temporary construction inspector in the public works department.

WASTES — Adopted an industrial waste ordinance which establishes source control over toxic components of industrial and commercial wastes.

PIPE — Approved an agreement between the city and the Marin Municipal Water District to enlarge 820 feet of pipe along Mira Flores Avenue northerly to Miramar Avenue. The $16,420 project cost will be shared.

CLAIMS — Denied claims against the city by Casa Marin Furniture 1654 Second Street, and Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to special budget meetings next week, the dates of which have not been set.

Old HAFB Building Held Totally Unsafe

T-93, the Hamilton Air Force Base building being demolished despite Marin County Aviation Commission's vain efforts to obtain a cease and desist order, was totally unsafe according to Air Force personnel who worked there.

It had been proposed the building might serve the county as a civilian terminal.

Colonel Joseph A. Gagliano, who was acting group executive officer of the 904th Tactical Airlift Group housed in T-93, said today: "We were very happy to move out of the building. It was totally unsafe, and I doubt if anybody could hope to work effectively there."

Gagliano said one section of the roof sagged so much it had to be shored up eight inches last summer. Roof leaks this winter flooded the building so badly that records were lost and equipment damaged and personnel had to be moved out.

"The overhead plumbing was continually breaking — we were always patching and repairing — and many of the fixtures were already cracked."

But the biggest hazard in T-93, said Gagliano, was fire risk from the ancient wiring system.

"At least twice a month the condition of the wiring caused enough fira and smoke to call the fire department," he said. "The base fire inspection team was continually checking it."

And it is in fire that T-93 will meet its end. This week, military personnel will join with several Marin fire departments in a joint fire search and rescue exercise in the wrecked structure.

They will put in smoke pots, work with dummy bodies, and set fire to selected sections in part of a continuing series of joint training exercises in fire-fighting.

Current plans call for T-93 to be totally cleared away and the immense concrete slab of its base to be used as a foundation for new buildings.

Train To Travel In BART Tunnel

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— For the first time, a train will travel through the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's tunnel under San Francisco Bay on Saturday, but not under its own power.

The line has not been electrified and the train will be pushed by a propane-burning truck to the new San Francisco station at Powell and Market streets.

The new $28.7 million station and the train will be opened for inspection that day from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Picturephone Used In Chicago

CHICAGO (UPI) — Edward Heveran and Charles L. Brown were 20 miles apart Monday, but as they chatted on the telephone they could see each other via 5-by-5 1-2 inch screens.

Heveran, president of the Oak Brook Bank, and Brown president of Illinois Bell Teelphone Co., made what Bell officials said was the nation's first subscriber intercity picturephone call.

Illinois Bell said picturephone service also is available in Bell booths in New York, Pittsburgh, Washington and Chicago, but Oak Brook and Chicago are the only two cities where private picturephone subscribers may call each other.

San Anselmo Girl Is 'Miss Cable Car'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Francesca Cresci, a model from San Anselmo, is the new "Miss Cable Car 1972."

Miss Cresci was crowned Monday at Fisherman's Wharf and will reign at the annual bell-ringing contest for gripmen and conductors in Union Square on Thursday.

STRIKE UP THE BAND

THE BOOM of the kettle drum attracts the attention of two children sitting on the bandstand as members of the Marin Youth Orchestra demonstrate their instruments individually, in groups and then in unison. Members of the orchestra, who dress in subdued black and white outfits for the other concerts in the children's series, were outfitted in jeans and other casual attire for the outdoor concert Saturday.

SIX GROUPS of from 20 to 30 children sit in with the orchestra as members demonstrate their instruments and play for half an hour. Following this the children filed into another area of the Art and Garden Center Saturday where other members of the orchestra told them more about the instruments. Ray Poteet showed (from left) Rebecca and Stephanie Prugh and an unidentified child how to play the viola. Each child had an opportunity to see, touch and play each of the instruments and talk to the orchestra members — all junior high and high school students.

Face Up To It, Your Sister Must Someday Pay The Piper

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

My sister got married about two years ago. They got in debt over their heads. Her husband talked her into robbing the place where she worked of about $5,000. Naturally, she got caught.

Mom got the charges drooped as long as the money was repaid. We borrowed and paid it back. Then my sister's husband asked for a divorce, the grounds being he didn't want to be married to a thief.

Well, they got back together again before he left for the army, and she ended up pregnant. Meanwhile, Mom and Dad were divorced, so my sister ended up living with me and our mother. We paid for the baby, and still take care of her.

Now this guy is back again, and is living off my sister's income, but she doesn't make much, so she's been writing bad checks. Mom took care of them for a while, but she doesn't have the money, and the checks are still bouncing all over the place. Mom is a great person and she and I love my sister, as much as she loves us, but we know there's something wrong with her.

We can't let her go to jail and we can't afford to bail her out. What can we do? — DESPERATE THREE IN THE SAME BOAT

DEAR DES:

Bailing out a defective boat only postpones the inevitable, and breaks the bailer's back (or bank account).

Your mother must tell her daughter she's on her own — and if this means the Women's Detention Home, well, perhaps she'll get the therapy she needs while serving her time. — HELEN

DEAR DES:

. . . And don't let your mother weaken, or she'll be a patsy all her life. There's a time in our lives when we have to stop depending on our parents — and that time is long past for your sister! Love? Uh-uh!! This is all taking — and being took. — SUE

DEAR SUE:

This guy and I really love each other and wish we could get married, but I'm 17 and he's going in the service —and I'm afraid to tell my Dad because I know he doesn't like him.

We met last weekend and we've known each other five days and four hours, plus a few minutes, but we know it's really true love 'coz even when we almost break up (three times so far) we talk it over and know we couldn't.

Should we "just date," as my Dad wants, or be together all the time until he leaves? I mean insist on getting married. — LORI AND GLENN

DEAR L AND G:

You met last weekend and you know each other well enough to get married? Come on now — you're too much "in love" to even see each other clearly.

Think of yourselves as you do about something expensive at a store. If you're smart you don't buy it on the spur of the moment. You wait, keep your cool, find out the details, determine whether you can afford it right now, and if it will "hold up" under everyday pressures.

So date for a while. Study each other's faults as well as your good points, compare your goals. Can you work well together? (With three bust-ups in five days, I wouldn't bet a bundle on it.) Be truthful and be careful!

You may very well be in love (it happens that way sometimes), but infatuation also hits you like a brick — and bounces off just as fast.

Remember, love is something that starts small and grows forever, if it grows at all. — SUE

DEAR HELEN:

There's Women's Lib for freedom from men. Why not a Girl's Lib for freedom from parents? Please tell our folks that overprotection is worse than no protection at all. We can't even talk to boys and we're 14! — CALLED TRAMPS

DEAR C.T.:

I'll tell your parents they're overprotective if you'll assure me you only want to talk to boys, not go out on heavy dates. — HELEN

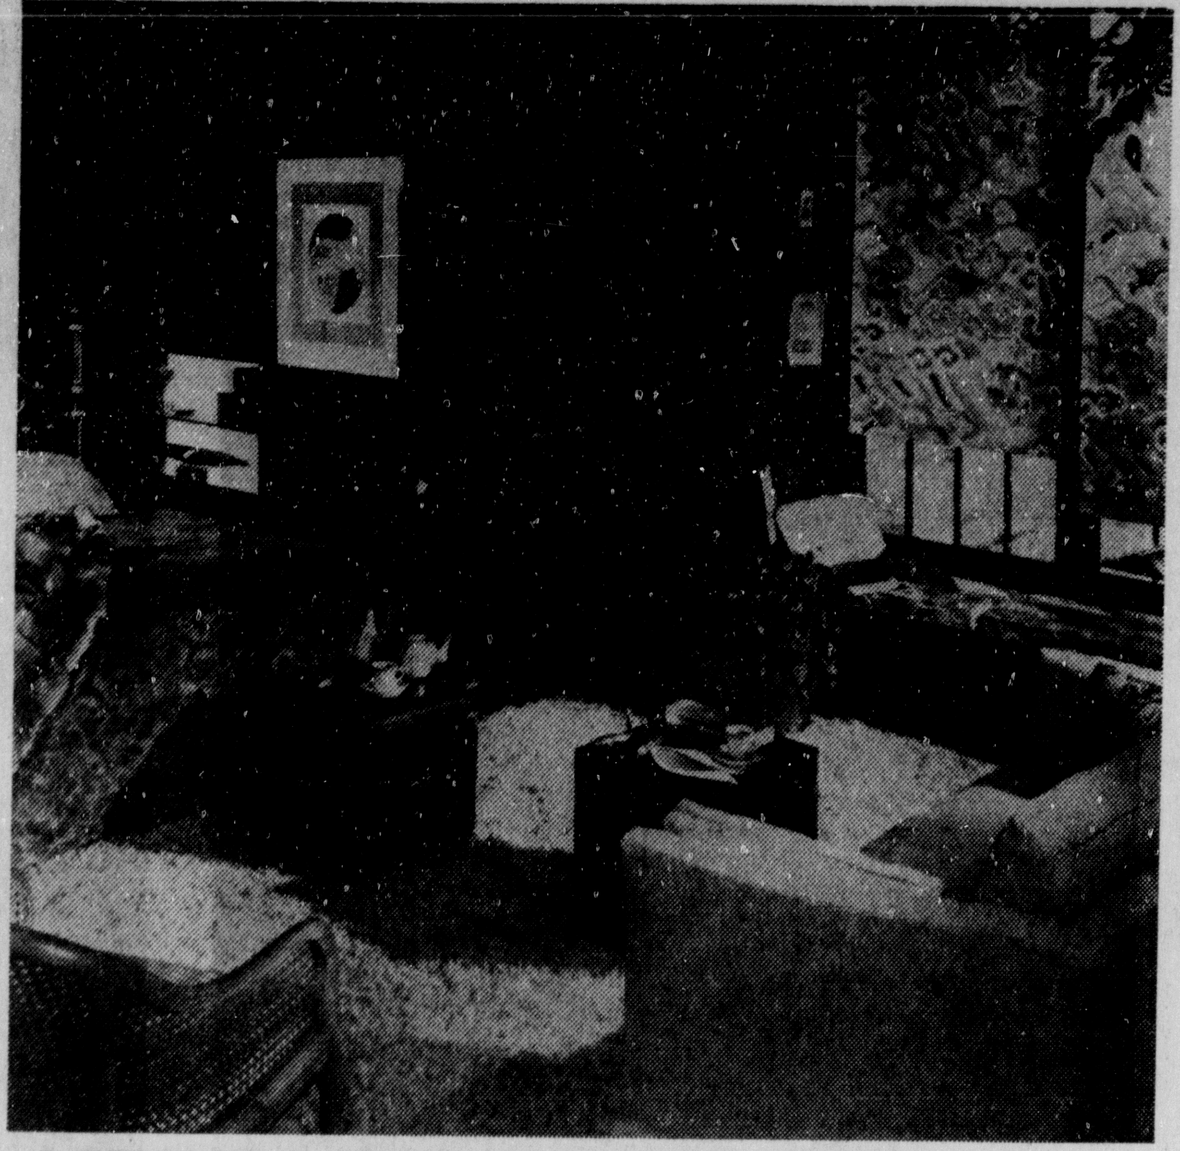
Suits Look Like Dresses

What look like dresses are being called suits by fashion designer Ossie Clark, who will show his fall collection this month in London.

The designer told Women's Wear Daily he likes either long dresses or separates and has done "a lot more evening things which are low-cut and are either very fitted or full."

He likes trousers again and is experimenting with different lengths and widths and very short jackets, he said.



A BEDROOM may be the only place you can really escape to reality. Plan for serenity, but remember that quiet hours can also mean having necessities at your fingertip. This one, designed by Emily Malino for U.S. Plywood, used a Shenandoah paneling in rich chocolate brown finish.

INSIDE YOUR HOME

Hunting Solitude? Turn The Bedroom Into A Sitting Room

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
General Features Corp.

Do you ever feel that the only place you can escape is the master bedroom? Or your very own bedroom? It may be the last sanctum left in the contemporary home.

Solitude or the desire for it can be misunderstood by members of the family. The crying need to quietly settle down with a book or the newspaper or typewriter isn't too well received by active youngsters or a temporarily bored mate.

While that bedroom door provides some protection, all too often the bedroom itself hasn't really been planned for these private pursuits. The token easy chair may be there, but what about a good reading lamp and a place to put your feet?

WANT TO read my list of necessities for a good bedroom? First, every bedroom should have a small sink, a counter and electrical outlets near the counter. These goodies are for early morning refreshments, such as coffee and juice — or for late-night refreshments such as hot tea, a hot toddy or you name it.

Appended to this first item, I'd add a small refrigerator. You know, that appliance that provides ice cubes, cold milk and the ingredients for a mid-evening snack.

Next necessity is a small settee or a chaise lounge. As a substitute I'd settle for a pair of supercomfortable armchairs and a great big ottoman — big enough for two pairs of feet — a stack of magazines, eyeglasses, books, needlework.

Bedside bookcases come next. Down with the typical bedside tables! Up with taller storage units that also have shelf space for such things as radio, clock, water carafe, eyeglasses, books, tissues, pills, tea or coffee cup, pencils and paper. Quite a list, eh? But haven't all of us wanted just such things only to have to get up out of bed to reach them?

BED LIGHT is a final need. No hotel room I have ever used has had adequate lighting, but at least it provides something. Few houses have adequate lighting in bedrooms and what lighting is provided usually is too weak to sustain any lengthy period of reading or writing.

Ears need to be pampered, too. And the acoustical value of wall paneling, such as U.S. Plywood's "Shenandoah," is best noticed in the bedroom.

U.S. Population Growth Reported Slackening Some

The country is growing sideways, according to a recent report on population growth and life expectancy made by a major insurance company.

The population growth was down for 1971 and life expectancy was up in the United States. The population rise last year was 0.99 per cent, slightly below the 1.10 for 1970 and 1.05 for 1969. The slackened growth resulted mainly from the decrease in births after the first quarter of last year.

Babies born had a better chance of survival — infant mortality dropped to an all-time low in the U.S. of 19.1 per 1,000 live births.

Also, the report showed that death rates were down slightly.

From The 40s

Shoes back for summer of 1972 are reminiscent of the '40s with their wedgie and platform soles, strap sandals and even the old classic spectator pump with perforations. Out of the same era comes the suede sling pump on a patent platform and a toe opening.

Mrs. O'Leal Selected As Group's President

Mrs. Antonio O'Leal has been installed president of the Marin County Reserve Officers Ladies Association.

Winnie O'Leal has also served the association as first vice president and historian.

She and her husband, Colonel O'Leal (USAF-ret), live in Marinwood, where the couple moved 13 years ago after his retirement from Hamilton Air Force Base and duty in Turkey.

They are parents of five children, Leland O'Leal and Mrs. Joanne Lucky of Fairfax, Linda O'Leal, who is traveling in Europe; and Mark, 17 and Gail 13, who live at the family home.

Mrs. O'Leal is also active in the Sunny Hills guild and teaches nursery school at the Creative Nursery School in Terra Linda. She also enjoys flower arranging, sewing and baking.

The reserve officers ladies association supports the Reseve Officers Association activities and last year the group sent clothes to disaster areas in the U.S. and overseas, sent soap and supplies to hospitals in Vietnam and gave money to Operation Sleigh Bell.

Other new officers are Mmes. Walter Van Emmon, first vice president; Carl Webber, second vice president; Robert Paine, treasurer; Robert Carter, secretary; William Damerow, parliamentarian, and Andrew Bahr, historian.

ASYLUM TO HIJACKER, FRIEND

Algeria, traditional haven for political dissenters, has granted asylum to William Holder, 22, (left) a Black Panther hijacker, and Katherine Mary Kerbow, 21. The San Diego couple skyjacked a Western Airlines plane to Algeria over the weekend. The $500,000 ransom, which they obtained while on the ground at San Francisco, will be returned, Algerian officials said yesterday. (UPI Telephotos)

Appeals Court Overturns Richmond School Order

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)—The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals today overturned a sweeping district court order that would have merged Richmond's predominantly black schools with those of two suburban counties with mostly white school populations.

The 4th circuit, in reversing a controversial decision by U. S. District Judge Robert R. Merhige Jr., said it believed the last vestiges of state-imposed segregation had been wiped out in the public schools of the city of Richmond and the counties of Henrico and Chesterfield and unitary schools systems achieved.

"Because it is not established that the racial composition of the schools in the city of Richmond and the counties is the result of invidious state action, we conclude there is no constitutional violation and that, therefore, the district judge exceeded his power of intervention," the court said.

Merhige had directed the three school systems Jan. 10 to set up a metropolitan school district which would have 104,000 students. About 78,000 students would have been bused under the plan, about 10,000 more than the three localities now transport.

His decision touched off a storm of disapproval among the white suburban county residents, resulting in angry rallies and a massive motorcade to Washington to protest busing.

The 4th circuit later granted a stay in Merhige's order until it could rule on an appeal by the counties and the state.

Merhige's order had been significant in that it was the first in the country to direct that political boundaries be ignored for desegregation purposes.

The merger had been sought by a group of Richmond blacks and the Richmond school board, burdened with trying to meet federal court requirements in an increasingly black school system.

Merhige had ruled that polilical subdivision lines were a creation of the state and that school district lines "are matters of political convenience."

He said the claim that the defendant counties "have a right to keep their separate systems to be utilized solely by residents of the respective counties has little merit in the face of past discriminatory practices on the part of all of the defendants.

The 4th circuit, in a 5-1 ruling, disagreed with that contention.

"May a United States district judge comply one of the states of the union to restructure its internal government for the purpose of the public racial balance in the assignment of pupils to the public schools?" The majority opinion written by Judge J. Braxton Craven opened.

"We think not, absent invidious discrimination in the establishment or maintenance of local governmental units, and accordingly reverse," the opinion said.

The 4th circuit, said in devising remedies in school cases, it is difficult to "know how far a court can go, but it must be recognized that there are limits."

It noted that, in a New Jersey case, black plaintiffs sought to compel the state of New Jersey for the purpose of achieving racial balance and preventing defacto segregation to join separate school districts.

"The three-judge court held de facto segregation, defined as racial imbalance that exists through no discriminatory action of state authorities to be beyond the ambition of the 14th Amendment," the court said.

Denial To Any Extortion Plans

A 21-year-old Tiburon man has denied in Marin Municipal Court that he tried to capitalize on a missing daughter to extort $1,000 from a Corte Madera man.

A preliminary hearing on the charge was set for June 15 for Charles Michael Dodson.

Corte Madera police arrested him May 29 after he told Jack W. Forster, partner in a landscape maintenance firm, that he would tell Forster where to find his missing daughter for $1,000.

The daughter subsequently returned home and said she had never heard of Dodson, according to Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas.

Dodson is already awaiting sentencing on two counts of obtaining money under false pretences. In those cases, he allegedly bilked two families out of cash by posing as a representative of the Marin County Housing Authority.

Hearing Set In Drug Case

A preliminary hearing for Steven Pope Coleman, 19, of Mill Valley on felony charges of possessing marijuana and dangerous drugs, has been set for next Tuesday in Marin Municipal Court.

Coleman who has pleaded innocent to the charges was arrested May 28 with two other persons at Alder and Evergreen roads after a caller told sheriff's deputies she had seen a suspicious person with a pile of clothing in a field near their vehicles.

Deputies said they found a stolen credit card and suspected drugs in a pair of pants in one of the vehicles.

Asst Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas said no charge will be filed against either of the other two arrested because of insufficient evidence. They are James William Ferguson, 27, and Rhonda Renee Staggs, 18.

Lab Supplies Taken

The Las Gallinas Sanitary District sewage sanitation plant at 300 Smith Ranch Road, San Rafael, was burglarized of $160 in laboratory supplies sometime between 4:30 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Saturday, police reported today.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidant, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, clean air.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other Areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, significant air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches, and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Hearing Set In Theft Case

A preliminary hearing for James Mike Booth, 29, of Woodacre, charged with burglarizing Forest Knolls home, has been set for June 20 in Marin Municipal Court.

Booth was arrested by sheriff's deputies May 24 after William F. Wright of Linares Road in Forest Knolls reported he had seen a rug stolen from his home in the rear of a pickup truck and followed the vehicle to Booth's residence.

Booth has pleaded innocent.

Petaluma Backs A North Alliance

The Petaluma City Council reaffirmed its stand last night that Sonoma County should belong to a new alliance of North Coast counties and cities, despite objections from city businessmen.

Burdette A. Shannon, manager of the Petaluma Chamber of Commerce, said in a letter to the council that creation of a North Coast Regional Planning and Development Commission would mean excessive taxation, higher cost than present membership in the Association of Bay Area Governments and loss of voting privileges according to population.

The stand was taken recently by the chamber's board of directors.

City Clerk Lillian Nomsen said the council, overriding the objections, authorized a letter to the State Council on Intergovernmental Relations reaffirming support of the county board of supervisors intention to join the new alliance. It also voted, with Mayor Helen Putnam and Councilman Richard E. Clecak dissenting, to send a representative to the next state council session to state the council's position once again.

Sonoma County voters last year voted to pull out of ABAG in favor of the new regional alliance, although Mrs. Putnam has said she believes citizens were misled on the issue.

Last night, City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer recommended to the council a preliminary 1972-73 municipal budget of $2,419,571, up $235,258 over the current fiscal year.

The spending program, received without discussion, will be reviewed in detail for the first time at a special council study session at 1 p.m. Monday in city hall.

The council also ratified a new wage agreement reached by Meyer with the Petaluma Police Officers Association. It calls, in addition to education and health benefits, for a salary range beginning at $577 per month for a dispatcher clerk to a top of $1,183 per month for lieutenants.

The package will cost the city about $84,000 more for regular police pay in 1972-73.

Plea Entered To Burglary

Walter Vincent Burke, 32, of Fairfax, pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a charge of burglarizing an Almonte home more than a year ago.

In return for the plea, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner agreed to commit him to the California Rehabilitation Center if he is found to be a heroin addict.

Burke was arrested March 15, 1971, when sheriff's deputies found a sleeping bag containing allegedly stolen property in his car. The items were taken from the home of John P. Kelly of California Avenue.

Burke is to be sentenced July 17.

Salary Plan To Be Given

The Certificated Employees Council, representing Novato teachers, is expected to make a salary proposal to the Novato Unified School District board meeting at 8 p.m. today in the Novato High School lecture hall.

Salaries have been frozen in the district's preliminary budget of $10,695,236 for 1971-72 with intent to reconsider salaries if additional state revenue is available.

Teachers have been considering recommending cuts on other sections of the budget, such as transportation or athletic programs, to free funds for salary increases.

360 Novato High Students Due Diplomas On June 17

Penny Valentine and Yvonne White will be co-valedictorians when 380 students graduate from Novato High School in commencement ceremonies at 10 a.m. June 17 at the school football field.

Ronald D. Schenck, president of the Novato Unified School District board, and trustee Marett B. Boissevain will award diplomas and Dist. Supt. James G. Bunker will preside.

Rev. Joseph Kennedy of the Church of Ignacio will give the invocation and Rev. Daniel Sheehan, pastor of St. Anthony's Church, will give the message.

A baccalaureate program will be held at 8 p.m. June 11 at the new gymnasium with the message by Hugh Roberts, Novato staff director of Young Life, and invocation by Rev. Eugene Quinones of Our Lady of Loretto Church. The concert choir of the Vocal Methods class will sing.

Ranch Land Annexation On Agenda

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission, meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at Civic Center, will consider a petition from the city of Novato for annexation of the historic Pacheco Ranch.

The 519-acre ranch, located near Ignacio, has been proposed for a project of almost 700 apartment and town house dwellings by the Perl-Mack Co.

It was first considered by the county planning commission but was referred to Novato when both the city and developer agreed to investigate annexation.

The apartment and townhouse dwellings would be constructed on about 137 acres of the site with the remaining 382 acres left in open space.

The property is one of the last parcels of a 6,659-acre land grant given pioneer rancher Ygnacio Pacheco in 1840 by the Spanish crown.

The commission, which will meet in the board of supervisors chambers in the administration building, also will consider a letter from the Fireman's Fund Insurance Co. threatening to scrap plans for a computer center unless its land is released by the Terra Linda Community services district.

Jackie Visits Lincoln Center For First Time

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis tightly squeezed Leonard Bernstein's hand as the orchestra, chorus and soloists performed his "Mass"—a memorial to her assassinated husband.

When the two-hour performance ended Monday night at the John F. Kennedy Center for Performing Arts, Mrs. Onassis joined with everyone else in the red-walled Opera House in a 10-minute standing ovation for Bernstein.

He kissed her hand.

It was the former first lady's first visit to the white marble center on the banks of the Potomac which opened nine months ago and the first time she had seen a performance of the Mass, which she had asked Bernstein to compose.

'Save Valley' Event Rounds Up $2,700

A "Save the Valley" fair run by the Mont Marin Homeowners Association Saturday raised $2,700 - ample funds to pay attorney and appraisal fees in connection with the forming of an assessment district to buy about 200 acres of open space in the valley.

Mrs. Judy Kaye, association publicity chairman, said the event was attended by around 800 people, and profits exceeded expectation.

There is a moratorium on zone changing in the area until June 20, and association members are currently collecting homeowners' signatures with the intent of forming as assessment district.

Mrs. Kaye said 60 per cent of the 270 homeowners' signatures are needed, and members are confident these can be gathered within the next two weeks.

Owners of the ridgeland 200-acre property in Lucas Valley have proposed selling it for a townhouse project. The Association intends the assessment district would buy the land and keep it as an undeveloped open space. Presently there are several horses grazing the land, and an old barn used for stabling.

Utah Road Crash Kills Petaluman

I-J Special Report

GREEN RIVER, Utah — Estyle McClain, 48, of 717 North McDowell Boulevard, Petaluma, died early today in a predawn car-truck accident near here.

Her husband, John R. McClain, was injured but was reported in satisfactory condition at Allen Memorial Hospital in Moab, Utah.

The couple had been en route to Colorado for Mrs. McClain's brother's funeral.

Mrs. McClain and Norma Finkenbinder, 47, of Fairfield (Solano County), both backseat passengers in a car driven by Ezra Finkenbinder, 47, were killed when it ran into the rear of a "belly dumper" truck.

Accident reports said the truck had slowed to make a left turn on Interstate 70, and the car skidded sideways into the truck. The truck driver was uninjured.

McClain, Finkenbinder and another passenger, Cleo J. Bowden, 47, of Tracy (San Joaquin County), were all reported in satisfactory condition at the hospital.

Specialized Faculty Given Pay Increases

The Marin County Board of Education last night approved cost-of-living salary increases for both administrative personnel and teachers in the specialized schools operated by the county schools office.

The administrators were granted 3 per cent raises with additional fringe benefits amounting to .5 per cent, according to Asst. Supt. Robert E. Spain. He said these increases will cost an additional $15,000 for the next year.

The board also granted 3 per cent salary increases and 0.8 per cent fringe benefit additions to the teaching staff, Spain said. No estimate was made of the total cost of these raises, he said.

The raises were granted after negotiation between the staff and the board and the 3.8 per cent figure was the cost of living increase reported in the Consumer Price Index for the year ending in April, Spain said.

At the board's meeting last night, a letter from Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino advising the board to release the names of four unsuccessful applicants for a recent board vacancy was received officially.

Spain said no action was taken on the matter, however, because board member Patrick W. Pollack who had requested the legal opinion was not present last night. The matter will be discussed at the board's June 19 meeting, Spain said.

The board voted behind closed doors last month to appoint William L. Sisk of Novato to a vacancy for which four other Novato residents had also applied. County Schools Supt. Virgil S. Hollis then refused to divulge the names of the other applicants, saying it was against board policy. Hollis has said he intends to ignore the counsel's advice.

Last night Sisk was sworn in as a new board member. The oath was administered by his father, Homer Sisk, former superintendent of schools in Fairfax.

Sisk will serve until November when he must seek reelection.

The Marin County Board of Education also:

EMPLOYEES — Hired Mildred Guthrie as a bus driver at $2.94 an hour and Gerald D. Ricketts as a maintenance man at $735 a month.

AGREEMENT — Entered into an agreement with Sonoma County for a full-time instructor for blind pupils who will be paid with state funds.

POSITIONS — Approved additions to the staff including a resource teacher in the hearing handicapped program at a salary range of $12,865 to $13,974; a physical education teacher for mentally and physically handicapped children at a range of $10,244 to $13,580 and a school psychometrist for handicapped programs at a range of $12,525 to $13,615.

Profile Of Commuters To Be Gained

A questionnaire seeking a broad profile of commuters will be distributed to motorists at the Richmond and Golden Gate Bridge toll plazas, as well as to passengers aboard Golden Gate Transit ferries and buses, from 6 a.m. to 10 a.m. Thuraday.

Information collected on the confidential, one-page survey will be used by the planning department in drawing up proposals to increase the lower priced housing supply and expand the range of job opportunities within the county.

Data will also be used by Golden Gate Transit to streamline the scheduling of buses and ferries.

The questionnaire will ask the occupation, age, working hours, family size, housing situation and the street name and nearest cross street of one's residence.

Plea Entered In Pot Case

An 18-year-old Fairfax resident pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Superior court to a felony count of growing marijuana and a preliminary hearing was scheduled for June 19.

Camas Eve Brown was arrested with Michael Arthur Timmel, 21, also of Fairfax, after police received a tip May 27 that marijuana plants were growing in a planter box at the residence. Police said they found about 15 stalks of possible marijuana.

Timmel, who is also charged with possessing drug paraphernalia, was to appear to plead today.

Whiskey Springs Density Opposed

A referendum petition calling for repeal of a Sausalito City Council resolution approving a density of approximately 380 units for the proposed Whiskey Springs apartment development will be presented to the city council at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

The petition, circulated and initiated by the newly-formed Nevada Street Valley Neighborhood Association, has collected sufficient signatures to force the city council either to repeal the density or put the matter to voters, according to Leify Smith, association director.

City Clerk Miriam K. Ansell said 540 valid signatures were collected, more than the 445, or 10 per cent of the city's 4,455 registered voters, needed to make the referendum valid.

In April the council granted developer Joseph Duffel a conditional use permit which would allow the 380-unit density in the development, planned for the 14-acre site of the former American Distilling Co.

Miss Smith said those who signed the petition oppose the high density in Whiskey Springs because it would increase the city's population by about 18 per cent and intensify existing traffic congestion.

The neighborhood association believes the development, as proposed and approved, would "further degrade the village character of Sausalito by generating an additional 3,000 auto trips in and out of the city daily," she said.

"Most people in Sausalito are also convinced this density in Whiskey Springs would increase property taxes since the cost of the services which would have to be provided to development residents would be greater than the revenue it would bring to the city," Miss Smith said.

If the council agrees to repeal the high density, the association director said the petitioners would like to work with the developer to plan a development "acceptable to everybody."

She said the association is suggesting, among other things, a lower number of units, a mixture of dwellings and resident-serving commercial enterprises in Whiskey Springs and opening the development's planned recreational facilities to the public.

Burglary Case Hearing Is Set

A preliminary hearing for two brothers charged with burglarizing a Kent Woodlands home then stealing the car from the garage, has been set for June 15 in Marin Municipal Court.

Arnold Roy Turner, 20, of Pacific and Robert Burch Turner, 24, of Burlingame were arrested May 27 as they fled the home of Mildred M. Stockton, at 9 Phoenix Road, according to sheriff's deputies.

Deputies said the garage had been pried open to get in, but were unsure what had been taken.

A bench warrant with bail set at $5,000 has been issued for Michael Mattson, age and address unknown, on the same charges.

Mill Valley Delays On Construction Ban

The Mill Valley City Council last night converted a proposed emergency ordinance — which could have imposed an immediate construction ban in East Mill Valley into a regular ordinance which requires two readings and a public hearing.

The council backed off from the emergency measure at midnight after agreeing that hasty action before a handful of spectators might appear inappropriate.

Mayor Jean Barnard cautioned her colleagues not to take final action last night. She said such a move could draw criticism from those who might characterize the meeting as "one of those midnight special sessions."

After listening to objections to the moratorium from three developers, the council unanimously passed the first reading of the draft ordinance.

The moratorium, if adopted, will prohibit the development, construction or use of any affected property unless a specific use permit is granted by the city. The proposed moratorium applies even to those uses of property that are compatible with current zoning.

It is being considered by the council as a means to prevent uncontrolled development in the area surrounding Upper Richardson Bay while the city prepares a master plan for East Mill Valley.

The emergency ordinance provided for an initial four-month moratorium, which could be renewed for eight months and then one year. The regular ordinance, now being considered by the council would establish a one-year moratorium, which could be extended for an additional year.

Developer Warner Odenthal, a property owner in the affected area, told the city council that a one year construction ban — which could easily be extended for a second year — was unfair to him. He claimed that during the past 14 years, while his development plans have been stymied by the city, he has paid more than $100,000 in property taxes.

"The city doesn't need a moratorium on its own property and it doesn't need a moratorium on our property either," he said. "Our property is zoned commercial-recreation and the city has complete control over us anyway."

Ivan S. Poutiatine, chairman of the city's planning commission, vigorously supported the moratorium, which had previously been recommended by the commission.

The very presence of the developers at the meeting, according to Poutiatine, indicated the need for a master plan for the area. "Right now, there is a planning vacuum in the area," said Poutiatine. "This is the reason for the moratorium."

The measure will return to the council for its second reasing and possible adoption June 19.

The Mill Valley City Council Also:

YOUTH COMMISSION — Appointed John Everts, and Patsy Downing to the Mill Valley Youth Commission, but continued a proposal that would change the terms of office for commissioners from one to two years.

ENVIRONMENT — Appointed Kent Sims to the environmental quality committee of the City-County Planning Council of Marin.

HUMAN RIGHTS — Appointed Binky Monjauze to the human rights miniboard.

RETIREMENT CENTER — Continued a request from the Community Church Retirement Center for a refund of sewer fees, a refund of fire hydrant installation costs and exemption from an obligation to pay the city for the priviliage of hauling dirt across city-owned property.

CAMINO ALTO — Appropriated $8,557 for additional engineering fees anticipated by Stanley Bala, city engineer, in connection with the Camino Alto improvement project. Bala told the council that the additional fee would probably not reach the full appropriation.

OLD MILL STREET — Referred to the planning commission a request from the Mill Valley School District that the city close Old Mill Street and allow it to be used as a play area by students at Old Mill School.

BUILDING CODE — Adopted the 1970 edition of the Uniform Building Code after knocking out a section that exempts public utilities from applying for excavation permits from the city.

PUBLIC EMPLOYEES — Adopted an ordinance that incorporates the city's employees into the California Public Employees Retirement System.

NIGHT PARKING — Passed the first reading of a draft ordinance that would prohibit parking any vehicle in the downtown business area between 3 a.m. and 6 a.m. According to Mayor Jean Barnard, the ordinance was designed to allow street cleaners to move throughout the area unobstructed.

STOP SIGN — Designated the intersection of Kipling, Longfellow and Seaver drives as a stop intersection and authorized the erection of stop signs.

FALL ARTS FEST — Approved in principal the application of the Fall Arts Festival to use Boyle Park Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, subject to the approval of regulations in an agreement between festival organizers and the city's park and recreation department.

CITY PARKS — Took no action on a recommendation from the park and recreation commission that all city parks, except the tennis courts, be closed from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m., due to unruly behavior after dark.

COMMUNITY GARDEN — Referred to the parks and recreation commission and the architectural advisory committee a suggestion from Lee Eggleston that the city organize a community garden to serve as demonstration model for amateur gardeners throughout Mill Valley.

PARKING METERS — Referred to the city attorney a proposal from the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce to install limited time parking meters in selected locations in the downtown business area.

MEETING — Adjourned to a special budget meeting at 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

Water Bomb Leads To Drug Pleas

Two Novato residents arrested on suspicion of drug charges after allegedly aiming a five-gallon bag of water containing goldfish at Novato police have pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court.

A preliminary hearing was set for June 27 for Donald Paul Seaman, 37, charged with possessing marijuana for sale, and misdemeanor counts of assault on a policeman and having a marijuana smoking device, and for Judith Elaine Neil, 28, charged only with the felony possession for sale count.

The two were arrested May 28 by two Novato officers who said Seaman hurled the bag of water at them on the Western Country Fair carnival grounds.

During a search, police said they found vegetable matter and a list of clients. Police said they then searched Seaman's residence and found more suspected marijuana.

Three others arrested in an ensuing investigation have been arraigned in municipal court and are scheduled to plead June 15.

They are Pat Gingher, charged with possessing marijuana, Michael David Gingher, charged with possessing marijuana for sale, and Kevin John Gingher, charged with a misdemeanor, possessing narcotics paraphernalia. All live in Novato.

Safety Budgets To Be Studied

Public Safety budgets for Sausalito totaling $823,911 will be studied by the Sausalito City Council finance committee in a 1972-73 municipal budget review session at 8 p.m. Thursday in city hall.

Sausalito's public safety budget for the coming year, as proposed by City Mgr. Albert St. Cyr, includes $465,717 for police, $342,702 for fire and $15,492 for ambulance.

The proposed spending program is approximately $7,000 less than last year's budget which totaled $816,755 and included $467,874 for police, $334,153 for fire and $14,728 for ambulance.

Guilty Plea To Armed Robbery

A Tuolumne County man charged with armed robbery of a Corte Madera store pleaded guilty yesterday in Marin Superior Court as part of a plea bargain.

Philip Ray Talley, 32, of Columbia pleaded guilty on the condition he receive no more than six months in jail, but Judge Samuel W. Gardiner continued the case to July 17 to obtain a probation report.

Talley and Leroy H. Dorigo, 24, were arrested in San Rafael after allegedly holding up a clerk in the Corte Madera 7-11 store. Armed with a knife and razor, he took about $280, police said.

Dorigo is awaiting trial for armed robbery.

A Denial Made To Hit-And-Run

A 25-year-old Sausalito woman denied in Marin Municipal Court yesterday that she fled the scene after her auto struck a construction worker in Sausalito.

A preliminary hearing for Linda Carole Almen on the felony hit-and-run driving count was set for June 20.

She was arrested at her home after a witness to the accident obtained the car's license number, police said.

The woman is charged with hitting Gary R. Zadnick, 23, of Vacaville as he worked Thursday on sewer lines in the 800 block of Bridgeway.

Zadnick was treated at Marin General Hospital for severe head cuts.

Lumber Stolen

Lumber valued at $196 was stolen from the McKeon construction site at Kerner and Sonoma streets, San Rafael, between 4:30 p.m. Saturday and 7:30 a.m. Monday, police reported today.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By Gordon B. Greb

Try this quiz on the June 6, birthday of Paul Dudley White (1886-), medical doctor:

T F 1. When Lydon B. Johnson suffered his first heart attack in 1955, this Boston physician was called upon to handle the case because of his international reputation as a cardiologist.

T F 2. Born at Roxbury, Mass., this New Englander has never stopped studying and teaching since he first went to Harvard University more than 64 years ago.

T F 3. Skinny as a youngster, White is still very thin and believes that staying this way is the means to good health, which is one reason you can see him pedaling his bicycle around town everyday.

T F 4. White notes in his book, "My Life and Medicine," that heart disease is now the nation's No. 1 killer, outranking cancer and death by accident.

ANSWERS

1. FALSE — The doctor was President Eisenhower's 1955 heart specialist, not Johnson's.

2. TRUE — Continuously studying, he earned an M.D. in 1908 and a D.Sc. in 1950, both from Harvard.

3. TRUE — His advice: avoid overeating, exercise regularly, do not smoke and have annual medical checkups.

4. TRUE — White thinks soft living has contributed to the rise of heart disease in America since 1920.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Only Simple Arithmetic Is Needed To Score A Victory

People often say that bridge is a game for the mathematically minded. Actually, arithmetic is all the mathematics you need. And even the arithmetic is far from advanced: All you need is the ability (and the willingness) to count up to 13. This may enable you to play as though you could see through the backs of the cards.

WITH QUEEN

West led the deuce of spaces, and East won the first trick with the queen. He continued with the ace of spades, and South ruffed. Declarer made a mental note that East had started with six spades and West with four. (In theory, it was possible for East to have seven spades, but he would have bid a second time with a seven-card suit.)

Declarer knocked out the ace of hearts next. West led a club to the ace, and South won the club continuation with the king.

South drew a second round of trumps, and East discarded a spade. South then ruffed his last club in dummy, and East once more discarded a spade.

COUNT COMPLETE

By now South knew that East started with only one heart, only two clubs and exactly six spades. He was sure to have exactly six spades. He was sure to have exactly four diamonds to fill out his original hand to 13 cards. This left only one diamond for West to hold.

Declarer led the king of diamonds from dummy, drawing West's known singleton. Then he led a small diamond from dummy. East played the eight, and South won a finesse with the nine. It was then easy to get to dummy with a trump for another diamond finesse.

DEEP FINESSE

Any average player would finesse with the jack of diamonds and thus get three diamond tricks, but only a counter could safely finesse with the nine of diamonds and thus make the game contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player bids two hearts.

You hold:
♠ - 10 7 5 2
♦ - 2
♣ - Q 10 8 5 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades.

The distribution is far too good for a raise to two spades.

Pencil Safety

NEW YORK (UPI)—Children chewing on lead pencils probably run less chance of lead poisoning these days. The Pencil Makers Association Inc. reports a new testing and certification program which requires that members' pencils contain less than one-half of one per cent of lead in the lacquer. Ninety per cent of pencil makers hold membership in the association.

$43,500. QUIET!!! Or you will disturb the birds chirping in the trees right by the deck. This San Rafael home is a country paradise. High ceilings and unusual decor with built-in kitchen, 4 bedrooms and 2 baths. It's located on a quiet street with only 4 houses — view. Exclusive. Eves. 454-3434.

$49,500. THE RIGHT HOME FOR CASUAL LIVING. This San Anselmo home is meant for the large family. It has the greatest view in Marin! 4 bedrooms, 3 baths, big living room and huge family room. There's a separate laundry, lots of closets and double garage. Eves. 454-3434.

$55,000. GREATEST SETTING IN MARIN. One of the most unusual homes in the county — if you like to live away from people, then see this San Anselmo just listed home. Gorgeous view. Spacious property and evergreen trees abound. It's a beautiful lot with isolation. Great patio — really 3 separate areas with glass wind break, fireplace and beautiful plantings. One of the greatest family rooms we've ever seen, looks out to the mountain. 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, dining room and cozy living room. See quickly! Eves. 454-0174.

$59,950. GET AWAY FROM IT ALL. If it's a quality home, if it's privacy you want, consider this Sleepy Hollow estate. Exquisite garden framed by Mt. Tam with stream running through. It's designed by Herman Hein on 7/8 of an acre. Quality 2 bedroom with big kitchen and breathtaking view from the living room. There's a separate cottage with fireplace and all this near the main gate. Eves. 454-3434.

$63,500. EXECUTIVE desiring the best cannot afford to miss seeing this home. In ever popular Dominican Heights, this custom built beauty is the way to live. Swimming pool with glass enclosed deck, gorgeous view and a neighborhood of young executives. 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, dining room and family room.

$68,500. AN AD A MILE LONG couldn't do this home justice. On the Greenbrae Marina, this is great for children, level cul-de-sac and the property right on the lagoon. Spacious kitchen with char-broil and everything built-in, full dining room, big family room, deck and laundry. 3 bedrooms, 2½ baths. Perfect for year around family fun. Eves. 924-5663.

HERE ARE SOME "BRASS TACKS" ABOUT AUTOMOBILE BUYING

Automobile SELLING is highly competitive business. The dealer with lower overhead REALLY has a competitive advantage. He can use this advantage to give his customers better deals.

In Marin County overhead IS lower and you'll find BETTER deals than you can find "over the bridge" - AND the service is LOCAL!

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS INVITING SEALED PROPOSALS OR BIDS

Sealed proposals will be received by, and shall be filed with the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, State of California, Room No. 315, Marin County Civic Center, San Rafael, California until 11:00 A.M. on June 21, 1972 for:

Construction of a Service Building and rough grading of site at Marin County Farm.

The work shall be done in accordance with official plans and specifications prepared in reference thereto which may be seen at the office of Parks and Recreation Department, County of Marin, Civic Center, San Rafael, California.

Proposals shall be filed with George H. Gnoss, Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Civic Center, San Rafael, California, and may be purchased for $3.00 per set (non-refundable). Mailed requests shall be addressed to the Department of Parks and Recreation, Room 343, Civic Center, San Rafael, California 94903. Checks should be made payable to the County of Marin.

Proposals will be opened and read at 11:00 A.M. in Room 332, Marin County Civic Center, on the date specified above.

The award of the contract, if it is to be awarded, will be the lowest responsible bidder whose proposal complies with the requirements prescribed. The award, if made, will be made within thirty (30) days after the opening of the proposals.

The Board of Supervisors has made a determination of the prevailing rate of hourly wages applicable to the work performed. Copies of this determination are on file in the office of the County Clerk, Civic Center, Room No. 315, San Rafael, California, and are available to any interested party upon request.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

NOTICE TO NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City of San Rafael invites and the City Clerk will receive in the City Hall situated at 1400 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, California, up to 2:00 p.m., Wednesday, the 14th day of June, 1972, sealed bids for the publication of all legal notices required to be published in a newspaper of general circulation, printed and published in said City of San Rafael during the ensuing fiscal year 1972-73.

All bids must be submitted in accordance with the following specifications: Solid-non-pareil, seven point type or larger, without spacing, indenting, or otherwise lengthening the advertising of 234 ems to the square, and must state the rate per square for the first insertion, and the rate per square for each subsequent insertion.

Bidders must specify the dates of publication, the deadline for submission of material and present circulation within the City. The contract for publication service will require that City material furnished before publication deadlines be published on the date specified in the order of transmittal. The contracting newspaper will be required to furnish the City Clerk with galley proofs prior to publication. Errors in setting of material will be subject to correction without charge to the City. Publication containing errors by Publisher or published without benefit of proof by City will not be charged to the City. Affidavits of publication will be required to be furnished to the City Clerk in duplicate original within three (3) days following publication.

The City Council reserves the right to reject any and all bids, and in its discretion let the contract to other than the lowest bidder.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Hospitals Must Be Constructed With Needs Of Future In Mind

Hospitals must be built with future needs in mind. All too often, new institutions are obsolete before their doors are opened. Changes in health care methods and licensing regulations also must be anticipated. At this writing, many cities have more than enough beds. However, changes in distribution are needed.

For many years, half the patients in hospitals stayed too long and frequently did not need such expensive care to begin with. Hospitalization and service plans can be blamed, because these groups refused to insure people for outpatient or home care. Had facilities been available, the majority could have been housed in a nearby hotel or motel and received the same medical care at half the price. In other words, the key gain of having these facilities available will be less expensive outpatient (ambulatory) care.

MEANWHILE, the hospitals will update the more expensive intensive care units where staff and equipment are geared to provide life-saving services to victims of heart attacks, strokes, burns, and other conditions that carry a high risk. There will be special sections for surgery, women, children, rehabilitation, and psychiatric problems. Emergency rooms will take up considerable space and, in all probability, will be run by full-time salaried physicians with special training in trauma. This may include an ambulance service with trained crews who know how to handle the injured and acutely ill.

CERTAIN HOSPITALS in metropolitan areas will have artificial kidney units; others will have blood and tissue banks, cancer treatment centers, or extensive automated laboratory facilities. Duplication should be avoided. The X-ray departments of today are prepared to do a variety of highly technical and sophisticated procedures.

Specialized care of any type is very expensive, but the costs need not be shared by every patient in the institution. Savings can be realized if those in need of routine care eat in a communal dining room, take their own showers, turn down the beds, and tidy the rooms or recuperate in motel facilities.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanieu request to the Independent-Journal.)

PLANT ALLERGY

Miss G. writes: When the spring grasses and weeds start growing, I get clear blisters on my ankles. They break and the area itches, then blisters form again. This goes on all summer. Since I must take care of the lawn and garden, would you have any advice on prevention?

REPLY

Consider moving to an apartment if you are this sensitive to grasses and weeds. However, consult an allergist or dermatologist before making drastic changes. There are other causes for blisters that develop in warm weather.

COFFEE IS A DIURETIC

C. C. writes: Does coffee encourage frequent urination in a teen-ager?

REPLY

Yes. Coffee acts a mild diuretic for all age groups. The water in coffee also helps.

FLU WITHOUT FEVER

M. T. writes: Can you have flu without fever?

REPLY

Yes — a mild case. As a rule, the temperature rises sharply several hours after the onset of influenza.

Workers Strike Over Free Beer

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — About 650 brewery workers went on strike Monday because their employer wanted to discontinue a 50-year practice of providing free beer to workers during that period known elsewhere as coffee breaks.

The strike by members of Local 5 and 183, United Brewery Workers, halted production at the Philadelphia and Norristown, Pa., plants of C. Schmidt & Sons, Inc., makers of Schmidt's beer.

The union spokesman said that during negotiations for a new three-year wage contract the company sought to eliminate the jobs of two bartenders working the "free beer" breaks.

A federal mediator will meet with both sides Wednesday in an effort to resolve the dispute.

SUMMONS (MARRIAGE)
Case Number 62518

Superior Court of California, County of Marin, Civic Center, San Rafael, Ca. 94903.

In re the marriage of Petitioner: DANIEL F. DICKSON and
Respondent: VICTORIA A. DICKSON

To the Respondent:

The petitioner has filed a petition concerning your marriage. You may file a written response within thirty days of the date that this summons is served on you. If you fail to file a written response within such time, your default may be entered and the court may enter a judgment containing injunctive or other orders concerning division of property, spousal support, child custody, child support, attorney's fees, costs, and such other relief as may be granted by the court.

If you wish to seek the advice of an attorney in this matter, you should do so promptly so that your written response, if any, may be filed on time.

MANY USES PREDICTED

Cassette TV Catching On In Business World

By MARTIN SKALA
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK, N.Y. — It's not yet within reach of the average home viewer, but cassette television is capturing a widening audience in the business world.

Businessmen who once scoffed at video players as a "futuristic" plaything are taking a serious look at the new medium's potential for increasing sales and boosting employee productivity.

Coca-Cola, Ford and IBM are among the growing number of companies planning to make major use of the new "personalized" TV technology. Video cassettes play through TV sets, the same way audio cassettes play through a hi-fi set.

With a $10,000 investment in a video-player set and 20 instructional cassettes, Coca-Cola's bottlers will soon be able to upgrade their production and marketing skills. The video players will provide individualized, on-the-job training at bottling plants, dispensing with much of the need for classroom-type instruction.

Japan's Toyota Co. is providing its own video-cassette programs to dealers, both to instruct car mechanics and to deliver sales pitches to customers.

In the future, a car buyer may not even have to go to showrooms to inspect new models. He could plug the auto company's cassette into his home video player, see the vehicles in action, and then order directly from the local distributor.

IBM, which recently acquired 300 video players made by Japan's Sony Corp., plans to use the devices mainly for sales promotion and management communications.

Businessmen are eager to experiment with video cassettes for use in point-of-sale advertising, vocational education, and sales training. But the technological turmoil accompanying the development of the many competing hardware and software systems has made many potential users wary.

Four incompatible technologies are vying for acceptance in video recordings: magnetic tape, photographic film, vinyl discs, and still some time away, holographic tape. Though producers of video systems jockey for a leading position, various engineering claims and counterclaims are hard to sort out. No one wants to invest thousands of dollars in playback units, and even more expensive original programming, in a particular technology that may be an "also-ran."

To help resolve the user's dilemma, Videorecord Corp. of America of Westport, Conn., is organizing a distribution network to rent video players and programs to business. By making it easy to rent the equipment, Videorecord frees users of the worry of investing in potentially obsolescent machines.

The three-year-old company, perhaps the leading software producer in the field, has signed up several dozen dealers in 24 states as a first step in creating a national distribution system. Each dealer, says Videorecord president Stafford Hopwood Jr., will offer "a complete viewing package," including a color TV set, a recorder player unit, and a duplicating service that will convert existing materials to the lower-cost cassette format.

Although Videorecord does not intend to be wedded to any single technology, its major commitment in terms of hardware is to the $1,400 video-cassette recorder made by the U.S. arm of the Dutch electronics giant, North American Philips Corp. Philips, a leading manufacturer of audio cassettes, is also the European pacesetter in the budding cartridge-TV industry.

Hopwood, a former executive with the Columbia Broadcasting System, sees "electronic merchandising" as a major launching pad for the new medium because 'you can reach selected audiences economically."

"Broadcast TV works best for mass-audience products where you want to reach thousands at a time. But things like engineering services, heavy equipment, and industrial products could never be sold on TV before."

The education market also rates high on Videorecord's list. Video cassettes are considered ideal in a multi-media learning environment. Since cassettes can be stopped and rerun and don't require a darkened room, the student can control his own learning pace.

That's why the Connecticut firm has acquired distribution rights to more than 3,000 films covering such diverse fields as health care, office skills, personal finance, sports, and music. In cassette form, these programs can be shown by clubs, civic groups, and educational institutions.

"Some people seem to have the misconception that the video cassette is a mass communicator just because it plays through TV receivers," Hopwood said.

But Hopwood is convinced the video-cassette medium has much more to offer than reruns of old Hollywood movies. It will prosper, he believes, only as highly selective and imaginative programs are developed for it.

Suit Says Clear Lake Is Polluted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Lake County property owners filed a $20.4 million suit in San Francisco Superior Court on Monday, claiming Clear Lake had been polluted.

The 34 plaintiffs named as defendants the state of California, Lake County, the Clear Lake Keys Co. and Marvin T. Levin and Robert Ducca, company officials.

Their suit contended the developers of a marina at the lake had "improperly planned, designed and constructed said tract."

As a result, there were improper facilities for the disposal of pollutants, the suit continued.

No Building Permit For Burger Chain

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The city's Board of Permit Appeals has voted to revoke a building permit for the McDonald hamburger store chain.

The revocation came Monday after Joseph Belardi, Labor Council president, declared the chain hired non-union help.

"THAT'S WHERE IT'S AT!"

Eastern Firm Captures Canton Seafood Pact

BY MARTIN SKALA
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK — If seafood expert Murry P. Berger has his way, U.S.-China trade may soon develop a pungent flavor all its own.

The American yen for Orinetal dishes such as shrimp, chow mein and egg rolls, the president of Seabrook Foods says, provides a ready-made market for frozen foods imported from China.

Beofre the year is over, Berger — a member of the first U.S. businessman's group to be invited to the Canton Trade Fair — plans to give consumers a taste of Chinese shrimp and vegetables.

Seabrook Foods, which does a $75 million annual business, is a fast-growing processor of frozen seafood and vegetables. It distributes more than 150 frozen food products, ranging from breaded oyster and seafood newburg to cut okra and onion rings. The company's major labels include Carnation Seafoods, Snow Crop, and Kitchen Ready — many of them regional brands.

Berger returned from the Canton Trade Fair with a firm contract to buy $200,000 worth of frozen shrimp and five varieties of exotic vegetables. It is believed to be the first direct U.S. purchase of frozen foods from mainland China. Other products U.S. importers reportedly purchased at China's semi-annual trade exhibit included jewelry, handicrafts, chemicals, and rugs.

"This is only the beginning" the jubilant executive said at Seabrook's Great Neck, Long Island, headquarters. If the initial shipments pass consumer tests, as he confidently expects they will, the "door will be opened" for larger imports of frozen foods from China.

"We may introduce an expanded line of ethnic foods.

"The potential is big, especially since Chinese-style foods are so widely accepted here."

Seabrook already markets ready-to-eat dishes that appeal to ethnic or regional tastes including shrimp scampi, hush puppies, kosher vegetables. Chinese seafood, however, is Berger's main interest.

"The Chinese have been exporting frozen shrimp to Canada and Europe for several years," he explains. "I tasted their shrimp in Great Britain and it's a real quality product."

Shrimp — the most popular variety of shellfish — is in short supply in U.S. waters. To supplement the domestic catch from the Gulf Coast, processors such as Seabrook import 200 million pounds of shrimp annually, about one third of U.S. consumption. "We're always on the lookout for new sources of supply," Berger added.

The 20-year veteran of the seafood business first expressed a desire to go to the Canton fair more than a year ago.

He wrote to a trading company in Peking, but received no reply. The break came shortly after President Nixon's trip to Peking in February. After "just about giving up hope" he received a brief cable from the Canton fair officials extending a personal invitation.

After getting clearance from the State Department, Berger joined a group of about 30 businessmen making the first U.S. appearance at China's major export showcase.

Negotiations with his supplier — a large government export-import agency specializing in seafoods — were well-organized and "very cordial," Mr. Berger reports. "No cross words were spoken."

"You soon learn there is only one price. There's no haggling," he added.

Nor did the Chinese trade officials, or his interpreter, try to "sell their ideology." Berger didn't leave Canton until after the mining of North Vietnam's harbors had been announced by the Nixon administration, but there were "no expressions of anti-American sentiment." "There are a great many posters with Mao quotes, but there are no anti-Western slogans to be seen."

Berger said the huge trade show, which reportedly generates half of China's annual foreign trade, featured big displays of arts and crafts, machine tools, hardware, and tractors. "I would have to believe these items were mainly for export," he said.

If U.S.-China trade is really to get off the ground, Mr. Berger argues, "the U.S. will have to drop its discriminatory tariffs."

"If we're sincere in wanting to expand commercial contacts, Chinese goods will have to enter the U.S. on an equal footing with non-Communist nations."

Fortunately for Seabrook, seafoods are a non-dutiable item in the U.S. Also transportation costs are low. Most other Chinese products, such as handicrafts and textiles, face a stiff duty that, in many cases, may price them out of the U.S. market.

If the U.S. hopes to export high-technology goods to China, economists say the U.S. government will have to put out the welcome mat for Chinese goods. China policy is to pay cash for everything and seek a close balance between exports and imports, by holding imports down to the level of its exports. Peking has been able to boast quite accurately that it has no external debt.

Lebanon Hits Israel: Air Violations

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Lebanon complained to the United Nations that Israeli warplanes overflew its territory three times Monday and accused the Israeli government of a stepped up "campaign of villification and persistent threats."

Lebanon and the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) both previously denied that Japanese gunmen who carried out the massacre at Lod International Airport in Tel Aviv last week were trained in Lebanon.

Israel has threatened reprisals against Lebanon charging the gunmen hired by the Arab guerrillas came from across the Lebanese border.

Lebanese Ambassador Edouard Ghorra complained to the U.N. Security Council Monday night of the alleged air space violations.

"Israel has intensified her violations of Lebanese air space to extend over wider areas of our territory," Ghorra said. "This comes at a time when Israel is continuing her campaign of villification and persistent threats against Lebanon."

The Israeli parliament Monday night asserted what it termed "Israel's right to act against guerrilla organizations and their accomplices."

"There is nothing easier for Israel than to paralyze air communications, if indeed countries like Lebanon and Egypt should try, by means of or with the help of terrorists, to paralyze our lines of communications," said Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan in a radio interview on the fifth anniversary of the outbreak of the 1967 Middle East war.

An Arab guerrilla ambush on the Israeli-occupied Golan Heights that killed an Israeli soldier and wounded another was the only serious incident that occurred on the anniversary.

Despite the Lod airport shooting attack, Dayan said the guerrillas have been "a resounding failure."

U.S. Doctors Look At Acupuncture

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Since President Nixon's trip to Peking the American public in general and the medical profession in particular have been increasingly intrigued by the Chinese practice of acupuncture.

The word and the technique itself have not been unknown here but in the minds of many persons it has been associated with the pseudo-scientific or in some cases the occult.

With the impetus provided by Nixon's visit and press coverage of actual surgical procedures using needles to kill pain, public interest has escalated to the point where professionals and laymen are having second thoughts about the ancient Chinese art.

A nationwide survey by UPI suggests that doctors and medical institutions are equally wary of acupuncture at the present time. There are very few exceptions.

The general tenor of the survey was typified by Dr. John Lincoln, chief of anesthesiology at Maine Medical Center, that state's leading hospital.

"I am extremely interested in acupuncture—watching developments and scientific literature to help in making the decision on our future course," Lincoln said.

A negative response came from a spokesman for Dr. Joseph Simino, commissioner of the New York Health Department.

"We do not do acupuncture," he said. "We do not recommend it."

But the spokesman did not shut the door on the subject, adding "we have a committee which is only doing research to see if it is a valid medical practice."

Comparatively, an enthusiastic answer came from Dr. William S. Derrick, head of anesthesiology at the University of Texas Medical School in Houston.

"We are certainly very interested in the whole subject of acupuncture. A civilization which has been using it for hundreds of years must have something going for it...we are very curious about acupuncture. If it is nearly as good as we are led to believe it has a lot to offer in the practice of anesthesiology and relief of pain. We are maintaining an open mind about it."

Acupuncture—simple in definition but complex in practice—consists of the insertion of needles of various metals, shapes and sizes into one or several of more than 300 spots on the human trunk, the extremities and the head to deaden nerves and stop pain.

Like any other discipline it requires years of intensive training and the Chinese are the only ones equipped to practice it.

Dr. John W. Fox, of the Downstate Medical Center in Brooklyn, who participated in one of the first cases of surgery in the United States using acupuncture, believes occidentals are a couple of decades behind the Chinese.

"The Chinese have performed it and mastered its techniques in complicated operations while we can only use it for simple operations," said Fox.

He said the United States is a "chemical oriented" society while the Chinese rely on acupuncture.

"When we feel a pain, we reach for an aspirin. When they feel a pain, they reach for a needle," Fox said.

Fox participated in an operation May 15 in which a benign lesion on a patient's tonsil was removed with analgesic acupuncture.

"We knew the Chinese could do it and now that we have done it, we have proved that it works," Fox said.

While most doctors and institutions at the very minimum expressed some curiosity in acupuncture the American Society of Anesthesiologists issued a warning against rushing into the practice without sufficient safeguards.

From its headquarters in Park Ridge, Ill., the ASA said Friday while acupuncture was "a potentially valuable technique" there were possible hazards associated with it including the application of acupuncture to patients who have not been properly psychologically evaluated.

"If acupuncture is applied indiscriminately, severe mental trauma could result in certain patients," said the ASA.

Another hazard was the possible misuse of acupuncture by quacks attempting to treat a variety of illnesses, including cancer and arthritis, thereby diverting the patients from obtaining established medical treatment, the society said.

The UPI survey indicated that there were almost no ongoing studies or plans to study acupuncture on a regular classroom basis in American medical schools although the curiosity level was high.

The major exception appeared to be the University of Illinois Medical School where chief anasthesiologist Dr. Alon Winnie said, "we plan to start a large program in use of acupuncture in about a month...in our upcoming study we will pick patients randomly to receive acupuncture and others to get drug injections. Then we will crossover and compare results of those given acupuncture and those given usual anesthesia."

But Dr. Winnie said as of now no courses of study were planned. He, too, exhibited the caution of the others saying "my feelings are strong that it should be evaluated before it comes into wide usage."

Gays Opposed As Ministers

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The president of the Lutheran Church in America said Monday that he was opposed to the ordination of homosexuals as ministers.

"Official Lutheran policy holds that homosexuality is contrary to God's creative purpose for men," Dr. Robert J. Marshall of New York City told a news conference at the Press Club.

Marshall added, "The ideal is a heterosexual relationship, producing a family."

Plot Allowance Plan For Veterans

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House has passed 310 to 4 and sent to the Senate a bill that would provide a $150 plot allowance for veterans who are buried in nongovernment cemeteries.

Sponsors of the measure said most veterans no longer can be buried in national cemeteries, which are running out of space. One provision of the bill provides for a study of possible development of additional national cemeteries, perhaps on a regional basis.

Soda Bottlers Strike Is Ended

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A six-month strike by the Teamsters Union against soft drink bottlers in the San Francisco Bay Area ended today.

Drivers began returning to work after the union members ratified a pact which calls for arbitration of issues not settled by negotiation.

Federal Mediator Gene Barry said the final issue settled during the weekend was amnesty for all of the union members accused of violence during the walkout.

The lengthy strike was marked by repeated incidents between strikers and nonstriking employes. Both the union and employers were fined for disobeying a court injunction against picket-line hostility.

Golfer Sanders Qualifies For U. S. Open; Snead Misses

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Doug Sanders has another world to conquer, while Sammy Snead was beaten by the one jinx marring an illustrious golf career.

Sanders, winner of last weekend's Kemper Open at Charlotte, N.C., successfully toured the Charlotte Country Club Course to qualify for the June 15-18 U.S. Open at Pebble Beach with a 68-67-135 Monday.

Snead, who has won every major golf tournament except the U.S. Open, failed to make the qualifying cut at Charlotte when he fired a 78 after a neat first round 69.

Dapper Doug Sanders was among 64 golfers qualifying at Charlotte. He felt his confidence returning when a birdie putt on the 18th hole Sunday gave him his first tour victory in two years. Sanders won the tourney by a stroke over Lee Trevino, who is defending champion in the Open and one of 35 golfers who gained automatic exemption into the prestigious event.

Qualifying continued today at a number of sites as golfers vie for the remaining berths in the 150-man field.

Most of the big names made their qualifying attempt at Charlotte. Hubert Green had a 136, Don Bies and Rod Funset came in with successful 138s; Lou Graham qualified with a 140; Bud Allin and John Schroeder clicked at 141; Dave Hill, Bob Lunn, Dave Marr, Bob Murphy, Kermit Zarley, Mason Rudolph and John Mahaffey had 142s; Charles Sifford had a 143; Bruce Devlin, Babe Hiskey, Cesar Sanudo and Ken Still shot 144s and Dave Eichelberger, Gibby Gilbert and Fred Marti hit 145.

Ras Allen, a fourth year pro, carded the day's low of 134 to lead eight qualifiers in sectional qualifying at the Dallas Country Club. Allen's double eagle on the 509-yard first hole of second round competition gave him a 65 to go with an earlier 69.

Homero Blancas, who has written his share of the headlines on the Professional Golfers Association tour, fired a 68-71—139 in finishing second to Allen. Also qualifying were Ben Crenshaw at 142, Ron Weber and Mitch Voges at 143 and Darell Hickok and Bruce Lietzke at 144.

Bob Byman, a 17-year-old high school junior from Boulder, Colo., shot a five-under-par 66-71—137 to lead three qualifiers at the Flat Iron Country Club. George Rives was a distant second at 141 and Clayton Cole gained the other berth with a 142.

Danny Edwards, a 20-year-old amateur, was one stroke off the course record of 65 set by Bobby Locke in 1948 at the Midlothian Country Club as he finished with a 140 at Chicago. Bob Zender, a former stockbroker in his rookie year on the pro tour, topped the Windy City qualifiers with a 137.

Qualifying with 141s were Don Klenk, Bill Ogden, Bob Brue, Jim Ahren and Dick Ehrmantraut.

The four berths from Cincinnati's Lovernook Country Club were filled by Cliff Cook, Sr., and Carl Owen, with 138s, and Barney Thompson and Ross Bartschy, Jr., at 139.

There were 11 qualifiers at the Olympic Club in San Francisco, led by Barry Jaeckel's 75-68—143.

Tony Lopez shot a 144 as runner-up; Jimmy Powell fired a 145; Chuck Courtny, 146; Al Geiberger, 147; Bruce Summerhays, Mike Butler and Terry Small and Mack Hunter had 148s, and Jimmy Wiechers and Tommy Sanderson carded 149s.

Ray Leach of Novato shot 78-77—155 and Buddy Sullivan, pro at Marin Country Club, Novato, shot 82-76—158, both failing to make the field for the U.S. Open.

College Of Marin Grid Past Relived

By RALPH CHATOIAN

There was College of Marin football coach Dick Read surrounded by some of his players of another time, players who would make him forget momentarily that his teams the past two years have won a grand total of one game.

And there was Marin's athletic director, Harry Pieper, thinking back to 1960 when he coached football for the last time and his biggest problem was getting enough eligible men on the field in a season cut short because of lack of players.

DICK READ

It was a reunion of College of Marin football teams of the 1960-63 era at Nave Lanes restaurant in Ignacio last Friday, a night of dinner, a few drinks and many old stories recounted from a decade past.

"It's a pleasure to see you, the players," said a beaming Read. "We won a few and we lost a few, but we had a lot of fun. That's what counts. That's what it's all about."

Everyone had his say. They had their chance to stand and utter words of praise to the coaches or to thank the littlest man in the room, trainer Harry Hicklin for the miles of tape he has wound around ankles and knees of all those who have run, thrown or jumped for old College of Marin.

ONLY ONE man in the room was still playing the game of football, Elmer Collett, offensive guard for the 49ers. He played for Marin in 1962 and '63 before going on to San Francisco State from where he was drafted by the 49ers. One of Elmer's teammates on the 1963 team had played the game until a year ago when he retired as defensive lineman for the Cincinnati Bengals. That is Martin Baccaglio who is now in the real estate-investment business in San Jose. Baccaglio had fun recalling Read's chalk talks when the coach's voice would rise in pitch and then the chalk would be hurled to the floor. Yes, these men could raise the dander of the normally calm, cool Dick Read.

Bruce Robertson said he didn't realize how good the coaching was at College of Marin until he got to San Jose State, "then I really appreciated what I had at Marin." Robertson is now, coaching junior college football in Santa Maria, Santa Barbara County.

SOME OF THE star players from out of the past looked as if they coujd still get out on the football field and play winning ball — guys like Ron Cole, Bill Buffalo, Ron Blum, and of course, Scott Moriarty, always joking, always laughing, but a heck of a fullback a few years ago.

Challenging Collett and Baccaglio in size was another of the star linemen out of the 1962-63 era, Lyle Baucom. That size was probably a prerequisite for his present job, dean of boys at Mission High School in San Francisco.

One of the players of the 1960 team at the reunion was Geofrey Dunham, now one of the youthful councilmen who are making the people in Cotati nervous because they don't fit the mold of wizened, gray-haired policy makers.

DUNHAM AND Frank Gallardo were among the players of that 1960 team which tried to carry out a football program with only 14 players. As Pieper said, "Those were the days I had to be on the field. I don't mean as a coach; there weren't enough players so I was in the scrimmages, too."

Also at the banquet was Dr. Harry Hensler, former team physician for the Tars who was mending broken bones of football players in the early '30s.

Marin Catholic Has 7 In Baseball Game

Senior-studded Marin Catholic High School has placed seven players on the 15-man roster for the South team in the third annual Knights of Columbus North-South All-Star baseball game, scheduled for June 22 at Albert Park in San Rafael.

The game will pit an all-star team of graduating seniors from the four northernmost high schools in the Marin County Athletic League against an all-star team from the four southern schools. Proceeds will benefit the K of C scholarship fund.

The teams were chosen by head coaches of the schools in the respective areas, and announced by game director Mike Nelson.

Padres Tab Shortstop In Draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dave Roberts, a power hitting shortstop from the University of Oregon, today was selected by the San Diego Padres as the no. 1 pick in the eighth annual summer baseball draft.

Later, San Francisco picked Portland, Ore. pitcher Robert Dressler, a right-hander, while Oakland tabbed Los Angeles shortstop Chester Lemon.

ROBERTS

Roberts, 6-foot-3 and 216 pounds, batted .410 in 37 games for Oregon while hitting 12 home runs and driving in 47 runs.

The Cleveland Indians took Richard Manning, a 17-year-old high school sensation from Niagara Falls, N.Y. Manning, a shortstop, batted over .400 throughout his scholastic career and hit .614 this season.

Philadelphia selected Larry Christenson, a 6-4, 215-pound right-handed pitcher from Marysville, Wash. Christenson struck out 143 batters in 72 innings and walked only 12 while compiling an amazing 0.28 era.

TEXAS PICK

Texas picked Roy Lee Howell, a third baseman from Lompoc High School in California and Montreal selected Bobbie Goodman, a 17-year-old catcher from Memphis, Tenn., who batted .571 in high school.

Milwaukee took Danny Thomas, a 6-2, 190-pound sophomore infielder from Southern Illinois. Thomas batted .369 with five homers and 21 RBI's for the Salukis last season and led the team in stolen bases with 23.

Cincinnati took Larry Payne, a right-handed pitcher from Bedias, Tex., and Minnesota took Richard Ruthven, a right-handed pitcher from California State University, Fresno.

Houston selected Stephen Englishbey, an outfielder from

MRS. MC COLLISTER

Marinite In 2 Swim Wins

Mrs. Jane McCollister finished first in two events and second in three others to highlight the performances at the Marin Aquatic Club Masters Invitational swimming meet Sunday at San Rafael High School.

The field included approximately 50 competitors age 25 and older representing 14 swim teams from the Bay Area.

Mrs. McCollister, of the Marin Aquatic Club, won the 100-yard freestyle in 1:20.2, two full seconds better than her winning time at the National Masters meet last month. She also won the 100 individual medley in 1:27.8 and took second in the 100 breaststroke, 100 backstroke and 50 butterfly in the 50-54 age bracket.

Mrs. Beth Musser, coach of the Hamilton Air Force Base Voodoo swim team, continued her competitive comeback by winning the 100 back in the 45-49 bracket and taking second in the 100 free and 100 I.M. She had not competed for 30 years prior to the Nationals.

Other Marin County athletes to win events were Mrs. Nancy Ridout of Marin Aquatic Club in the women's 30-34 100 free and Dore Schwab of Marin in the men's 50-54 free.

The San Mateo Marlins won the team competition with 414 points: Marin had 124½ and the Santa Rosa Swim Club 123.

Other Marinites who placed:

WOMEN

Age 35-39 — Marilyn Kelly (Marin), 2nd, 100 breast; 3rd, 100 I.M.; 6th, 100 free.

200 Free Relay — 2nd, Marin Aquatic Club (Kay Campion, Rosemary Tufts, Nancy Ridout, Jane McCollister).

MEN

Age 35-39 — Stu Waters (Marin), 2nd, 100 I.M.; 2nd, 100 fly; 2nd, 100 free. Don Simmerville (Marin), 4th, 100 back; 5th, 100 free.

Age 25-29 — Tom Byrnes (Marin), 4th, 200 breast. Ed Kadel (Marin), 3rd, 200 breast; 4th, 100 free.

200 Free Relay — 2nd, Marin Aquatic Club (Dore Schwab, Stu Waters, Don Swartz, Ed Kadel).

200 Medley Relay — 3rd, Marin Aquatic Club (Schwab, Waters, Burns, Swartz).

ATLANTA, LONG ISLAND

NHL To Stock Two Expansion Squads

MONTREAL (UPI) — Atlanta and Long Island, the National Hockey League's two newest clubs, set the foundations for the teams they will ice in the 1972-73 season today during the second day of the annual NHL meetings.

In today's expansion draft, the two clubs can select 21 players each from the established team's unprotected lists and later in the inter-league draft they can clam any player on American or Western Hockey League reserve lists, regardless of ownership or playing rights.

The 14 established clubs have waived their rights to claim in these proceedings in favor of Atlanta and Long Island.

While the 14 other NHL teams have stepped aside for the two new clubs, the general managers of the two expansion clubs are worried, however, that they can lose drafted players to the World Hockey Association.

The opening day of the annual NHL get-together Monday was unexciting with six players changing teams at the price of $40,000 apiece.

The Vancouver Canucks selected Boston's Tannahill and Gerry O'Flaherty of the Toronto Maple Leafs. To keep thair roster at 18 men, the Canucks were forced to drop Ron Ward, who already has signed with the New York Raiders of the WHA.

The Los Angeles Kings chose Detroit Red Wing forward Doug Volmar and Chicago's Barry Lng, who played last year with Portland of the WHL.

A player exchange took place when Montreal failed to protect Larry Pleau and he was snapped up by Toronto. The Leafs then dropped defenseman Brad Selwood, who was scooped by the Canadiens for $30,000.

Both Pleau and Selwood already have signed WHA contracts with the New England Whalers.

The Buffalo Sabres picked up Tim Horton, the 42-year-old veteran defenseman, from the Pittsburgh Penguins. Horton had announced earlier this year he was reitiring from hockey to devote more of his time to his business interests.

A's Decision Indians, 3-2

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The red-hot Oakland A's seek their fifth victory in a row tonight when they clash with Cleveland in the second game of a three-game series.

The A's decisioned the Indians 3-2 Monday, the first meeting this season between the two teams.

Vida Blue, nursing an 0-2 record after a late start with the Athletics, was expected to be on the mound. Cleveland's Vince Colbert, 0-3, will start for the Indians.

Oakland commands a four-game lead over Chicago in the American League West, while Cleveland is 3 1-2 games behind Detroit in the A.L. East.

The first win over Cleveland came on a Campy Campaneris homer in the 10th.

Oakland's first two runs came on a Reggie Jackson round-tripper in the third. John Odom had singled and worked his way to third. He strolled in after Jackson connected with a Gaylord Perry pitch and sent it 400 feet away over the center field fence.

It was Jackson's 11th homer

Giants To Host Cards Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Giants, who trail every team in the National League West, host the St. Louis Cardinals today, who trail everyone in the N.L. East but Philadelphia.

The skidding Giants will open with their most effective starting pitcher, Steve Stone. For added measure they will have their starting manager back from the hospital.

Stone (3-4) has not lost in his last three starts. He allowed only one run and 17 hits in pitching the consecutive wins.

Starting for the Cards will be Rick Wise, who is 4-5 on the season.

Back in the dugout tonight with the Giants will be manager Charlie Fox, released from the hospital following an operation for kidney stones.

"I'd feel a lot better if the team had at least split," Fox said after his Giants lost a doubleheader to Pittsburgh on Sunday. They were idle Monday.

Meanwhile, Giants president Horace Stoneham last night denied a report that pitcher Juan Marichal would be traded to Pittsburgh. "We have no thought of trading Juan. There's nothing to it," Stoneham explained.

However, Stoneham pointed out that Philadelphia had approached him last April regarding a possible Marichal trade. Stoneham told the Phillies that the Giants wanted pitching. That seemed to end the negotiations.

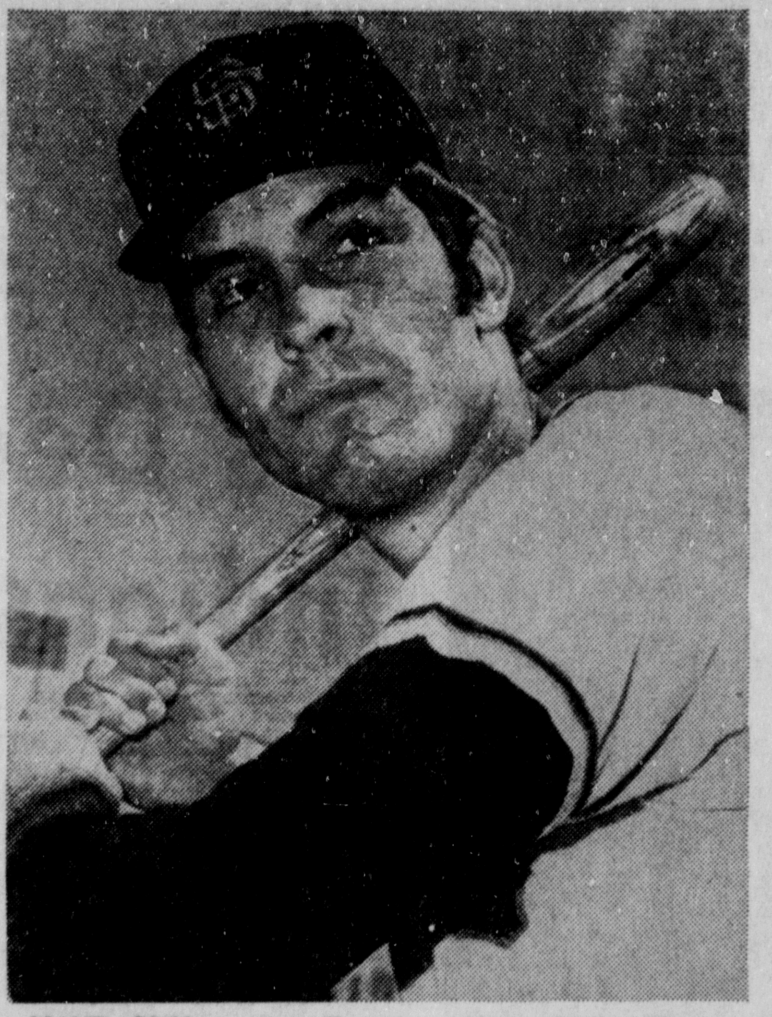
Kingman Is Proving Merit Of Fox Praise

Giant Star Displaying Potent Bat



GIANT GEM — San Francisco Giant slugger Dave Kingman coiled before unleashing the power that has enabled him to lead the National League in home runs, 14, and runs batted in, 38. (UPI Telephoto)

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox has said that Lanky Dave Kingman will be a superstar.

And the 24-year-old USC graduate is wielding his bat as if he has already attained that status.

Kingman is leading the National League in home runs with 14—one more than Cincinnati's Johnny Bench—and in RBIs with 38—three more than Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell.

He was tagged 43 hits in 187 times at the plate for a .230 average.

In the last month he has provided the muscle in the Giants' attempt to climb out of the low rungs of the Western Division. The club's other slugger, Willie McCovey, has been sidelined with a fractured arm, returning to the lineup only the past weekend.

This is Kingman's first full season with the Giants. In 1970 the 6-foot-6 righthander played his first professional baseball with Amarillo where he hit .295.

Fox said at the start of this season, "The kid had more poise than I've seen in a long time for a rookie.

"He's got talent that hasn't even been discovered and there's no question in my mind he will be a superstar in this game."

With McCovey back in the lineup, Kingman has switched from first base to third.

The fact that he is 6-foot-6 has not hampered his defensive play at third. His quickness, agility and good hands have made him an infield asset where the drives and grounders come ablistering.

Kingman is most happy when McCovey is in the lineup because he bats just ahead of Willie. Pitchers must give him good pitches in an attempt to keep the bases as empty as possible when McCovey lumbers up to the plate.

Batting coach Hank Bauer has worked closely with Kingman, but he said he hasn't changed Kingman's swing much.

At first, Bauer said, Kingman had a tendency to chase outside pitches and try to pull them.

But Bauer said he has been overcoming this minor flaw.

And it is certain opposing pitchers realize this.

JACK HANLEY

A Matter Of Pride For Giants' Stone

Steve Stone's pride was jolted when the Giants sent him back to the minors in midseason last year. It happened in Pittsburgh, July 20. And that was ironical for it was in Pittsburgh that Stone won his first major league game on April 23, a 2-0, five-hit shutout against the Pirates who were to become baseball's 1971 world champions.

That initial victory over the Pirates was followed with wins over Atlanta and Montreal by Stone and by the end of May his record was 4-1. But in June and July he was making second appearances against batters. They began belting line drives off the young right-hander. Between June 1 and July 18 Stone made nine starts. He was the loser in eight of them. The hits finally mounted to 106, exactly the number of innings pitched by Stone.

SOMEWHERE ALONG the line Stone lost confidence in his breaking stuff and the batters just waited for his fast ball. Batters dug in at the plate against Stone. They were quick to notice that he was a gentlemanly pitcher who didn't knock batters down.

"Stone will be all right," said Charlie Fox when he sent the young man to Phoenix. "He'll be back with us. You can be sure of that."

Stone, now 24 and a year older, is back with the Giants and the other night in Candlestick Park he brought in his third consecutive complete game victory, a 5-2, five-hitter over the Dodgers whom he had shutout 1-0 eight days before in Los Angeles.

IN THAT SHUTOUT, his first win of 1972 after losing three in relief roles and one in a complete game during which he allowed just three runs, Stone did something that upset Frank Robinson. Stone sent Robinson sprawling in the ninth inning with a tight fast ball after which the Dodger slugger grounded out.

"I wasn't throwing at you," Stone told Robinson as he crossed the infield, returning to the Dodger dugout from first base.

"I never said you were," replied Robinson.

WHEN STONE faced the Dodgers again in Candlestick, June 1, Robinson was resting. Bill Buckner was in right field for him. Buckner had gotten the first hit of the game off Stone, a first inning single. When Buckner came up the second time in the fourth, Stone somersaulted him into the dirt with a tight fast one and then Buckner grounded out.

Stone learned last year that batters will take a pitcher's bread and butter away from him if permitted to dig in. But Stone learned other things, too, while he was pitching his way back to the big time. At Phoenix he learned how to control his breaking stuff. And he also put an effective polish on his changeup.

Darwin Double Keys Minnesota Triumph

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Bobby Darwin's sixth-inning double sent the Baltimore Orioles down to their fourth straight defeat as the Minnesota Twins rallied for a 3-2 victory Monday night. Meanwhile, Oakland tipped Cleveland 3-2 in 10 innings.

Darwin opened the Twins' fourth with a single, stopped at second when Steve Brye scratched a hit off McNally's leg and Soderholm's two-bagger to deep center scored both runners.

Killebrew singled behind the second base bag to open the sixth inning and infielder Dave Johnson's throw on a putout attempt sailed into the Twins' dugout giving Killebrew second base. Darwin's sixth double of the season scored Killebrew.

Pittsburgh at San Diego was postponed because of rain in the only other major league game scheduled.

FISH AND GAME

Herman—A Man With Answers

By AL GIDDINGS

Who's Herman? For the last couple of years, whenever the Marin Rod and Gun Club pier keepers had a problem involving fish and game, they usually picked up the phone and dialed either me or Herman.

Last Saturday, Game Warden Russ Ild of Mill Valley dropped by the pier to check fishermen. Frank Spencer, one of the keepers there greeted him with, "Hello Herman. How are things going?" This had happened before, with Russ just taking it in stride. But Saturday he decided to question Frank as to why he always called him "Herman".

FRANK SAID, "Why, I've been calling you for the past two years on the pnone, and I always call you Herman." In fact, I've got the name Herman and your phone number listed here under game warden."

The phone number didn't match Russ's either, so for the past two years someone named Herman has been the official Marin Rod and Gun Club lawmaker and answerman. Wonder what the real Herman has been thinking all these years.

Saturday some stripers were brought into the rod and gun club dock by fishermen trolling the bridge, or "shiner fishing" over at The Brothers Islands. At Loch Lomond, Bill Boyle of the Loch Lomond live bait barge said he sold about 125 dozen shiners to the Saturday drift fishermen who use live bait.

HE HAD about 30 fish weighed through his station there with the largest going 27 pounds, taken by Grant Howe of San Francisco. Grant is one of the Loch Lomond regulars. I checked Grant Sunday about 11 a.m. and he had two. He said the south brisk wind ruined the fishing, as the drift was one way and the wind was the other. It was rough and cold also. The 50 or so boats working the outgoing rip tides had nothing but trouble. That's fishing!

Even though the bay was rough, the ocean off Rocky Point and Stinson Beach was generally calm. Best salmon I heard of this week was a 35-pounder taken by Mrs. Mickey Lauchinaur of Santa Venetia. It's June already and usually from July on, those big fish are closer to the shoreline. Also starting in July, Tomales Bay just outside the mouth serves up some real trophies each year. Halbut fishing should begin to pick up there too, but stay home if it's windy and the bar is breaking. If it's flat its great; if it's rough, it can kill you!

TROUT PLANTS are scheduled for Bon Tempe, Lagunitas and Phoenix reservoirs in Marin County this week. The east branch of the Russian River is also scheduled for a plant.

President Richard Nixon has just signed a National Hunting and Fishing Day into existance. Public Law 92-285 has just been signed and will be a reality on Sept. 23. The celebration is planned to dramatize the invaluable contributions made by the nation's hunters and fishermen in the conservation of fish and wildlife resources, and to encourage broader public participation in all phases of conservation work.

THE DEPARTMENT of Fish and Game again issued its yearly warning to well meaning nature observers to leave fawns that are seen in fields or along roadways right where they are. If you pick the animals up, you may be dooming them to an early death. Although the tiny animals may appear to have been abandoned by their mother, chances are the adult mother deer will shortly return and take charge of its young.

You are also violating the Fish and Game Code. Each spring a number of arrests are made of well meaning people who make the mistake of picking up fawns. Latest to make this mistake was a Napa County College student. He appeared in the St. Helena Justice Court May 31, and after pleading nole contendre to a charge of taking a live fawn, he was fined $125, suspended on condition he put two days in the county prison's work program.

Tough Time For Sonoma Baseballers

California State College, Sonoma, baseball fans can find little to cheer about in the final Far Western Conference baseball statistics released by the league office.

The Cossacks were last in the standings with a 1-17 league record, 5-41 over-all. California State at Sacramento and the University of California at Davis tied for the championship with 12-6 records.

Sonoma was last in team batting with a .186 average. Only three players hit above .200 and only one above .214. Ron Petroni led the Cossacks with an average of .293, ranking 21st in the leauge.

Sonoma pitchers had similar problems. Len Hoffman, formerly of San Marin High School, ranked 18th among FWC hurlers with a 4.63 earned run average and an 0-2 record. The Cossacks' most frequently used pitcher, Mike Gogan, was 0-6 with a 4.82 ERA.

Sonoma had no leaders in any batting or pitching departments. The team finished sixth in fielding with a .934 percentage.

Astros' Watson Is N.L. Player Of Month

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Outfielder Bob Watson has become the first member of the Houston Astros to be named the National League Player of the Month since the club was organized in 1962.

Watson earned the nomination from a panel of sports writers and broadcasters after compiling a .370 batting average with six homers during the month of May.

Track Star Admits Steroid Use

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

LOS ANGELES — Randy Matson, who holds the world shot put record at 71 feet, 5½ inches, admitted yesterday that he took steroids to increase his strength and pep a few years ago.

"I knew it was illegal," Matson told the Southern California track and field writers, "but I understand there isn't any test that will detect its use."

"When I heard it was dangerous to a person's health, I quit taking them," he said. "There is more to life than track and field. I didn't want to take a chance of hurting myself."

LOS ANGELES — Jeff Bennett of the U.S. Army won the 1,500 meters in 4:08.9 seconds, the final event, to come from behind Monday and capture the National Amateur Athletic Union Decathlon Championship with 7,910 points. Jeff Banister of the Decathlon Club of America was second with 7,890 points.

Horse Racing

BOSTON — The race-fixing trial of five men was to go to the jury today in Suffolk Superior Court.

Judge James C. Roy was scheduled to charge the jury before deliberations began involving conspiracy charges against attorney Edwin A. Nelson, Jr., of Brockton, Mass.; William Barnoski of Somerville, Mass.; Anthony Ciulla of Stoneham, Mass.; Salvatore Macarelli of Nahant, Mass.; and Barnum Sardonis of Rumford, R.I.

Authorities allege the defendants plotted to drug two horses in the nine races at Suffolk Downs in East Boston last April 23.

Tennis

MEXICO CITY — Stan Smith, the No. 1 ranked U.S. tennis player, was due to arrive here today to join his four teammates for Davis Cup Competition against Mexico June 16-18.

"We have about a 70 per cent chance of winning," team captain Dennis Ralston said as he arrived yesterday.

Hockey

BOSTON — Bobby Orr, the National Hockey League's most Valuable Player, was to undergo surgery on his left knee today at Massachusetts General Hospital.

The Boston Bruins' defenseman, who entered the hospital Monday night, originally had been reported set for surgery Friday. No explanation was given for the move-up of the operation.

Orr was troubled by a loose cartilage or bone chips in the knee through the end of the 1971-72 season and during the Stanley Cup playoffs, which the Bruins won.

Golf

NEW YORK — Doug Sanders has vaulted 18 places in professional golf's weekly money-winning list as a result of his victory last Sunday in the Kemper Open, it was announced yesterday by the Professional Golfers Association Tournament Players Division.

Sanders, who received $35,000 for winning the tournament at Charlotte, N.C., climbed from 26th to eighth place as he brought his earnings this year to $74,232. Last year Sanders won $24,891.

Jack Nicklaus continues to lead the money list, even though he did not play in the Kemper Open. Nicklaus has earned $156,051.

Lee Trevino, a second place finisher at Charlotte, has moved into second place with $118,397 followed in order by Jerry Heard ($110,111), George Archer ($106,963), Tom Weiskopf ($97,179), Bobby Mitchell ($85,665), Bruce Crampton ($84,243), Sanders, Bob Murphy ($72,482) and Dave Hill ($71,997).

Kennedy Games' 'Flavor'

BERKELEY (UPI) —Saturday's Kennedy Games at Berkeley will have an international flavor, with the addition of sprinter Roger Bambuck, hurdler Guy Drut and long jumper Jacques Pani of France.

The international stars confirmed Monday that they would compete in the Kennedy Games shortly after Cal coach and meet director Dave Maggard discussed the meet before a press luncheon.

Drut has already decisioned Olympic king Willie Davenport this year and has a best of 13.3 in the high hurdles. But awaiting him at Berkeley is world record holder Rod Milburn.

The shotput will include history's three 70-footers, Randy Matson, Al Feuerbach and George Woods, who just hit the magic mark last weekend.

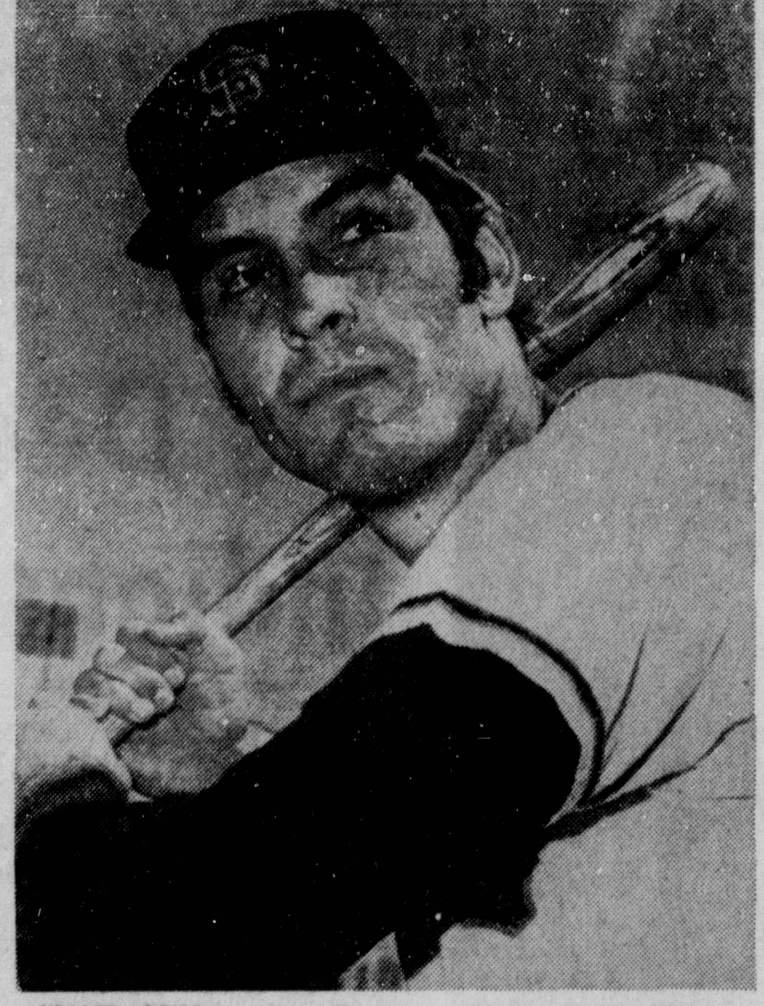
Kingman Is Proving Merit Of Fox Praise

Giant Star Displaying Potent Bat



GIANT GEM — San Francisco Giant slugger Dave Kingman coiled before unleashing the power that has enabled him to lead the National League in home runs, 14, and runs batted in, 38. (UPI Telephoto)

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco Manager Charlie Fox has said that Lanky Dave Kingman will be a superstar.

And the 24-year-old USC graduate is wielding his bat as if he has already attained that status.

Kingman is leading the National League in home runs with 14—one more than Cincinnati's Johnny Bench—and in RBIs with 38—three more than Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell.

He was tagged 43 hits in 187 times at the plate for a .230 average.

In the last month he has provided the muscle in the Giants' attempt to climb out of the low rungs of the Western Division. The club's other slugger, Willie McCovey, has been sidelined with a fractured arm, returning to the lineup only the past weekend.

This is Kingman's first full season with the Giants. In 1970 the 6-foot-6 righthander played his first professional baseball with Amarillo where he hit .295.

Fox said at the start of this season, "The kid had more poise than I've seen in a long time for a rookie.

"He's got talent that hasn't even been discovered and there's no question in my mind he will be a superstar in this game."

With McCovey back in the lineup, Kingman has switched from first base to third.

The fact that he is 6-foot-6 has not hampered his defensive play at third. His quickness, agility and good hands have made him an infield asset where the drives and grounders come ablistering.

Kingman is most happy when McCovey is in the lineup because he bats just ahead of Willie. Pitchers must give him good pitches in an attempt to keep the bases as empty as possible when McCovey lumbers up to the plate.

Batting coach Hank Bauer has worked closely with Kingman, but he said he hasn't changed Kingman's swing much.

At first, Bauer said, Kingman had a tendency to chase outside pitches and try to pull them.

But Bauer said he has been overcoming this minor flaw.

And it is certain opposing pitchers realize this.

JACK HANLEY

A Matter Of Pride For Giants' Stone

Steve Stone's pride was jolted when the Giants sent him back to the minors in midseason last year. It happened in Pittsburgh, July 20. And that was ironical for it was in Pittsburgh that Stone won his first major league game on April 23, a 2-0, five-hit shutout against the Pirates who were to become baseball's 1971 world champions.

That initial victory over the Pirates was followed with wins over Atlanta and Montreal by Stone and by the end of May his record was 4-1. But in June and July he was making second appearances against batters. They began belting line drives off the young right-hander. Between June 1 and July 18 Stone made nine starts. He was the loser in eight of them. The hits finally mounted to 106, exactly the number of innings pitched by Stone.

SOMEWHERE ALONG the line Stone lost confidence in his breaking stuff and the batters just waited for his fast ball. Batters dug in at the plate against Stone. They were quick to notice that he was a gentlemanly pitcher who didn't knock batters down.

"Stone will be all right," said Charlie Fox when he sent the young man to Phoenix. "He'll be back with us. You can be sure of that."

Stone, now 24 and a year older, is back with the Giants and the other night in Candlestick Park he brought in his third consecutive complete game victory, a 5-2, five-hitter over the Dodgers whom he had shutout 1-0 eight days before in Los Angeles.

IN THAT SHUTOUT, his first win of 1972 after losing three in relief roles and one in a complete game during which he allowed just three runs, Stone did something that upset Frank Robinson. Stone sent Robinson sprawling in the ninth inning with a tight fast ball after which the Dodger slugger grounded out.

"I wasn't throwing at you," Stone told Robinson as he crossed the infield, returning to the Dodger dugout from first base.

"I never said you were," replied Robinson.

WHEN STONE faced the Dodgers again in Candlestick, June 1, Robinson was resting. Bill Buckner was in right field for him. Buckner had gotten the first hit of the game off Stone, a first inning single. When Buckner came up the second time in the fourth, Stone somersaulted him into the dirt with a tight fast one and then Buckner grounded out.

Stone learned last year that batters will take a pitcher's bread and butter away from him if permitted to dig in. But Stone learned other things, too, while he was pitching his way back to the big time. At Phoenix he learned how to control his breaking stuff. And he also put an effective polish on his changeup.

South Houston, Tex., and California named David Chalk, a third baseman at the University of Texas.

HANNA

Atlanta grabbed Preston Hanna, a right-handed pitcher from Pensacola, Fla., and the Chicago White Sox took Mike Ondina, a centerfielder from Cordova.

The New York Mets selected Richard Bengston, a catcher from Peioria, Ill., and the new York Yankees took Scott McGregor, a left-handed pitcher from El Segundo.

The Chicago Cubs picked Brian Vernoy, a left-handed pitcher from Westminster, and Boston took Joel Bishop, a shortstop from Sacramento. Los Angeles selected John Harbin, a shortstop from Whittier.

Detroit grabbed Jerry Manuel, a shortstop from Rancho Cordova and St. Louis took Dan Larson, a right-handed pitcher from Alhambra.

Pittsburgh took Dwane Peltier, a shortstop from Anaheim, and the Baltimore Orioles completed the first round by taking Ken Thomas, a catcher from Bellville, Ohio.

of the season and gave him the lead in the league.

The Indians scored in the seventh when Alex Johnson came home on a Craig Nettles single.

Cleveland tied it in the eighth when Eddie Leon hit 320 feet over the left field fence.

After the game, Cleveland manager Ken Aspromonte lauded the A's as "the best overall hitting team I've seen. They've got six guys who can beat you with one swing. They're better than Baltimore by far."

Two Receivers At The Raiders' Rookie Camp

SANTA ROSA (UPI)—Rookie wide receivers Mike Siani of Villanova and Cliff Branch of Colorado both signed up at the Oakland Raiders rookie camp, thus turning away from other sports opportunities.

Siani was a sought after baseball prospect and Branch was a world class sprinter given a chance of making the U.S. Olympic team.

But they gave similar explanations as Siani said simply "I lika football more than baseball" and Branch said only "football has always been my game."

Darwin Double Keys Minnesota Triumph

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Bobby Darwin's sixth-inning double sent the Baltimore Orioles down to their fourth straight defeat as the Minnesota Twins rallied for a 3-2 victory Monday night. Meanwhile, Oakland tipped Cleveland 3-2 in 10 innings.

Darwin opened the Twins' fourth with a single, stopped at second when Steve Brye scratched a hit off McNally's leg and Soderholm's two-bagger to deep center scored both runners.

Killebrew singled behind the second base bag to open the sixth inning and infielder Dave Johnson's throw on a putout attempt sailed into the Twins' dugout giving Killebrew second base. Darwin's sixth double of the season scored Killebrew.

Pittsburgh at San Diego was postponed because of rain in the only other major league game scheduled.

FISH AND GAME

Herman—A Man With Answers

By AL GIDDINGS

Who's Herman? For the last couple of years, whenever the Marin Rod and Gun Club pier keepers had a problem involving fish and game, they usually picked up the phone and dialed either me or Herman.

Last Saturday, Game Warden Russ Ild of Mill Valley dropped by the pier to check fishermen. Frank Spencer, one of the keepers there greeted him with, "Hello Herman. How are things going?" This had happened before, with Russ just taking it in stride. But Saturday he decided to question Frank as to why he always called him "Herman".

FRANK SAID, "Why, I've been calling you for the past two years on the pnone, and I always call you Herman." In fact, I've got the name Herman and your phone number listed here under game warden."

The phone number didn't match Russ's either, so for the past two years someone named Herman has been the official Marin Rod and Gun Club lawmaker and answerman. Wonder what the real Herman has been thinking all these years.

Saturday some stripers were brought into the rod and gun club dock by fishermen trolling the bridge, or "shiner fishing" over at The Brothers Islands. At Loch Lomond, Bill Boyle of the Loch Lomond live bait barge said he sold about 125 dozen shiners to the Saturday drift fishermen who use live bait.

HE HAD about 30 fish weighed through his station there with the largest going 27 pounds, taken by Grant Howe of San Francisco. Grant is one of the Loch Lomond regulars. I checked Grant Sunday about 11 a.m. and he had two. He said the south brisk wind ruined the fishing, as the drift was one way and the wind was the other. It was rough and cold also. The 50 or so boats working the outgoing rip tides had nothing but trouble. That's fishing!

Even though the bay was rough, the ocean off Rocky Point and Stinson Beach was generally calm. Best salmon I heard of this week was a 35-pounder taken by Mrs. Mickey Lauchinaur of Santa Venetia. It's June already and usually from July on, those big fish are closer to the shoreline. Also starting in July, Tomales Bay just outside the mouth serves up some real trophies each year. Halbut fishing should begin to pick up there too, but stay home if it's windy and the bar is breaking. If it's flat its great; if it's rough, it can kill you!

TROUT PLANTS are scheduled for Bon Tempe, Lagunitas and Phoenix reservoirs in Marin County this week. The east branch of the Russian River is also scheduled for a plant.

President Richard Nixon has just signed a National Hunting and Fishing Day into existance. Public Law 92-285 has just been signed and will be a reality on Sept. 23. The celebration is planned to dramatize the invaluable contributions made by the nation's hunters and fishermen in the conservation of fish and wildlife resources, and to encourage broader public participation in all phases of conservation work.

THE DEPARTMENT of Fish and Game again issued its yearly warning to well meaning nature observers to leave fawns that are seen in fields or along roadways right where they are. If you pick the animals up, you may be dooming them to an early death. Although the tiny animals may appear to have been abandoned by their mother, chances are the adult mother deer will shortly return and take charge of its young.

You are also violating the Fish and Game Code. Each spring a number of arrests are made of well meaning people who make the mistake of picking up fawns. Latest to make this mistake was a Napa County College student. He appeared in the St. Helena Justice Court May 31, and after pleading nole contendre to a charge of taking a live fawn, he was fined $125, suspended on condition he put two days in the county prison's work program.

Tough Time For Sonoma Baseballers

California State College, Sonoma, baseball fans can find little to cheer about in the final Far Western Conference baseball statistics released by the league office.

The Cossacks were last in the standings with a 1-17 league record, 5-41 over-all. California State at Sacramento and the University of California at Davis tied for the championship with 12-6 records.

Sonoma was last in team batting with a .186 average. Only three players hit above .200 and only one above .214. Ron Petroni led the Cossacks with an average of .293, ranking 21st in the leauge.

Sonoma pitchers had similar problems. Len Hoffman, formerly of San Marin High School, ranked 18th among FWC hurlers with a 4.63 earned run average and an 0-2 record. The Cossacks' most frequently used pitcher, Mike Gogan, was 0-6 with a 4.82 ERA.

Sonoma had no leaders in any batting or pitching departments. The team finished sixth in fielding with a .934 percentage.

Astros' Watson Is N.L. Player Of Month

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Outfielder Bob Watson has become the first member of the Houston Astros to be named the National League Player of the Month since the club was organized in 1962.

Watson earned the nomination from a panel of sports writers and broadcasters after compiling a .370 batting average with six homers during the month of May.

Track Star Admits Steroid Use

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

LOS ANGELES — Randy Matson, who holds the world shot put record at 71 feet, 5½ inches, admitted yesterday that he took steroids to increase his strength and pep a few years ago.

"I knew it was illegal," Matson told the Southern California track and field writers, "but I understand there isn't any test that will detect its use."

"When I heard it was dangerous to a person's health, I quit taking them," he said. "There is more to life than track and field. I didn't want to take a chance of hurting myself."

LOS ANGELES — Jeff Bennett of the U.S. Army won the 1,500 meters in 4:08.9 seconds, the final event, to come from behind Monday and capture the National Amateur Athletic Union Decathlon Championship with 7,910 points. Jeff Banister of the Decathlon Club of America was second with 7,890 points.

Horse Racing

BOSTON — The race-fixing trial of five men was to go to the jury today in Suffolk Superior Court.

Judge James C. Roy was scheduled to charge the jury before deliberations began involving conspiracy charges against attorney Edwin A. Nelson, Jr., of Brockton, Mass.; William Barnoski of Somerville, Mass.; Anthony Ciulla of Stoneham, Mass.; Salvatore Macarelli of Nahant, Mass.; and Barnum Sardonis of Rumford, R.I.

Authorities allege the defendants plotted to drug two horses in the nine races at Suffolk Downs in East Boston last April 23.

Tennis

MEXICO CITY — Stan Smith, the No. 1 ranked U.S. tennis player, was due to arrive here today to join his four teammates for Davis Cup Competition against Mexico June 16-18.

"We have about a 70 per cent chance of winning," team captain Dennis Ralston said as he arrived yesterday.

Hockey

BOSTON — Bobby Orr, the National Hockey League's most Valuable Player, was to undergo surgery on his left knee today at Massachusetts General Hospital.

The Boston Bruins' defenseman, who entered the hospital Monday night, originally had been reported set for surgery Friday. No explanation was given for the move-up of the operation.

Orr was troubled by a loose cartilage or bone chips in the knee through the end of the 1971-72 season and during the Stanley Cup playoffs, which the Bruins won.

Golf

NEW YORK — Doug Sanders has vaulted 18 places in professional golf's weekly money-winning list as a result of his victory last Sunday in the Kemper Open, it was announced yesterday by the Professional Golfers Association Tournament Players Division.

Sanders, who received $35,000 for winning the tournament at Charlotte, N.C., climbed from 26th to eighth place as he brought his earnings this year to $74,232. Last year Sanders won $24,891.

Jack Nicklaus continues to lead the money list, even though he did not play in the Kemper Open. Nicklaus has earned $156,051.

Lee Trevino, a second place finisher at Charlotte, has moved into second place with $118,397 followed in order by Jerry Heard ($110,111), George Archer ($106,963), Tom Weiskopf ($97,179), Bobby Mitchell ($85,665), Bruce Crampton ($84,243), Sanders, Bob Murphy ($72,482) and Dave Hill ($71,997).

Kennedy Games' 'Flavor'

BERKELEY (UPI) —Saturday's Kennedy Games at Berkeley will have an international flavor, with the addition of sprinter Roger Bambuck, hurdler Guy Drut and long jumper Jacques Pani of France.

The international stars confirmed Monday that they would compete in the Kennedy Games shortly after Cal coach and meet director Dave Maggard discussed the meet before a press luncheon.

Drut has already decisioned Olympic king Willie Davenport this year and has a best of 13.3 in the high hurdles. But awaiting him at Berkeley is world record holder Rod Milburn.

The shotput will include history's three 70-footers, Randy Matson, Al Feuerbach and George Woods, who just hit the magic mark last weekend.

Not to be confused with Steel Radial. It's simply a regular tire with a steel belt in the tread. But Cain's sure has them bargain priced.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Potential Good For National Cash

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. On professional advice, I purchased 200 shares of National Cash Register (NYSE) about 14 months ago. Should I sell this stock or does it stand a chance for appreciation? — R.G.

A. NCR should be held for its promising turnaround potential. An anticipated first quarter deficit equal to 31 cents a share resulted from a strike which was terminated Jan. 31, start-up costs on new products and expenses from re-engineering a computer peripheral product. Full year earnings, however, should make a significant recovery. Three new products will be introduced later this year: a computer and two accounting machines.

Longer term, the recently completed agreements with Control Data should importantly strengthen National Cash Register's position in the computer field. The "close working relationship," if approved by the Justice Department, will broaden product lines, reduce R&D costs as well as product expenses, since duplication will be eliminated and costs shared.

Q. I purchased Hammond Organ about 5 years ago but it doesn't seem to get anywhere. Also should I sell American Tel. & Tel? I am 73 years old and alone. L.N.

A. While at this point I would recommend retaining these two NYSE-listed issues, the rationale for doing so is different in each case. Telephone will undoubtedly continue to produce an above-average yield with comparatively little downside risk. Thus, this low-risk, high-return stock is well-suited to your investment needs.

Hammond Corp. (formerly Hammond Organ) is a speculation on earnings recovery and is not the best type of security for your portfolio, long term. However, I suggest holding for the predicted profit rebound which should carry over to trading levels.

For the year ended March, a marginal gain in earnings is looked for with significant improvement over the balance of the current fiscal year. A new integrated circuit organ model introduced in January has been well accepted by the trade. Other models are also selling at a brisk pace.

Market In Mixed Mood At Opening

NEW YORK (UPI) —Prices turned mixed to slightly lower during the first two hours today under some selling pressure. Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was moderate.

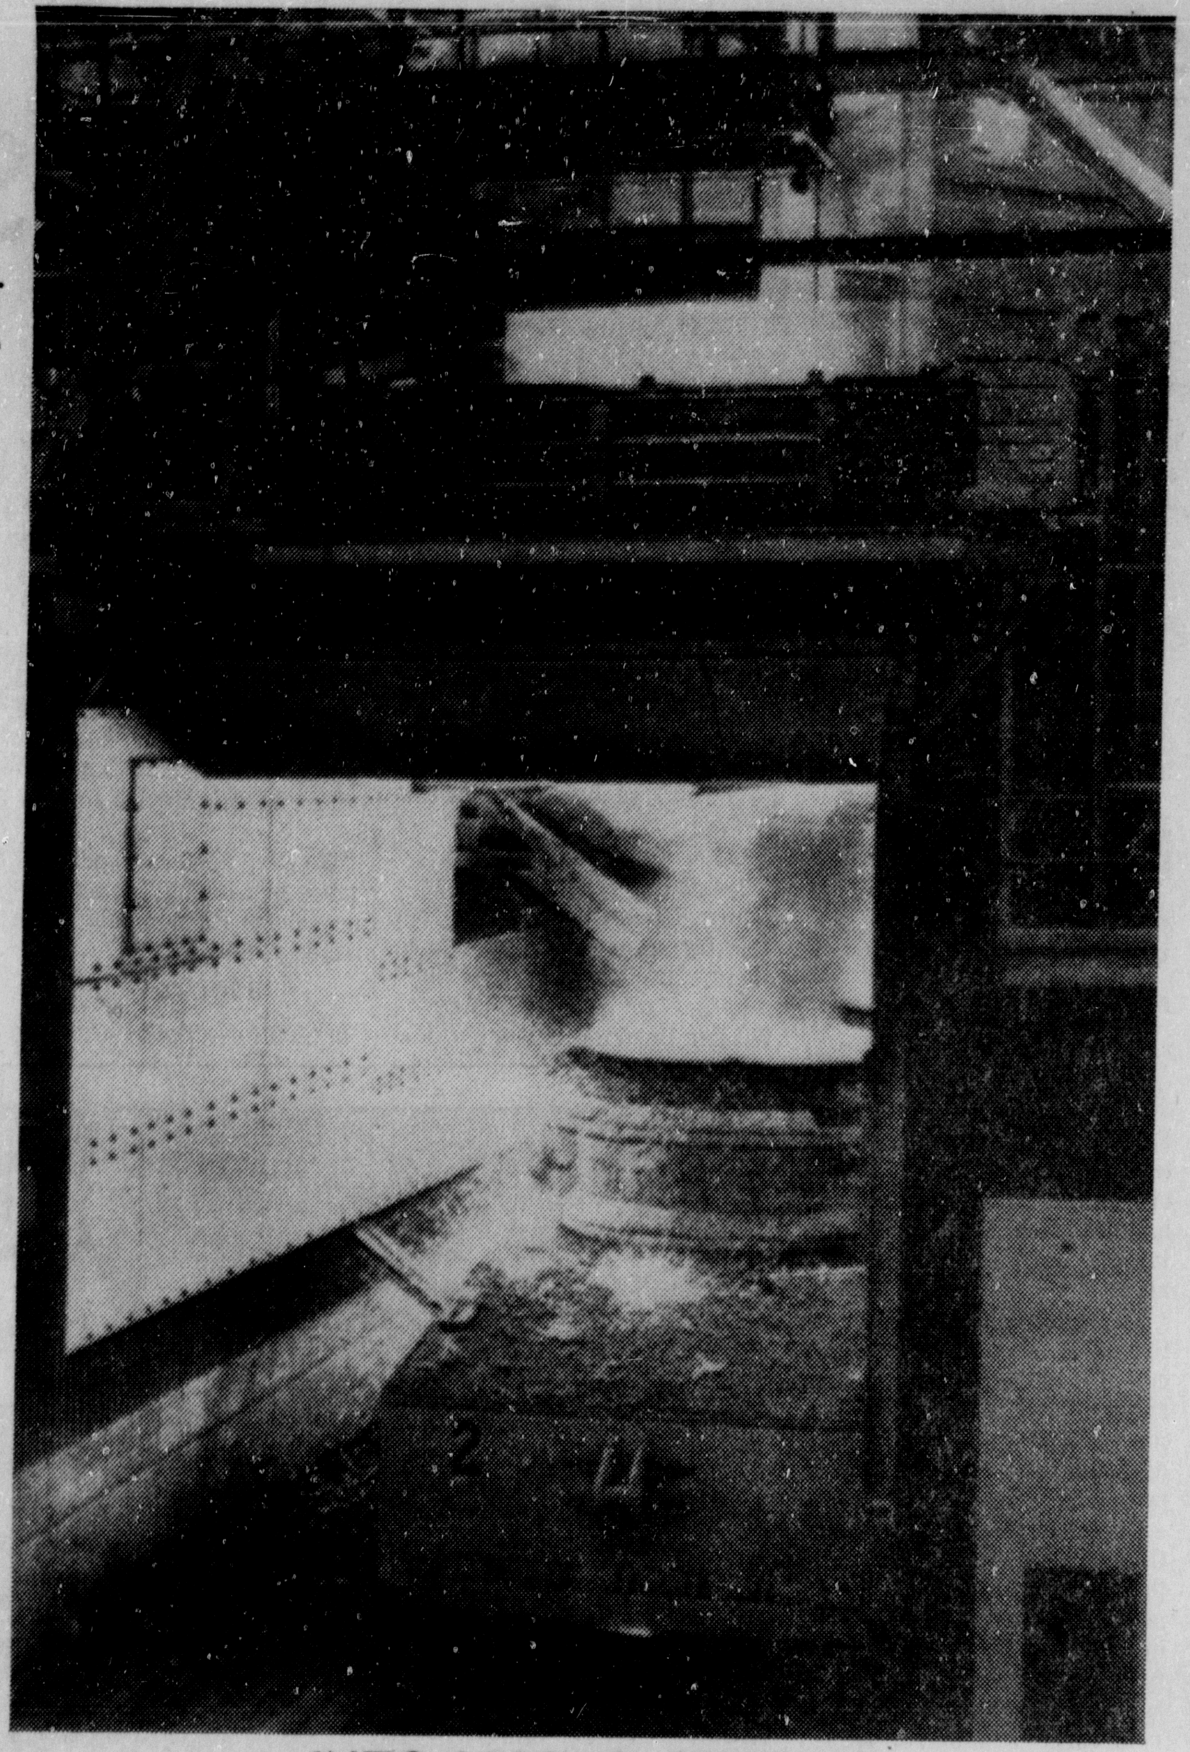
There were a few large block trades, indicating institutions are selling. One reason was that mutual fund redemptions are at record highs some analysts said.

Massey-Ferguson was the most active issue with a block of 200,300 shares at 15, off ¼. McDonnell-Douglas was second, primarily because of a block of 203,300 shares at 41, off 1 ¼. Levitz Furniture was third, up 2 ½.

Prices also were mixed to slightly lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Among the glamors, Schlumberger dropped 2, Corning Glass 1 ⅜. But Polaroid, which has been hit hard recently by profit taking, rebounded.

Gold mining issues also were higher, apparently in reaction to sharp increases in free market gold prices. Dome Mines rose 2 ½, and Campbell Red Lake, American-South Afridan and Homestake Mining, all more than a point.



INTO SECOND CENTURY

Twenty tons of molten steel pour into a ladle of the historic Edgar Thomson Works of the U.S. Steel Corp. plant in Braddock, Pa. The plant was named after Thomson who was a close friend of steel magnate Andrew Carnegie. The Thomson plant recently embarked on its second 100 years of operation. (UPI Telephoto)

Safeway Store On B Street To Undergo $300,000 In Remodeling

Safeway Store in San Rafael, on B Street near Second, will get a $300,000 remodeling and expansion job, starting in two or three weeks.

The job will take about five months, but the store will remain open throughout the period of remodeling.

"It will look like a completely new store when completed this fall," said Clyde Coletti, construction department manager in San Francisco.

A new entrance will be built in front of the building, facing B Street, and the present right entrance (as you face the building) will be closed off to create a separate liquor sale section. Other changes include the closing in of the dock area in the back of the building to provide more storage room, and expansion of the sales area by pushing back the produce cases.

Coletti said the increase in the floor area will be only 500 or 600 square feet, but the extensive remodeling and change in entranceway will give it a brand new appearance. The remodeling should be completed in November.

PAYLESS DRUG will be among the major stores that will open up branches in the new Corte Madera shopping center planned by Ernest W. Hahn Inc. in the area east of Highway 101 and north of Paradise Drive.

This branch will be in addition to the large new Payless store that will go into Northgate Mall in the building formerly occupied by City of Paris.

As previously announced, Macy's and J.C. Penney also plan to open stores in the Hahn Shopping Center in Corte Madera.

EDWARD H. MARGOLIN of Novato has been named vice president of marketing for Farrar, Herrick & Associates, a development company with offices in San Rafael and San Bernardino.

Margolin is manager of the firm's San Rafael office at 1330 Lincoln Avenue and formerly directed marketing activities in Northern California. His new duties cover marketing for the organization throughout the United States.

Farrar, Herrick & Associates has separate divisions for real estate development, construction, real estate syndication, and property management.

Margolin Le Febure

TAMBLYN LE FEBURE of Larkspur, manager of First Western Bank's Northern California credit department, has been promoted to assistant vice president.

Le Febure began his banking career in 1965 as an examiner with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. He has been with First Western since 1969.

LAURA ALUMBAUGH, 17, Novato High School senior who also completed one year at College of Marin at the same time, won the $500 Archie Culpepper award at the breakfast meeting of the Marin County Board of Realtors this morning. An additional award of $250 went to Janet Carrier, 17, of Forest Knolls, a student at Drake High School.

The scholarship award is given by the Board of Realtors to a Marin student who wants to go into business administration and is interested in real estate. The award perpetuates the memory of long-time board member and past president, Archie Culpepper.

Miss Alumbaugh plans to attend Santa Clara University and major in business administration. Miss Carrier plans to enroll at College of Marin and Humboldt State College, majoring in forestry and conservation.

Miss Alumbaugh Miss Carrier

AMAZING GRACE Music Shop at 67 Red Hill Avenue (Miracle Mile) in San Anselmo, opposite the Zebedee Restaurant, has just changed hands.

Stephen T. Young of San Anselmo, who owned the store for two years, sold it to David C. Crummey of Lagunitas, a singer, guitarist and teacher. Crummey will retain the name Amazing Grace Music. The shop specializes in guitars and accessories, plus mandolins and banjos.

Young, the previous owner, said he will head for Nashville, Tenn., "to do some writing, recording, and hopefully performing." Young was a guitarist and professional musician for 13 years before he opened the music shop two years ago.

SEASHORE REALTY, with offices in Bolinas and Stinson Beach, has changed owners. The two offices are now owned and operated by George F. West and five associates at 22 Brighton Avenue in Bolinas and 3605 Shoreline Highway, Stinson Beach.

Former owner Thomas R. Tawns retired to engage in other business.

MARGARET F. WILLIAMS of San Rafael has been named assistant operations officer in Wells Fargo Bank's Northgate office in San Rafael.

A graduate of Dominican College, she joined Wells Fargo in 1962.

MGM Will Offer Bonds For Hotel

CULVER CITY (BW) — Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Inc. president and chief executive officer James T. Aubrey Jr., has announced that MGM proposes to sell, through an underwritten public offering, $50,000,000 principal amount of collateral trust bonds due 1992.

Aubrey stated that the proceeds of the offering will be used to finance a portion of the costs of the 2,000-room resort hotel and casino being constructed by MGM in Las Vegas.
